1. Help: Need to store data to Yaesu FT-227RH memory

I have one of these transceivers, but have lost the information on storing channel/tone/band data into memory. I accidentally bumped the save memory switch and lost my data. I cannot find the manual with the needed information. I remember the storing of transmitter offsets was VERY non-intuitive. Any helpers out there?

Thanks,

Reminds me of that song, "...I swear there ain't no heaven, and I pray there ain't no hell..."

True, it costs nothing to believe, and could cost you dearly if you don't.
If those who believe are correct, then not everybody will meet their maker, but we all will meet "someone"... it's just a matter of time.

Hi Pete, I used to work on these sets eons ago, can't help much with the battery info as I always used the official charger, though may have a circuit somewhere as I think that was in the main manual Re the programming, it needed a special lead and software, what is not generally known is that the control board was the same in all models, so the PRP76 could be reflashed to a PRP73 etc and UO band could be reprogged to T4 band (which you have) or any band come to that, though the radio board would have to match unfortunatly the UO and T4 freqs could not be had on one set to my knowledge, though the A band would go from 144- 180 in one stretch, they were good sets though a bit fragile, I liked the way the scan groups could be "nested" and the channels could be labelled, and ctcss selected from the keypad. and the way you could invert the display so you could read it hanging upside down from its belt strap, great fun.
If you ever have reason to take it apart watch the main flexi strips as they snap like carrots and god knows where you would get one of those from, even if you could afford it hi!!!!!!!

I sometimes see religion as the mother of all chain letters. It promises great things but if you break the chain, horrible misfortune will fall upon you. Most people won't risk breaking the chain.

There is no risk of meeting our maker. Once your brain ceases working there will be nothing left to do anything.
You obviously believe in a God that wants what you want and that suits your needs.

Hi.

I'm in the need of a HT transformer (230V prim.) and a meter scale for an old AVO valve tester.

A schematic diagram is much appreciated as well as it is build like a rat's nest; eases restoring as don't have to draw it myself.

It is the "two box' model (ca. 1950) with the test instrument in one box and the rollerswitch and tubesockets in the other box.

A complete set for parts may be considered as well.

Tnx,

Ron

That model was discontinued in May 1948. Assuming it is like the pre-war model, it tests all valves at zero grid bias, rather than their usual operating point. Its Gm readings would not be comparable to those from a later tester, or from a valve manual.

Juan,
The accessory jack, pin 2, is ground, and the accessory jack, pin 4 is the 'hot' line for the 'keying' line going to the AL-80.
Pin 8 on the accessory jack is the 'ALC' input on the TS-450, if you want to use it (I wouldn't bother). Normal routing for the coax. That's it...

That's unexpected. We at the UFO Institute have been unable to contact the Greys yet to schedule his abduction. It seems that the HAARP transmitter emits r.f. pulses that the Greys experience as a powerful aphrodesiac, and so they are all up North irradiating themselves and having group sex.

Should KC8JBO still be added to the abduction list?

Hallo!

Some weeks ago I bought a Video Transmitter that can transmit the signal from a Video-Recorder to a distant TV.
Today I opened this device and documented this with my digicam. I uploaded the pictures to http://www.andreas-weller.de/13cm-Video-Transmitter/
Now I have some questions:
Is it possible to expand the transmitting power of this device? What are the 3 variable resistors used for?

Thank you!

21. BBC World Service to cut English HF Broadcasts.

BBC World Service to cut English HF Broadcasts.

Regular listeners to the BBC on HF will be surprised to learn that English language broadcasts will be virtually eliminated July 1st. The folks at Bush House in London think we all have cable modems and will get ï¿½Aunty Beebï¿½ on our computers. Maybe they also believe computers never crash, the internet always works and that we can plug in our modems while away on camping trips. Just as portable HF receivers are cheap and easy to use, they abandon a reliable communications mode on the whim of some internet puppy. Dumb and dumber.

From Shortwave to New Wave

Radio: BBC pulls the plug on 1930s technology by moving its World Service to the Internet in North America.

By DAVID COLKER, Times Staff Writer

From 1932 until long after the sun set on the British empire, the BBC World Service--with its sonorous and reassuring "This is London" at the top of each hour--was heard around the globe via shortwave radio.
June 30 will bring the end of that era in North America when the grand dame of international broadcasting shuts down its shortwave transmitters serving the United States and Canada as well as vast areas of the Pacific. Instead, the venerable broadcaster will distribute its 24-hour service online.
"What we are not doing is saying shortwave is dead," said Jerry Timmins, head of the Americas region for the BBC World Service. "The vast majority of our listeners still access us on shortwave. But a shift is happening, no question about it."
Shortwave radio--the once ubiquitous voice of colonial empire, international intrigue and Cold War propaganda--is falling victim to the rise of the Internet, a medium that's cheaper to run and often more convenient for listeners.
The BBC follows the Voice of America, which already has ended its shortwave broadcasts to the once-pivotal ideological battleground of Central Europe. Smaller operations have made even more drastic cuts. Swiss Radio International has dropped 80% of shortwave programming in favor of the Internet.

In an age of instant satellite broadcasts and international jet travel, the fading of shortwave marks the passing of a romantic time when a faint and tinny voice might serve as the only link to a home half a world away.
When the BBC began broadcasting what was originally called the Empire Service, it was the first live voice many listeners heard from a distant land. During World War II, Allied broadcasts offered hope to occupied Europe. Today, it remains a vital link to the outside world for countries isolated geographically, economically or ideologically.
But shortwave is expensive to operate. Swiss Radio International, for instance, spent more than a third of its $20-million annual budget leasing transmitters in South America. And in many developed and developing countries, more people have computers than shortwave radios. For shortwave broadcasters making the leap to the Internet, it's common sense--and survival.
In the last year, the number of people accessing the World Service online doubled, according to a BBC study, helping the service reach an all-time high of 153 million weekly listeners. The Voice of America Web site includes not only continuous streaming of its broadcasts, but also video of its announcers.
But online radio comes with its own set of problems. Although newer computers running the latest software can handle streaming signals fairly easily, machines just a couple of years old can be difficult to configure. Also, unlike portable shortwave radios, home computers are generally tied to telephone or cable lines--making it tough to listen to a broadcast in the kitchen.
And the model is practical only in places such as the U.S. where Internet access is cheap and reliable. In many countries--even developed nations--unlimited service for a flat monthly fee is unavailable.
Shortwave broadcasters are increasingly partnering with foreign FM and AM stations to pick up their feeds, but this rebroadcast distribution is spotty. For example, the BBC is heard via satellite on numerous public radio stations in the United States including, locally, KCSN-FM (88.5) in Northridge and KPCC-FM (89.3) in Pasadena. But neither of these stations gives the proud BBC anything like prime time--both program it in the after-midnight hours.
On the Internet, however, the World Service is always there, live and ready to be accessed by anyone with a fairly new home computer and the free software needed to run streaming audio. Most shortwave sites also feature an extensive audio-on-demand archive of programs. The BBC even makes its most recent top-of-the-hour news broadcast accessible any time that hour.
On-air announcements of the BBC shortwave cutbacks are scheduled to begin this month, Timmins said, and they are not likely to be received kindly by stalwart listeners. "The World Service generates enormous loyalty," Timmins said. In 1996, when cost-cutting British officials proposed internal changes in the service, protests were voiced by such luminaries as Nelson Mandela and the Dalai Lama.

Shortwave radio grew in popularity in the 1930s because it could cover a much wider area than AM or FM signals. By bouncing signals off Earth's ionosphere, shortwave broadcasters were able to beam their messages farther.
If a day can be pinpointed when the mystique of shortwave began to die, it was July 10, 1962, when Telstar, the first communications satellite, relayed a broadcast to France. In the following years, high-quality radio and television broadcasts from far reaches of the globe became common. Satellites also made telephone communications more efficient and cheaper.
These relayed broadcasts were not only of far better quality, they were much more dependable and did not have to rely on dizzying schedules of frequency shifts tailored to changes in ionospheric conditions.
Internet broadcasting is cheaper and simpler still, and offers users considerably more flexibility in when they want to hear certain programs.
Nonetheless, some shortwave broadcasters--especially those that don't specifically target the United States, where shortwave has not been a popular medium for decades--have assured listeners they will maintain their broadcast schedule, even while bolstering their online services.
"We have no plans to cut back on shortwave," said Peter Verschoor, head of Radio Netherlands' online service. "Radio Netherlands serves certain areas, like Indonesia, where there are many people who do not have Internet connections. For them, we provide basic communication about the world."
Radio Australia, which primarily aims its shortwave broadcasts toward the Asian Pacific, is in a similar situation. "In the United States you are used to getting onto the Internet for as long as you want," said Jean-Gabriel Manguy, head of RA. "But in many other countries you pay by the minutes and seconds. It makes it very expensive.
"In a place like Fiji, you pay for an international phone call just to log on. No one is going to listen to streaming audio there for long." Nonetheless, RA streams online continuously, not only in English, but also in Chinese, Indonesian and Tok Pisin, which is spoken in Papua New Guinea.
Deutsche Welle Radio of Germany streams in all 31 of its broadcast languages, including Sanskrit, an ancient language of India now largely unused. But DW is not contemplating a shortwave cutback.
"Shortwave would probably not be the best way to reach an audience in the U.S., but for much of the rest of the world it makes sense," said Holger Hank of DW.
The savings of online distribution are formidable. Before its cutbacks, Swiss Radio International spent $7 million just to lease and use transmitters to target South America.
"We have cut out all our Spanish and Portuguese programs," said Peter Hufschmid, director of multimedia at SRI. Within two or three years, the service will also phase out German, French and Italian, even though they are the official languages of Switzerland.

"The only language we are keeping is English," said Hufschmid.
"The political interest of Switzerland is strongly geared to North America. That might be why English is so important to the politicians in this country who give us the money to fund the service."
In Central Europe, the Voice of America is primarily distributing to partner stations via satellite. But the VOA has also begun posting its programming in Polish, Hungarian, Czech and other languages to its site in MP3 format, which provides better audio quality.
"I'm convinced we have more listeners in those languages now," said VOA director Sanford Ungar. And so shortwave will hold on at least for the foreseeable future. But its days as a major medium for state-owned international broadcasters probably are numbered. Ungar feels no nostalgia in the face of its probable passing.
"I think that if the signal is clearer and easier to tune in, that's progress, whether it's on a radio station or a Web site," he said. "Maybe there are some people who think it's romantic to have trouble hearing the radio, but not me."

Are you concerned about what is legal in your country?
It is possible that devices like that are already at the maximum legal power.

If you want to increase transmitting range you could try the usual techniques:
* Position TX and RX line of sight aimed at each other.
* Decrease or eliminate objects (walls, etc.) between TX and RX. Even if you have to run video and audio cables over to a window, it is far less loss than running low-power RF through walls(!)
* Investigate tapping the RF (on TX and/or RX) and sending to larger/more efficient antenns.

> What are the 3 variable resistors used for?

I'd bet that they are NOT involved in setting RF output levels.
I wouldn't touch them without at least a schematic diagram.

If Nextel, or any other cell phone provider for that matter, could "kill" ham radio in your area, then it deserved to die!

Amateur radio was NEVER intended to be a substitute for phone service. We have provided communications in disaster areas, but as an adjunct to temporarily overloaded phone service.

If your only use for amateur radio has been as a cheap mobile phone, then by all means, go sign up for that cell phone service. The bulk of the amateur radio operators will never miss you and your 2 meter intercom
"ham" friends.

Brings a whole new meaning to the phrase:

The small vertical PCboard is the actual transmitter
Those tree var. resistors are part of the video modulator increasing power is very hard to do , try to remove the RF part from the unit build it into a connectionbox from a real 13 cm yagi antenna and reconect it by a multiwire screened cable

Do the same with the RF part from the reception unit

For tapping the RF from the tx and feeding it in a antenna you'l need a very low loss coax cable , so that is not adviseble transporting the video signal to the remote RF unit is much easier
With good 13 cm yagi antenna's over open space , even with this small power
, range cuild be 20 km and more

Well, as you say, it never was meant to be free mobile phone service; however, several weeks ago the stupid phones were out in our building (I carry my 440 rig for chats at times) - every pay phone was out of order and the business phones couldn't dial outside (they are supposed to). While a bunch of people were busy asking others 'can I borrow your cell phone?', I simply punched the code into the repeater. Works great (NOT its' intended usage, but when the lines are down - funny how the battery HTs or the mobile HF rigs still work just dandy!).

ps - pass along to the cell phone suppliers up North and East of Syracuse, NY, how well they worked in that big ice storm a couple of years ago. They were begging for mobile HF hams. You get outages for hundreds of miles in all directions and all bets are off for the telephone and internet.

See if there are resistors from the emitters of the driver / output transistors to the earth. You can try lowering their value. Do it only if you feel lucky.. -) You can cause damage !!!
Safer bt not foolprooof: try puting a small capacitor in parallel with them...

Be carefull and good luck..
And... let us know if it worked..

If you plan to operate mobile or portable, it would be a good choice.
To me, the best looking "first rig" or entry rig, for fixed use is the ICOM IC-718. It may be a bit easier to operate, larger display, built-in SWR meter, too, I think.

They Yaesu 840 is comparable, but being a few years older, has fewer features than the ICOM, for about the same price.

Just one opinion. If you want to try an older used rig, there are many other choices, of course.

How humiliating that I never even realized that as I tried to have the last word down on r.r.a.m.! I thought it was pathology but never even considered the bot hypothesis.

But, Mr Public, your hypothesis satisfies Occam's Razor -- the claim that the simplest theory which explains all of the facts is probably the correct one.

Yes indeed! There is no doubt that "kc8jbo" is really a bot with a very limited data base of filth words.

I should have seen that from the beginning.

Yeah...come six thirty or so he will wake up and run right to his computer to see what was said about him. He will then post more filth as usual. By the time he gets done shooting his dirty mouth it will be time to wake his mom up and take her to church. After church he will come back home, eat some pabulum, return to his computer and send yet more garbage while his mommy is taking a nap. He will be sure his mommy is out of the room so he can engage in some self-abuse while writing. After that he will lurk on the computer all day since he has no social life and no friends save for his little stuffed teddy bear.
You can almost envision it...Rog bent over and typing furiously away on his Microsoft keyboard while his spittle sprays like a coarse fog....his thinning hair flying about as his head frantically swivels to and fro and his eyes bugging out while reading the posts about him as he traverses from one news group to the other. The best part is his anger....that is apparent when he types so fast that he misspells...THAT is a sure sign that he is so beside himself that he begins to lose touch. Roger has no social life aside from these news groups and his right hand. This is his pathetic life. This is all he has.
The Rog Bot will strike in a few hours and it is highly likely that the Rog Bot will, for lack of originality, plagiarize this post as has been his usual operating procedure.

I have noticed the same signals on 30 meters. Sometime time ago another commerical using a wider shift and encryption.

That is the best answer I could give at the moment.

We have just recently discovered that "KC8JBO" is really a bot. It automatically responds to all posts that it sees by using a random phrase generator which has a very limited vocabulary. The bot is run by Steve Gielda at COTSE and is a failed experiment in artificial intelligence.

Wow! Stagger Lee, Reginald, Snot Bomb, and Boris sure have Roger going in circles. It would be nice though if Roggie would post something of redeeming value. All I see are the same old tired responses. If you have read one of Roger's responses, then you've read them all.
Good boy, Roger. Good boy. Sit, boy, sit. Say something filthy. Good boy!

Hi there,

I'm looking for a good clear scan of the schematics for the amp section of a Kenwood TR-751A 2 meter all mode rig. Specificly detailing C1 and Q2, these parts have been cooked and I need to find out what they are, and the part numbers.... it wouldn't hurt to have the schematics either.

If some one can tell me the part numbers, or scan a copy of the schematics of the amp section and e-mail it to me, I would greatly appreciate it.

* PLEASE NOTE: The report "could" contain "Pirate/SLIM" operations. As always, you never know - "Work First Worry Later" (WFWL).
OPDX InterNet Subscribers will receive an additional bulletin (due to its size) with a complete breakdown and "DXCC/Entities Chart of Activity".

3B6RF OPERATION MAY BE QRT, BUT HELP IS NEEDED! The 3B6RF team managed to log 64,207 QSOs in 8.5 days, but all of these QSOs came with a big price tag. The 3B6RF's operation time was expected to be 15 days but had to be cut back due to transportation problems. These problems caused an unexpected expense. Preliminary estimates have put their travel expenses at approximately $48,000 over cost just to get to Agalega and back. OPDX was told the team still does not know how this is going to be covered and is still up in the air. The 3B6RF team is counting on the generousity of the ham community with QSL donations and possibly some added donations from DX associations. Please remember to possibly add something a little extra in your SASE for your 3B6RF. Steve, N3SL, is handling the N.A. QSLs, all other areas QSL via HB9AGH.

4W, EAST TIMOR. Thor, 4W6MM, can usually be found on 15 or 20 meters a few kHz up from the band edge between 0930 and 1300z.

7Q, MALAWI. Five Japanese operators will be active from here June 6-19th. Operators will be Mizuho/JG6BKB (7Q7CW), Yoshiki/JR6XIW (7Q7DU), JJ6VOV (7Q7EN), Kazuaki/JA2LZF (7Q7KZ) and Okabe/7Q7YL (who will stay there for the next two years). Activity is expected on HF and 6 meters. QSL all to JG6BKB, except 7Q7KZ is via JA2LZF.

BX5, TAIWAN (New Prefix). Jimmy, BX5AA, has activated the new prefix and has been on 15/20 meters SSB/ MFSK16. Watch between 1500 and 1800z, around 14079.5 kHz for MFSK16 and between 21250 and 21275 kHz for SSB.

CE0Z, JUAN FERNANDEZ ISLAND. Elias, CE0ZIS, has been active on 15/12/10 meters this past week. Check around 21260, 24936 and 28495 kHz between 1330 and 2200z.

CQ7, PORTUGAL. Now through possibly June 10th, look for the Moscatel Radio Group will be active as CQ7MRG from Mouchao da Povoa (reference number RI-008 for the Portuguese Island Award). Activity will be mainly 40 meters.

EM, UKRAINE (Free Award!). The Ukranian Amateur Radio League (UARL) will be active in the IARU HF World Championship, July 14-15th, from the UARL Headquarters using the special callsign EM0HQ. The HQ station's site (UR4MZL) is in Lisichansk city. The team leader is Vladimir, UX2MM. The QSL Manager for the team is Shevchenko Alexader, UR5EAW. The team is hoping to hit the World record. A "FREE" award is availble for working this station with "NO APPLICATION" to fill out. To receive the UARL's "Ukraine 2000" award, the rules are simple:
1) Work EM0HQ during theWorld Championship
2) For DX stations - 2 QSOs any mode
3) For European station - 4 QSOs any mode.
Again, NO award application is needed. The award application is the log of EM0HQ. The award is free and is sent through the bureau. This information was provide by Alexander, UR5EAW, QSL Manager for EM0HQ. For any questions, send E-mail to: em0hq@qsl.net

EP, IRAN. Yar, EP3SP, can sometimes be found on 20 meters CW/SSB/RTTY between 1500 and 2030z. Check above 14200 (SSB) or 14090 (RTTY) and 14002 (CW) kHz. QSL via W3HC. Mohsen, EP3SMH, is also active and usually looking for the U.S. on 15 meters. Check around 21300 kHz and above after 1730z. For Europe, look on 10 meters around 28495 kHz beginning around 1730z. QSL via CBA.

FP, ST. PIERRE AND MIQUELON ISLAND. Wendell, K4JZ, reports that his "Poor Boy DX-Pedition" is on schedule. He will be leaving Kentucky on June 9th and hopes to arrive on St. Pierre et Miquelon Island on June 14th or 15th. His callsign will be FP/K4JZ. His activity will be on 40-10 meters SSB.

IOTA NEWS.....
NA-125. Gilles, VE2MAM, will sign VE2MAM/p from an island in the Quebec Province (St. Lawrence Gulf) West Group, June 16-21st. Activity will be on 20-10 meters SSB, possibly 80/40 meters also. QSL via the bureau to the homecall.

The four operators were active over the past weekend from one of Crete's coastal islands named Chrysi Island (EU-187) using J49HW/P, J49DX/P and J49NG/P. QSL via their homecall or via HA Bureau.

KG4, GUANTANAMO BAY. Tip, N4SIA, informs OPDX that he will be active as KG4AS from July 3-10th. There were no details provided on what bands and modes of activity. QSL to N4SIA.

KG4, GUANTANAMO BAY. Pat Rose, W5OZI, and Dale Richardson, AA5XE, will operate from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (FK29, NA015), during the period of June 29th through July 5th. Area clearance has been granted and callsigns will be announced later. Operation will be primarily on SIX meters with possible activity on HF. Proposed frequencies will be 50.102 MHz for CW/SSB, QSX 50.115 or operators instructions if pileups are large. There will be a breakable beacon on 50.102 MHz and the operators will man the station to the maximum extent possible. Equipment will be an Icom IC-706MKIIG and a Kenwood TS-60, both running 100 watts to an 8 element yagi. QSL to home callsigns, SASE or SAE plus 1 IRC please. This is a bare bones trip and they will not have computer logging or logs on the internet. They hope to put as many stations in the log as possible. Dupes are OK. Full calls ONLY! They do NOT care about your grid, just callsign and signal report. They will make an effort to work Europe, Africa, N. and S. America. Questions can be submitted to:
W5OZI < w5ozi@ktc.com > -or- AA5XE < aa5xe@ktc.com >

MOUNTAIN DXPEDITION (Update). In July, a group of Tajik Hams/Tourists are planning to climb a nameless peak on the Central Pamir mountainous system and name it "Radio Amateur's Peak". At the present, paperwork is in progress, but the actual name can be allocated only after the expedition, and this will involve many other factors. Altitude of this mountain is about 5800 meters above sea level. The ham operators involved are Vladimir/EY8HB, Faruh/EY8AV and Nodir/EY8MM. Faruh/EY8AV will stay in the base camp and coordinate the trip for EY8HB and EY8MM who will attack the mountain's peak. A special callsign was requested and they hope to sign EY1ARP. It will be used only from the top of the mountain. All other times the operators will sign homecall/4. The equipment to be used is an IC-706MK2G and QMAC-HF90 TXCVRS. For 20 meters, they will have a wire vertical made from a light weight fishing rod. For 40 meters, they will use an Inverted Vee. This expedition will be limited to battery power for which they will carry 7AH batteries to the peak. They will save the power for the mountain top operations and for emergencies. For a few more details, pictures of the moutain, and possible updates, check the following Web page: http://www.qsl.net/ey8mm/ey1arp.html

OY, FAROE ISLANDS. Ari, OH7KA/OH3KAV, will be active from the Faroe Islands during his vacation there from June 6-10th. This is not a high profile DXpedition, but he will try to be on the air at least few hours each day, mainly on 20 meters CW. His callsign will be OY/OH7KA. QSL via OH3KAV.

Dennis, RZ1AK, is providing some tips on how to send direct QSLs to Russia and CIS on his Web page. His Web service is so useful, that he has received many thank you E-mails. You might want to check it out at: http://www.qsl.net/rz1ak/mail.html

QSL REQUEST. OPDX has been asked to find out what the QSL status is of the XR0ZY operation that took place in April 2000. Apparently, a bunch of Minnesota DXers have tried everything they can think of, including E-mails to the QSL Manager, etc. and haven't gotten this one confirmed. Can anyone help?

If you would be kind enough to drop your racist prejudice you would notice that this message is crossposted to a couple of non-Dutch groups as well.

Hi.

I'm in the need of a HT transformer (230V prim.) and a meter scale for an old AVO valve tester.

A schematic diagram is much appreciated as well as it is build like a rat's nest; eases restoring as don't have to draw it myself.

It is the "two box' model (ca. 1950) with the test instrument in one box and the rollerswitch and tubesockets in the other box.

A complete set for parts may be considered as well.

PSE reply by e-mail.

Tnx,

Ron

Greetings,

The Beacon-Time Wizard, BTW, is a group of beacon information views and tools to enhance the enjoyment and usefulness of the NCDXF/IARU International Beacon Network and HF radio operation.

BTW occupies a small portion of the desktop and at the click of a button provides various tools and alternate "views" with information on each beacon and additional information for the currently active beacon station.

The Control Palette is the main user interface element. It's configurable, occupies only a small portion of the desktop, and at the click of a button various tools and views are available.

Alternate beacon views include:
1) BW - an enhanced version of our traditional "Beacon Wizard" palette

2) Clocks - analog clocks display time for each beacon location

3) Map - an accurate, sizable geographic display with solar "gray line".

Additionally, BTW provides:
1) HF propagation and forecast - a convenient method to retrieve and view current, and predicted, HF propagation condition reports from The Space Environment Center.

2) SNTP - Simple Network Time Protocol tool for keeping the system clock adjusted.

3) KCal - a special version of our calendar for viewing sunrise/sunset and moon rise/moon set times for any day, along with general seasonal information.

4) Time Zone Browser - a tool for viewing available system time zone information.

The BTW web page:
http://www.taborsoft.com/btw/

This is a fully-functional 30-day trial. Any comments welcome.

Interesting how those who think someone shouldn't be heard will jump on the internet and advertise them far and wide. Doesn't make a lick of sense to me.

Blackie has been around longer than most posters are old.
What he says is his right to free speech.
Its the old story if you do not like it turn the dial.
Some must like it for they listen and then complain

Hallo!

Now I know what the 3 variable resistors are used for:
One is for the Video level. The other one is used to tune the transmitting frequency. The last resistor alters the "channel interval"
- sorry for my bad english but I don't know the word to describe the MHz difference between two channels :-)

I now think about building an amplifier for this module - anybody here who knows something about MMICs? How to use them? Which gain can be reached? Can I cascade them?

Thank you!

Greetings!

Up for sale is a Dentron MLA-2500 160-10 meter amp! This one peaks at 1700 watts, and will do 1,200 all day long! Excellent cooling fan! I've run it all night on 75 meters at legal limit and it's cool to the touch! Pending divorce and subsequent move to apartment living (Ugh!) forces the sale of this amp. $795 plus shipping gets you an AWESOME desktop amp that is fully capable of legal limit. If you need a pic, e-mail me. I purchased this from Murray, K5MDM of Radio Ranch fame, so you KNOW it's good! (Kudos to you, Murray...you've never let me down yet!) In about 76 I think VK1AOP and VK1ZX both bought one of these radios.
If you look them up in the callbook you might be able to get a copy of the circuit.

OK, I'll bite...

There is no Jack Campbell, from Ohio, listed on QRZ. He is no ham but knows code. This illustrates that "no ham = no code" is false. Commutatively, this proves the falseness of the assertion: "no code = no ham".

Hi all,
I am trying to talk the owner of my flight school into offering to let hams fly aero-mobile expeditions over the NV and AZ deserts. Typical flights would be 1 to 2 hours long and the radio is included. Only operations on the 20 or 10 M will be allowed. Here are my questions:

How many hams would consider running Aero-Mobile while vacationing here in Vegas.
How much would you be willing to pay for the flight?

But since when is that relationship been proven to be an EQUATION, i.e.

References made to "frequency X", whatever that is. What gives?
Where's R.H.? This QRM nonsense got to stop before it starts

Is there no end to Roger's cruelty? Roger, Riley Hollingsworth's best buddy. Roger, the petulant, home-bound apron-stringed momma's boy. Roger, the boy/man in a woman's body.
Hey Rog? Waiting like a vulture on a fence for your mom do die so you can finally own a house of your own? Still feeding her all those greasy foods so her arteries harden faster? Still jumping out of your closets and scaring her in hopes her heart stops? (You DID come out of the closet, didn't you?) Good thing for her you live in a single story house cause you'd have pushed her down the steps a long time ago.

Roger will awaken from his mommy's bed around 6:15 or 6:30 a.m. and run to his puter to see what was said about him....
He will then post more filth....
He is not a retest...he is a retard. A filthy retard. A vile and sick retard. A fat, slobbering, sexually perverted retard. Roger, with obese fat "handles" hanging from his pear-shaped body in search of unsuspecting little boys. Beady little eyes and wet lips searching maniacally through AOL looking for unsuspecting pre-teen boys. Sicko Roger, drooling over pre-pubescent photos of innocents and hoping, Oh! The Hope!, of having the chance to initiate them.
Poor Roger. Poor old 46 year old Roger. The boy has no idea of what heterosexual relations are. He has only read about them. He tried to have sex one time several years ago, but the neighbors caught him and penned their dog up. Rog apologized and even sent flowers to the deflowered dog, but to no avail. The dog underwent counseling and has since recovered. Roger continues to profess his undying love for the mongrel and looks longingly at the deflowered mutt as she parades her "stuff" in the neighborhood. Rumor is that Roger will be petitioning the Court for visitation rights so that he can see his beloved again. The neighbors have threatened to have the object of Roger's affection spayed and at last call Roger was said to be going into a real tizzy. He told the neighbor that this union is his last chance to carry on the Wiseman blood line. The neighbor and the dog were not swayed by Roger's emotional plea.
Roger's hopes were not completely dashed by the ruling. He discovered that the neighbor has a cat......

Oh, yes. Dimmy O'Failure and his Sally Struthers Gin Mill school diploma is going nowhere fast. Rental house with no drywall on the studs, septic bubbling up in the back yard, one car that barely runs, no savings account, no checking account and no credit with reliable firms.
When his car goes belly up they will go to the corner car lot with the big red and yellow sign that says, "U Work, U Ride". Trouble is that he doesn't work. His wife does.
Slob sits in front of the rental TV and slurps down cheap Old Milwaukee all day and calls everybody else losers. Go figure.
Hey, O'Felon. Where's that $80,000 per year job you been bragging you would git? Ya gotta git off yer fat ass and go looking. They aren't gonna come knocking on your little red rented shack and beg you to come work for them, and even if they did they'd have to come after one in the afternoon cause you don't get out of bed before noon. Sleeping off those all night drunks takes time.

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
QSL REQUEST ANSWERED. Last week OPDX was asked to find out what the QSL status of the XR0ZY operation that took place in April 2000. Apparently, many throughout the world have received their QSL card with no problem. XR0ZY was an operation by KM9D. The QSL Manager is OM2SA: Juraj Sipos, 93013 Trhova Hradska 550, Republic of Slovakia, Europe.

QSL REQUEST. Stations VO7A, VO1W, and VO1X were active in the CQ WPX CW Contest. Does anyone have QSL info for these unusual callsigns?

3B6RF UPDATE: Steve, N3SL, informs OPDX that he now has the "official" logs from 3B6RF after the cleanup. The cleanup was able to happen thanks to the forethought of Riki, 4X4NJ, to have paper (log) backups. Steve states in case some other errors in band or mode were missed, he will be happy to accept requests for log checks from anyone who still sees a discrepancy. Steve's E-mail address is: N3SL@aol.com Cards are still on track to be delivered to the group at Friedrichshafen (the last weekend of June), so Steve expects the N.A. batch to arrive stateside in mid-July. They will start going out as soon as possible. The label program is ready, and the cards are sorted. People should expect them no earlier than late July-early August.

6W1/F5PHW and J28BS LOGS ONLINE. Phil, F5PHW, informs OPDX that his logs for his old DXpeditions are now available. For his J28BS operation (January 1993, October-November 1994, April 1999) go to the Web page: http://www.ve9dx.com/f5phw/j28bs.html
For his 6W1/F5PHW operation (April-May-June 1994, May 1997) go to the Web page: http://www.ve9dx.com/f5phw/6w1-f5phw.html

Jean, F6AJA, reports that all direct requests for F6BFH/P from Molene Island are now on their way. Also, all HPx/F5PAC direct requests from Joel are on the way.

Lot, DJ7ZG, informs OPDX that direct QSLs for both him and his XYL as HI9/DJ7ZG and HI9/DL7AFS in March 2001, have been sent out. They made 16500 QSOs. QSLs for their ZB2 and EA9 operation in April/May 2001, are now at the printers'. They made 13300 QSOs. All QSLs are via Babs, DL7AFS. Their home page includes their logs at: http://www.qsl.net/dl7afs

FG/RW3QC was active from Guadeloupe Island in the CQ WPX CW Contest. QSL via bureau or direct to RN3OA: Igor Zakharov, P.O. Box 381, Voronezh, 394000, Russia.

QSLs for J6/LA4LN and J73ALN (December 2000/January 2001) received before April 1st have all been answered. QSLs received after that date will hopefully be answered before Tom, LA4LN, leaves for JW. NOTE: Postage in Norway will be increased 25% July 1st. After that date one "green stamp" will no longer cover the postage for one QSL card from Norway.

A QSL MANAGER'S QSL MANAGER! Well known QSL Manager Steve, KU9C, announced this week that he will have the honor of serving as W3HNK's QSL Manager (yes, that isn't a mistake!) for his operation earlier this year in FS5/PJ7. Steve states, "To put a face along with one of the more famous calls in the hobby of DXing, I've done a picture QSL card ..... and I've just received delivery information on the card. I expect to have the card in hand around June 20th....and expect to have all of the direct QSL requests out by the end of June.

The station signing TM6JUN, which was active until June 10th from Utah Beach, is to be QSLed via F2RO.

Edwin, ZS5BBO, will be going QRT beginning about June 23rd for a few months. The reason is that Edwin and Janet/ZS5JAN have bought a new QTH and will be relocating. Edwin also states, that his QSL Manager duties will also take a break as well while they settle down. However, he mentions that he posted a couple hundred cards recently. So if you have sent a card for any of the callsigns listed below, please don't send another card as your cards will be answered. Please be patient. Edwin is the QSL Manager for the following: ZS5BBO, ZS5JAN, ZS5T, ZS3MM, 7Q7BO, GM3WOJ, GM7V, GM8V and GZ7V.

QSL via French Bureau or direct to CBA 2001.

TX0, CHESTERFIELD ISLAND (Update/Help Needed). Bill, VK4FW, informed the DX community that they have lost some of the operators who were going on this dxpedition. Primarily, most of them have not been able to get the necessary time off work. If you would like to go on this trip, please E-mail Bill direct at: vk4fw@spiderweb.com.au Dates for the operation are September 1-19th. Each operator is paying 2500 USD for their spot without personal expenses. Most of the equipment is secure and finalized. The primary goal of this operation is to make sure that anyone who needs this for a new one will get in the log at least once. Time is short. If you would like to go, you will need to E-mail Bill now.

Amateur Radio Lighthouse Society (ARLHS)
<http://ARLHS.COM>

Dear Editor:

The ARLHS is the world's largest amateur radio society devoted exclusively to ham radio and lighthouses. Less than a year old, our membership already totals several hundred worldwide, with an average of 2 new members being added every day. In addition to sponsoring expeditions to lighthouses and lightships around the world on a weekly basis, we also sponsor four operating events throughout the year. The next events are the immensely popular NLLW and ILLW annual operating events. (The latter event is in co-sponsorship with GM4SUC.) We offer an extensive lighthouse awards program and maintain perhaps the internet's largest and most complete list of the lighthouses and lightships of the world.

Any publicity you can give our NLLW and ILLW lighthouse operating events would be appreciated. Full details can be found on our web pages.

(1) National Lighthouse / Lightship Weekend -- NLLW
August 4 & 5, 2001. Guidelines are on the web page
<http://www.waterw.com/%7eweidner/arlhs/page2a.html>
For the first time awards and prizes are offered for this event.
The prize drawing is an exquisitely detailed miniature collectible lighthouse, signed limited edition, donated by one of our sponsors, Harbour Lights.

(2) International Lighthouse / Lightship Weekend -- ILLW
August 18 & 19, 2001. Guidelines are on the web page
<http://www.waterw.com/%7eweidner/arlhs/page2b.html>

Our main web site is at <http://arlhs.com> and it contains our stated purposes in sponsoring expeditions to remote lighthouses as well as details about our worldwide organization, the largest ham radio society devoted to lighthouse/lightship operations. Membership details and FAQs are also accessible from this main page.

Hey, if it isn't Polly PARROT! Hey, Polly, did you get any more letters about your jamming lately? Are you still sorry you drove your own daughter to suicide? Poor thing was so abused she took a drug overdose.

Polly, why is it after you received your most recent letter, you quit jamming and making unidentified comments on 14.275 and 3.901?
And let's not mention the bogus complaints you sent in to the FCC to get people you don't like off the air. But, lying to the FCC is exactly how you got out of the following:

February 7, 2001

CERTIFIED MAIL–RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. George A. Ashley 1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashely:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.
1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.
2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sorry to rain on you trash mouths parade, but W4FQF is still a amateur radio operator with station license and operators license. That little trick of playing bogus tapes on 3901 did not work, The other part of the story is not in the Rain Report files , (The FCC sent W4FQF a letter accepting the stations explanation explaining in detail the reason the charges were not true... Sorry trash mouths, W4FQF is still around!!!!! When he wants to be..... As for grave dancing because some one lost a child, Super pro and Roger , that is your style, the lowest of the low.... I have four 87 ft red pine poles drying in my back yard. I would love to put up a rhombic but my farm doesn't have enough free space. I figure the next best thing is a 7 el wire beam. Dimensions are as follows:
Ref 445/f
Dir 411/f (total of 5 Directors)
Spacing 295/f This is a BIG antenna!
Plan to operate at 14.175 Mhz
The design comes from The Antenna Handbook by Clem Small.
Oddly enough, no gain or F/B figures are given. Will someone please model this and let me know the gain, rad angle, F/B etc. Post results here.

Hello everybody,

Does anyone have any information re. professional services available to correct (restore) small nicks or surface blems on older CB or amateur rigs? Most "vintage radio" restoration shops appear to specialize in restoring the "functionality" only and I have that base covered. I tried performing a Google search for various "cosmetic" restoration services and I got everything from plastic coating for old wooden radios to plastic surgery.:-D I'm no real collector, however I was able to bag my old 1977 "dream" CB set-up and am looking for a "mint" FT-757GX as well.

The radio is a President Madison, (FCC type certified and completely unmodified!) circa 1977, "brand new in the box." Didn't really believe it until I removed it from the box to find ALL the protective plastic bags and card stock perfectly intact. All works well, however...there appears to be ONE very small surface blem; (possibly during manufacture) A very small nick on the to edge of the front faceplate bezel. Since I'm not a collector and plan on using this rig, I don't mind spending the money required to correct this small, but nonetheless present, blemish. I've provided a link to a similar rig so you can get a feel of the radio. It's not in pristine condition but it's the same model. Thanks so much for any help you may render.

I have a Radio Shack discone (the kind with the VHF-Lo whip and can be used for 6M and up transmit) with about 50 feet of 75ohm RG-6 coax. The RG-6 is because I was using with my scanner and it's a lot cheaper than RG-8 (what I use for my 2M and 440 antenna), but now I would like to try 6M transmit. I have a Yaesu VX-5 HT with 5 watts on 6M FM. Will I fry my HT (or have an unacceptable SWR) if I try to use it with the 75 ohm RG-6 coax? I want to test it out and see if I can get into some of the local 6M repeaters...if I can, I'll probably put up a dedicated 6M antenna with 50 ohm coax.

You got that right pal! Back when he still had his ham radio call (aa8dp) he would get on 3.950 and other 75M frequencies with the most way out, wacky stuff you ever heard. He was even tossed off of the "Great Liberty Net" for his lunatic rants about chemtrails and the "british admirlity reagant". (I'm still tryin to figure out what the phuck that is....)

The best night was when he went head-to-head with Reily Hollingsworth of the FCC on 3.860! Steve tried to convince Reily that the FCC was an agent of the UN and the IMF thru the most convoluted logic I'd ever heard. Something about how FDR had "established" the FCC in the 30's and how the Communications Act of 1934 was written by a cabal of European bankers (the Warburgs and law firm of Khun and Loeb) to control American Broadcasting. on....and on......and on......for 15 minutes. You could almost hear the theme song to the Twilight Zone playing in the background folks...

Reily patiently waited till Steve unkeyed, and told him in no uncertain terms that he needed to switch off his radio, take a sedative and go to bed for 12 hours.

Of course, this put Steve "over-the-edge" and he started frothing at the mouth (...or microphone) with his usual sophmoric and paranoid rants.

It was a classic ham radio moment. Glub I wish I'd have taped it but I was too busy ROTFLMAO at the on-the-air proceedings.

Find some way to check the swr and see what it is. If under 2:1 don't worry. The 50 feet of 70 ohm stuff will usually overide most of the antenna missmatch anyway. That will get you in the range of 1.5 to 1. Unless hooking up to my weak signal antennas I very seldom worry if it is 50 or 70 ohm coax.

At 6 meters I doubt that you could tell the differance in the losses of rg-6 and rg-8 in actual use for runs of under 100 feet.

If anyone suspects this Anderson guy of being able to or perpetrating the kind of terror associated with McVeigh, call your local police or FBI office. We can't take chances.

By the way when McVeigh's corpse was taken out of the pen on the way to the funeral home for cremation yesterday, one of the bystanders, upon asking a stretcher carrier was it was under the sheet, heard, "Drug collateral damage."

You can work it out yourself....

SWR resistive is the ratio of the resistances.

75 ohms/ 50 ohms is : x.xx SWR
And the results are PERFECTLY acceptable for ANY radio.

Man, Ill tell you. You people argue like a bunch of 3rd graders. Is everyone here a drunkin looser? I mean, you people open your mouth's and any decent person can tell you are uneducated. You people make attacks on people about molesting children. Thats nothing to even talk about. If you really believe, and can prove, that is occuring, THEN REPORT IT TO LAW ENFORCEMENT. Talking about someone's family and making attacks of personal character just makes you sound like an idiot. I know you will more than likely come back on me and start in with me, that is fine. In my opinion, YOU should loose you license. But you people are not smart enough to figure that out are you??? You people are pathetic and lame as they get

Well, many of them are - since Riley ran them off the ham bands.

Which is exactly why they are here now and not on the bands...

It's no big deal - just put them in your kill file and they're history...

Many of them have, and many more will - that's why they post here...

Yep, but like I said, it's easy to put them in your kill file and then they are no more problem. After all, there are a few good posters on this group and I would not want to miss their posts - otherwise you could just killfile the whole newsgroup.

Why do conspiracy nuts hate Brits so much? LaRouche has it in for the Queen, and David Icke thinks the royals are 12 foot tall alien lizards

You need the free RealPlayer8 Basic Plugin.

It's at: http://www.real.com/player/index.html?src=010605realhome_1

Halfway down the page is a link that says: "RealPlayer8 Basic - It's our free player"

Well, someone has already called me a dirty spick. HA! Call me what you will. Senior in college here. Speak 3 languages... FLUENTLY! I am very well educated. So, for the people who have sent me the "kind" e-mails calling me names such as spick, wetback, dirty mexican, ect ect ect... HA HA HA!!! Number one, im not mexican, I am Costa Rican. As far as calling my parents "illegals" that is far from the truth. Both of my parents were college educated in los estados unidos (The United States) and make VERY good money, so furthermore, when you drink you beer and get fat, I am in school gaining knowledge and getting ready to start a good future for myself. Either way, at the end of the day, you are still looser's. Knowledge is Power... So, go on and be white trash. I dont care. Either way, I WIN!

CW may be points, but you have to have good morse skills to work code in a contest. taint for the faint of heart. we'll probably be doing just voice and data. got one guy trying for a satellite contact, publicity's done, the natural power system is being set up, and another guy wants to make some QRP contacts.

I'm hoping for a storm free weekend myself. last few days, we've had some doozies. About a week or so ago, saw a curtain of lightning start off in the distance west of me and then traverse up and follow the cloud layer to the east of my location. very impressive, wished i could have had a camera running for that one. Lightning everywhere. I hope mother nature will have this out of her system by a week from saturday.

I had a colleague from Brazil, and based on his beliefs I would guess the Enquirer is their notion of the newspaper of record. He was convinced that all the world's evils, especially the economic woes of his country, were the product of a plot between the CIA, the British royal family, and the Israeli government. This guy had a doctorate from Stanford, no less.

When I asked him for a written article documenting his assertion that Brits were running wild in the streets of England, shooting
German tourists, he accused me of calling him a liar, and never spoke to me again.

Well, it's a good thing that you, at least, can write message in this NG that doesn't tell other people that they are "a drunkin looser", idiots, pathetic and lame. Oops, hang on! You just did!

Your message is a good example of it in action.

Well, the high moral tone didn't last long did it? In the space of a few short hours, you have become what you hate - someone who is happily getting stuck into everyone, exhibits elistist tendencies and puts forward racist stereotypes.

A student, it would seem. While this, of course, does lead to a possibly incorrect assumption about your age, it would explain a lot.
Going to school and gaining knowledge is a worthwhile pastime, but you will hopefully learn later that knowledge and wisdom are not the same thing. Stupidity and education are no mutually exclusive.

One day, you may learn that you do not stop people who call names by doing exactly the same thing. All you do is reinforce their view that this is acceptable. They do it, you do it - it must be the way everyone does it. They will not hear you screaming at them as they will be too busy trying to scream back over the top of you.

Besides which, for many people here, baiting others is a sport, no, an art form. In fishing terms, you are a minnow in this game and you have taken the bait. Their reels are screaming as you thrash around.

Sit back and think. What was your objective for coming into this NG and throwing around stereotypical insults? Did you REALLY expect that this would be a constructive thing? After all, we have seen how _you_ respond to insults. Why would they be any different?

And do you think that responding to their taunts with more taunts make them stop?

No, it won't. You came in swinging, people naturally responded in kind. Your increasingly vitriolic responses will do nothing but set off a chain reaction that will draw in more and more people against you.

Your best bet is to just put the episode down as a "life experience" and do something more constructive with your time.

Mark.

Outstanding radio. Those with the newer, dual-receive radios may sneer, but it will do computer control, is general coverage, has a keyer built in, may have an auto-tuner (optional but if it's an SAT, it will), may have voice memories (optional), AM-FM-SSB-CW, etc.

RIT not as good as the 930, but still good, CW receive not quite as good as the 830 (because they went to high slope/low slope IF tuning instead of variable bandwidth tuning, VBT) but CW transmit is much better than the 830 because of QSK (and solid state finals)

If I ever get out of this condo and get back on the air, I might get a second one to go along with the one in storage.

Shortwave is popular with the fringe elements because:

1) It's el-cheapo airtime compared to commercial AM/FM
2) It's mainly populated by ham ops, radio freaks, scanner nuts and diehard CB'ers - traditionally the more "looney element" of the average neighborhood
3) Coverage is much greater and it's cheaper than satellite radio.
4) Most domestic SW stations will air just about anything except for overt sexual stuff.

Rule #1 of figuring out to whom a program is targeted: listen to the advertisements.

Do that. Then you'll know their serious audience is crackpots, gullible suckers, and out-of-control wingnuts. Mostly gullible suckers.

Anyone for some magnetic cure blankets, gold coins, magic silver water, doubtful pills and nostrums, or overpriced ready-to-eat meals for the "coming UN invasion?"

If you notice, most of the content of shortwave is of the right wing alignment.
The only reason there are so many damned liberals in these radio newsgroups is that liberals who listen to shortwave, get on the internet, while most conservatives have lives.
I'm suprised with all their abortions and sodomy, the liberals have any time to post in here.

If you DARE to question the status quo, you will be called names such as "homophobe", "racist", "right-winger", etc. Of course the Dems use these negative descriptors to castigate the REAL working class folks who are tired of subsidizing the lazy leeches who prey upon the every day income earner.
The Democratic Party is no longer a party for the working class as it used to be...it is now a party for the non-working class and they are bleeding us

Sounds like their cutting into Art Bell's target market ! (grin)
Then again since Bell broadcasts when the majority of the population is either asleep or having sex in the dark, should we put Coast to Coast and Dreamland in a "special" category all their own ???
Just wondering.

I suspect the preponderance of libruls in newsgroups is due to two factors:

1) they enjoy engaging in rational, reasoned debate and discussion.
2) typing with one hand is extremely difficult.

225. Mitsubishi Large Screen TV

Excuse Me,

I have an advanced amateur radio license, KD6EUT, and have been licensed as a general since I was 15 years old in 1965 (I guess that tells you how old I am).

I couple of years ago I wrote on this newsgroup about a problem I was having with a front projecting Mitsubishi TV I owned. I got a reply that said I had a short between the heater and plate of my red CRT gun and since my set was 13 years old, I could not get a replacement. Further, the reply said to just get a filiment transformer and wire it independently to the red CRT gun and the set would work again. I did that and it did work and is still working today.

I also bought a newer model Mitsubishi TV (rear projection) which has worked fine for a number of years. However, I now face the problem where the entire video goes out after the set has been on a couple of hours. I suspect there is some over voltage protection which might be defective. I would simply like to know if others have seen this problem and know of a fix.

I am the orphan of a failed .com company in southern CA. So I am running on fix it myself or forget it.

Please let me know if anyone has experienced the same problem and can suggest a fix.

There is a VERY big dial to tune away from those stations who broadcast all the wacko stuff, mostly originating from U.S. transmitters where any old Tom, Dick or Harry can buy air time to talk about anything.

Most European broadcasters are just external overseas broadcasts aimed at ex-pats giving a very centralised news/culture basis. Many Central & S.American SW stations are music orientated.

Diversity is the key on shortwave, there is something for everyone - and for those into the weird/bizarre or politically extreme, you 're not excluded. That's part of the appeal, SW goes beyond pop hits on a loop and talk radio phone-ins. It offers so much more...

I openly challenge Roger to a duel of fisticuffs on a strictly friendly basis. I will allow Roger to choose the gloves of choice and further allow him to take the first swing. I will also allow Roger to sign an insurance disclaimer so that I will not be held responsible for breaking out his front teeth.
I am available Monday through Friday during normal working hours.
Rog...this is NOT a threat. It is simply an open invitation.

PS: I would rather that NO gloves be used simply because I can better make my point that way.

Hi there
I'm requiring operation and specs information on the Kenwood TS 940 S HF rig.
I'm considering buying one, but would like to learn a little about it before I do.
I've tried various other links and sources, but cannot come up with anything of value
on the TS 940 S.
Ideally a URL link would suffice I'm sure.
Thanks in advance

Not Riley's baliwick.

And it would take the National Guard, not "a few dozen Federal

The QSL Manager for all GM2T operations is Bob, GM4UYZ. Updates will be posted on the club's web page at: http://www.cpsarc.com/

EU-012. (Advance Notice) For the CQ WW SSB Contest at the end of October 2001, Chris/GM3WOJ and Keith/GM4YXI will again be active as GZ7V from the Shetland Islands, a separate multiplier for CQ WW scoring. They will also be active on the WARC bands for 3 days before the contest, mostly on CW. The Shetland Islands also have a IOSA reference number SH1.

EU-016. (Lighthouse Activity) Emir, 9A6AA, IOCA Manager, informs OPDX that Luka/9A7Z and Neno/9A2FL will activate the Islands of Vrhovnjaci (Reference Numbers - Glavat Lighthouse LH-0170 and IOCA CI-144) for the first time ever and only for one day, June 22nd. Activity will be on 40/20/15 meters SSB.

EU-028. John, I2ZGA, will be signing IA5/I2ZGA from Elba Island from July 1-14th. He will be active on CW only from 80-10 meters.

EU-121. Jeremy, EJ3HB, will be operating from Sherkin Island on July 28-29th. Activity will be on all bands. QSL via WA2YMX.

EU-124. A team of "Barry Amateur Radio Society (B.A.R.S.)." operators will be going out to Flatholm Island, August 24-29th. Their activity will be on CW, SSB, PSK31, RTTY and SSTV using 160 through 70cm plus 6 meters. OPDX was told that since the Isle of Anglesey is deleted, the Welsh coastal Flatholm Island will be very much needed. The team intends to be active on at least 1 band and mode for the whole expedition. Their callsign will be GB5FI. QSL via GW0ANA CBA or Bureau.
HISTORICAL NOTE: Glyn, GW0ANA, informs OPDX that it was on this island on the May 10,1897, that Marconi made the first ever "Wireless TX and RX" across water. Then on the May 18, 1897, he made DX working England from Wales, thus the first DX in the world and the first ever IOTA expedition.

EU-175. Alvaro, CU3EE, is active during his free time from Terceira Island and can be found sometimes around the IOTA frequencies. QSL via EA7FTR.

OC-021. Erizal, YC1GTS, is active during his free from Bogor, normally working 6 meters. QSL via EA7FTR.

NEW HEARD ISLAND VIDEO. James Brooks, 9V1YC, has informed OPDX that he has updated his web site with full details of the new Heard Island/VK0IR video release: http://home.pacific.net.sg/~jamesb/vk0irvideo.htm James states,"For those that saw the original DXpedition video, this one might interest them even more, as it includes extremely rare footage of the first Americans and Australians to ever visit Heard Island. For your information (FYI) - since 1998 the film ("Outpost at the Edge") has been shown to a few million people worldwide on television, but only just made available for home video. See, we originally made two programs from the original footage I shot - one video for the hams (without all the archive footage, history, extra wildlife etc...) and one TV program for the general public (which includes some of the ham stuff too - but not all). This new release is the 'general public' version which many DXers had been asking about for years." According to his Web page, the video will be released June 30th, first mailing July 2nd.

OH9, FINLAND. OH9A will be active in this year's IARU using the same kind of equipment as the WRTC2002 competitors will use next year (100w, wires, tribander). Operators are Ari/OH1EH and Pasi/OH1MM. The log will be available from the WRTC2002 web site.

OZ & SM, DENMARK AND SWEDEN. Shigeru "Eddy", JR4QZH, will be staying with his family in Copenhagen, Denmark, and Gothenburg, Sweden, this coming July. He has already received his licenses. Look for him to sign OZ/JR4QZH/p from a very popular IOTA EU-029 between July 12-16th, and SM6/JR4QZH between July 16-19th in the Gothenburg area. No details of band/mode activity were provided.

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
QSL REQUEST. OPDX has been asked to find out what the QSL status is on the following Andorra special HF event stations active during March 2000. These stations were asking everyone to contact as many special event stations as possible, and on as many bands. These stations were using the callsigns like c34ji, c36hk, c35pr... etc. They asked that the cards go to the Andorra club station, Box 1150 Andorra. Has anyone received their cards or have info on these station's QSLs?

QSL REQUEST ANSWERED. Regarding the VO7A, VO1W and VO1X QSL requests from last week, these were simply missed copied callsigns during the CQ WPX CW Contest. Dan, VO1MX/VO2ZZ, informed OPDX that the "Industry Canada" hasn't issued any of these callsigns and apparently has no intention of doing so! Many reports indicate that these callsign were 4O7A, 4O1W, and 4O1X. It is possible that maybe somebody heard/received the letter "V" instead of number "4". However, Matt, S53AU, provided the following QSL information for these stations, which should be: 4O7A via YU7AV, 4O1W via YZ1AU and 4O1X via YU1DX. Also, heard in the same contest were the following stations signing the "4O" prefix:

4O1B (QSL via YT1BB), 4O1J (QSL via YU1JW), 4O7L (QSL via YU7JX) and 4O7M (QSL via YU7GMN).

3Y0C QSL STATUS. QRZ-DX is reporting that Mac, WA4FFW, does not expect to start sending out the 3Y0C cards until September/October at the earliest.

FR/F6KDF/T QSL STATUS. Gil, F5NOD, reports that a batch of 1500 QSLs have been mailed June 14th. All QSLs received before April 2001 are now sent. He also mentioned that he now has new web pages addresses:
F5NOD Page: http://www.qsl.net/f5nod
DIFOpage : http://www.qsl.net/f5nod/difo.html
FR/F6KDF/T Log: http://www.qsl.net/f5nod/frt_log.html

H40RW QSLS. Ron, ZL1AMO, informs OPDX that the first posting of H40RW cards will begin Monday, June 18th. He expects to catch up on the backlog over the next 2 or 3 weeks.

Mike, W0YR, was in Europe on business (as usual), but was going to try to squeeze in an /OH0 operation from Mariehamn, Aland Island, this past weekend, June 16-17th. He was expected to work 20/40 meters CW only and PSK31. If you were lucky to work him, QSL to W0YR CBA w/SASE or IRC.

V5/DM5TI and ZS/DM5TI QSLs. Hartmut, DM5TI, informs OPDX that all QSLs (direct and via Bureau) for his March 2001 operations have been sent out. His complete logbook is available at the following Web page:
http://www.qsl.net/dm5ti/africa

SPECIAL EVENT. A special event station signing EN1WJP will be active June 22-27th, to celebrate Pope John Paul's II visits to the Ukraine and Lviv city. Activity will be on all bands and all modes. QSL via UR4WG, either direct (P.O.Box 7072, LVIV, 79018, Ukraine) or via the bureau. A commemorative award will be given for all those who make 5 QSOs with Lviv's amateurs (usually the letter W follows after the prefix). A QSO with EN1WJP is essential. Duplicate QSOs are permitted on different bands or modes, so the special event station can be worked 5 times.
The fee for the award is 3 IRCs or 2 USD. GCR lists must be sent to UR4WG.

SPECIAL EVENT. The Montreal Amateur Radio Club has been given permission by the Radio Amateurs of Quebec to use the station callsign VC2A at the Dorval (Quebec) Canada Day event on July 1, 2001. The station will operate between 1800z July 1st through 0200z, July 2nd. The station will be in the Canada Day Contest. QSL via VE2ARC through the bureau or direct (only for this July 1st operation) via: Montreal Amateur Radio Club, c/o VC2A Canada Day Station, C.P. 53047, C.S.P. Dorval, Dorval, Quebec, Canada H9S 5W4. They expect to get the QSL cards from RAQI sometime in August or September. For more information, see the MARC News Bulletin at: http://www.marc.qc.ca/news0132.html/

SV5, DODECANESE. Look for Mike, SV5/NA9Q/p, and Arlyce, SV5/NB9Q/p, to be active from Afondou Beach between June 20th and July 3rd. They will be active on SSB/CW/PSK31 on 40-10 meters with a portable antenna. QSL via homecalls.

SV9, CRETE. Ron, WB2GAI, will be on the island of Crete (EU-015) from June 29th through August 12th and will sign SV9/WB2GAI/p. Look for him on the IOTA and QRP designated CW frequencies. He will be using wire antennas for 160-10 meters, Yaesu FT100D and FT817. Activity will be CW only.

T5, SOMALIA. Baldur/DJ6SI and Tom/DL1QW, are currently active as T5X and T5W, possibly until June 21st. Most of Baldur's operations/activity will be on CW, however, Tom operates CW, SSB and RTTY. So far their activity seems to be on the following frequencies (+/- 5 kHz):
RTTY - 14082, 21080, 28080
CW - 3508, 7005, 10102, 14025, 18085, 21025, 24890, 28025
SSB - 14195, 18140, 21295, 24945, 28495
QSL T5X via DJ6SI and T5W via DL1QW.

T5, SOMALIA. Bruce, WD4NGB, announced this week that he has received his license last week for T5. He is planning a trip to Somalia and will be active in the September/October time frame. He was issued the callsign T5DX which is valid from July 1, 2001, through July 1, 2002. It was issued by the new Transitional Government that was put into office last Fall.

VP2 & V2, MONTSERRAT AND ANTIGUA. Bill, W4WX, member of the Florida DXPedition Group (FDXPG), will be operating from Montserrat June 19-22nd as VP2MHX and V2/W4WX from Antigua June 23-26th. He will be active on RTTY and some SSB, including the WARC bands. QSL via home call.

ZD8, ASCESNION ISLAND. Frank, DL8YHR, will be active as ZD8EME from August 9-13th. He is expected to be on 2 meters EME and 6 meters.

You must be talking about all the extreme ultra leftist stations in the mainstream media. They offer stuff only the wacky liberal left would like.

Number one, Yancy has been gone from here for 2 years! They just havent updated INTERNIC. Number 2, I have spoken to the head of the IT department here and he is aware of this now and has read the posting here that we are involved in. And he is right, I should just stay out of this group. Your really not worth my time. It doesnt look like you have many friends in this group, you should try to be a nicer person. And why did you call me Perry?? Thats not my name. Its not even the english equiv. to my name. You need to get some help. I feel bad for you. If I was always talking like you are, well, I couldn't even imagine it. You must be a very unhappy person. I feel bad for you, I really do. I will say a prayer for you. You sound like you need it.

Be sure to get a lawyer that works Pro Bono. That way you will limit your financial costs (or should I say Daddy's financial costs). Any case you mount would be rather undermined by your own racist and other inflamatory statements in this thread. Given the history of this acrimonious thread (you started it), I think that if you were actually so ill informed as to start proceedings, it would come under the banner of vexatious litigation.

Well Mark, I never said anything racist what so ever. NOTHING! As far as money, thats no problem for my family. As far as time, I dont have the time to deal with low life people such as roger. It doesnt seem you people are very good people. You must very very unhappy people to talk the way you do. I really do feel sorry for you. Thats the truth. When I wake up in the morning, I look foreward to a good day. You know, hanging out with friends, learning something new, all the good things we should be thankful for. But you guys, all you do is cut people down. Saying what is on your mind is one thing, getting nasty with it is another. You guys get nasty. Plain and simple... nasty. You should consider a vacation and get away from amateur radio and the internet for a while. You are getting way to serious over something that is a hobby. If amateur radio were to die in 1 hour, our lives would still go on. Think about that my friend. I wish you the best, as for everyone in this group. 73

Hi,
I just bought a 12v 38Ah battery at a local hamfest, and I need a way to charge it. It is a sealed lead acid battery. I'm looking for both something store bought and something to build (store bought for instant gratification and something to build because I'd like to do it myself). Any suggestions? Are the chargers available at Wal Mart any good?
Thanks,
Mike

I work for a local company called "battery works" (www.batteryworkspa.com) so you can either believe me or not I could care less ;-) But I am telling you the proper way.

go to walmart and get a 2/6 car charger (2 amp and 6 amp) for normal charging (after you go out and use it) but if this is going to be used as an emergency battery (IE in a repeater or it needs to be 100% allof the time) also buy a "battery tender" (check out the url above and give us a call, we stock em) which is microporcessor controlled to store a battery as opposed to "trickle" it (trickle can and will kill a battery if left on too long, a battery tender will not) to build one yourself jsut build a regulated 14.15 or 14.20 volt power supply and let er rip. not much to charging them its just a matter of taking care of them.

Josh, I have to disagree with you. But maybe I'm not doing things the proper way.

I've had my 2-year-guarantee battery (12-V, 90-Ah) on trickle charge for 5 years now. Did the same with the last one for over 4 years, before I gave it away to a neighbor (didn't want to move all that lead from the old QTH in New Jersey to the new QTH in Ohio). And I've had a sealed 8-Ah battery on solar panels that provide a trickle-level charge (varies with the sun, of course) for several years.

I think I've got it right, and most of the many things I've read say so.

14.2 volts is way too high for maintaining a sealed 12-V battery in service such as powering amateur radios. It's Ok for recharging automotive batteries after a deep drain like starting an engine, but it's not generally Ok for sealed ones. I wouldn't go over 13.6 V, and personally, I keep mine on 13.2.

Trickle is defined as 1/10 of C which in your case would be 9 amps.. i

Solar panels are ok cause theyaren't constant and they only go "so high" in terms of current.

didn't exactly say that was a maintence charge, i meant that as a "use this to charge it after a weekend of DX ing in the boondocks) treat a sealed battery > 30 ampere hours like a car battery is the usual rule of thumb.

I wouldn't go over 13.6 V, and thats "float" almost like "store" but a lot less destructive than trickle.

FCC Chairman Michael Powell Is Making Waves

By Frank Ahrens
Washington Post Staff Writer
Monday, June 18, 2001; Page C01

For a man who has said he wants his record to speak for him, for an agency head who has vowed not to be an activist, Michael Kevin Powell entered the Washington political conversation with a pool-clearing cannonball off the high-dive.

In February the new Federal Communications Commission chairman met the press for the first time. Powell, 38, had been one of the FCC's five commissioners since 1997 - a fairly low-profile position, if you want it to be. In January the Clinton-appointed FCC chairman, William Kennard, resigned. The Bush administration quickly picked Powell as successor.

What was known about Powell:

<fHe was the son of Secretary of State/war hero/possible presidential candidate/Most Admired American Colin Powell.

<fHe'd had some kind of accident while in the Army.

<fHe was a black Republican whose commission votes often, but not predictably, favored both big business and minority broadcasters.

What was less known about Powell was exposed at his introductory news conference: that he has an impatience for sloganeering and an ex-soldier's appetite for a little hand-to-hand combat.

Several dozen reporters were peppering the new chairman. The Question came at the end of the one-hour session:

"I wanted to see if you could give us your thoughts about this agency's role in dealing with the so-called digital divide . . ."

The next day's papers printed part of Powell's answer:

"I think there's a Mercedes divide. I'd like one, but I can't afford it."

Ker-splash! Everybody's wet!

Immediately the controversy began. Powell took heat from lawmakers, from minority broadcasters, from advocacy groups. He was told that he sounded insensitive, aloof. It would have been a terrific line - if Powell were a provocateur talk radio host.

But, good grief, everyone knows the Washington answer to that question: You're against the digital divide. You'll do everything you can to eradicate it. Next question?

Instead . . .

"He sent shudders throughout the entire industry," says Talib Karim, a Washington telecommunications lawyer. "There are programs built on removing the digital divide and people felt that statement almost completely killed the need to pursue those programs."

Over the past decade, the FCC has gone from being just another big Washington alphabet bureaucracy - FCC, FTC, FAA - to one of the most important. The communications revolution has reached seemingly every corner of the culture. Ten years ago, car phones were exotic. Now, you can buy a top-grade cell phone at any 7-Eleven.

As FCC chairman, Powell is the chief regulator of the companies that determine what you watch on television and listen to on the radio. He also applies the law to companies that provide telephone service, Internet access, cable television, cell phone and pager service and just about every other form of human and machine communication. FCC decisions made today will shape how Americans converse for years to come.

So people pay a lot of attention when the chairman communicates.

The "Mercedes gap" answer proved a fine distillation of the man: Powell gave a long (4½-minute) response, full of provocative ideas, in an occasionally combative tone that nevertheless got some laughs. He bristled at the notion that a slogan should be turned into public policy, least of all by an unelected body.

Here's what bracketed the Mercedes Quote:

"I also think the term ["digital divide"] sometimes is dangerous in the sense that it suggests that the minute a new and innovative technology is introduced in the market, there is a divide unless it is equitably distributed among every part of the society, and that is just an unreal understanding of an American capitalistic system. . . . [Mercedes Quote here] . . . I'm not meaning to be completely flip about this - I think it's an important social issue - but it shouldn't be used to justify the notion of, essentially, the socialization of deployment of the infrastructure."

The entire quote establishes the new FCC chairman's bona fides as a probing, iconoclastic market capitalist. The Mercedes quote alone? It made him look about as out of touch with the common folk as his current president's father when confronted by a supermarket checkout scanner. And a little meaner, too.

Regrets?

"I might regret the phrase only because people might have misinterpreted it," Powell is saying now, in a recent interview in his spacious corner office on the eighth floor of the FCC's headquarters in Southwest Washington. "But I do not regret what I was trying to explain: If we're prepared to be serious and not symbolic, let's talk about the digital divide."

And so he talks:

"People have swept up in that concept every hope and aspiration you can imagine." And: "Some people can afford a Mercedes, some people can afford a Toyota Tercel. But they both have available to them the same basic functionality of a car." And: "I had a professor once say to me, 'Name a technology that has bypassed poor people.',"

Sitting in his office, he is more voluble and relaxed than when facing down a horde of trade-publication reporters. He has the aura of a man who believes that, in any one-on-one conversation, he could bring you around to his point of view or at least gain your grudging respect. Not surprising, considering his strongest Capitol Hill allies are the often-blunt Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.) and Rep. Billy Tauzin (R-La.). (The promotion from FCC commissioner to chairman bumped Powell's salary from $125,700 to $133,700.)

Powell's smooth features and high-cheekboned smile shave about five years off his age. Well trimmed in a charcoal pinstripe suit undergirded by suspenders, he settles into an upholstered armchair and crosses his right leg over his left.

It is not a meaningless posture.

Sitting in this fashion is easier on his spine, which is fused at its base, forcing him to walk with a slight forward pitch. And there's another thing: If an interviewer stabbed his Bic pen into the top of Powell's right thigh, the FCC chairman would not feel it.

Asleep at the Wheel

Explanation can be found in a right-hand drawer of Powell's big wooden desk, a few stiff-muscled paces away. There, he keeps four photographic slides, neatly inserted in a clear plastic scrapbook page. They're slides of X-rays.

They show a human's skeletal midsection, like the bones of a child's Halloween costume. But they look more like a puzzle: In one slide, the spine is where it ought to be, but the pelvis appears snapped in two, half of it floating inside the body at a cockeyed angle. Another slide shows the pelvis back in its place, but not on its own. Bones are bolted together by a steel truss that looks like a model railroad bridge.

This is Michael Powell's gut, circa 1987.

It was a warm summer evening of that year, and Powell was a 24-year-old executive officer with the U.S. Army's 3/2 Armored Cavalry regiment, stationed in Amberg, Germany.

He and his unit were traveling in a convoy on the autobahn, heading back to the base after a day of scouting the German countryside. The soldiers were in a convoy on the autobahn, traveling about 50 mph. Powell was riding shotgun in a World War II Jeep (the kind you see on "M*A*S*H" reruns). In the back seat was another officer; driving was a young private. No one wore a seat belt.

It began to rain, and Powell was lulled into a doze by the pit-pat of the raindrops and the droning sound of the wheels.

So was the driver.

Sensing the Jeep drift toward the guardrail on the right, Powell awoke and saw his driver's head bobbing. Powell barked at him to wake up; the private snapped awake and jerked the wheel left, sending the Jeep veering into oncoming traffic. Panicked, he yanked the wheel back.

Powell knew what would come next.

"The Jeep lay down on its side," Powell says, using his hands to illustrate. "I can see the sparks and hear the noise right now. I have this burned into my brain; I can do it frame by frame."

Powell was hurled skyward. He hit the pavement and rolled. Then, according to military officials who reconstructed the accident, the Jeep bounced, crashed down on Powell's midsection - flattening it - and bounced off.

"Don't move! Don't get up!" were the first words Powell remembers hearing, the soft voices emerging from the quiet, growing louder and louder as if someone were slowly turning the volume knob in his brain.

He felt no pain.

"I couldn't figure out how to move. It's not like my legs were hurt; it's like they were gone. I had no mental connection to my legs."

His arms still worked. He reached down to feel his hip. It felt three times its normal size. He wanted a drink of water.

Rain sprinkled on him as he lay on the pavement. He closed his eyes.

"Oh, my God," he thought. "I broke my back."

Instinct for Survival

Half of Powell's pelvic girdle had snapped off its rear anchor on the lower spine. In the front, it had ripped free of the cartilage connecting it to its other half. His bladder was torn and the urethra was ripped loose. Vertebrae were cracked. Even his bones gushed blood.

"Essentially, your middle is broken in half," Powell says. "You're literally separated."

After a few hours, and some cursory attention from German emergency room doctors, Powell was flown to a U.S. Army hospital in Nuremberg. After being stabilized, he was flown to Washington and admitted to Walter Reed Army Medical Center on upper Georgia Avenue NW.

"Where I lived for the next year," he says.

The family cinched around the young Powell. Linda Powell, one of his two sisters, slept in his hospital room, helping with his physical therapy. And when he returned home, the Powells set up a hospital bed in a downstairs room; his other sister, Annemarie, slept on the floor and woke during the night to turn over her brother, a former high school gymnast.

The three-star general sat with his son, holding his hand and watching "Brady Bunch" reruns on television. (Colin and Alma Powell declined to be interviewed for this article.)

"He went through tremendous amounts of depression," says Annemarie of her brother.

Every act was freighted with struggle and debasement: Powell urinated for months through a tube in his abdomen.

In a 1996 speech Powell gave to the Rehabilitation Nursing Foundation, he said, with a mix of power, pathos and melodrama:

"I had hit bottom. This was dangerously real, and I was losing. . . . It is as if you are cast on a great dark ocean with no rescue in sight and are forced to ask yourself each and every moment if you wish to fight with all you have to live, or let go of your burden and drown peacefully. . . . In the end, it was not really a choice, but an instinct for survival."

After a year of physical therapy, he regained most elements of a normal life. He defied expectations by fathering two children. His right thigh, however, remains dead to the touch.

The accident ended his military career. Powell, who always planned to follow in his father's footsteps, was devastated. (Family legend recalls a letter that a young Michael Powell wrote to his father, then stationed in Vietnam: "I haven't decided yet if I want to be a lieutenant colonel or a lawyer.")

His sister Linda sees the accident's hidden benefit.

"I sometimes wonder if it didn't let him off the hook earlier," says the 36-year-old New York City actress. "It enabled him to find himself quicker. It would have taken him longer to figure out who he was in my father's field."

Powell does not disagree. He now calls the accident "the best thing that ever happened to me." Chiefly, he means that it led his old College of William & Mary girlfriend - Jane Knott - to his bedside and eventually to the altar. (Powell sometimes refers to her as "Jane, his wife," as in the "Jetsons" theme song.)

And though after his rehabilitation he knocked around Defense Department jobs for a couple of years, he eventually realized he had to break from the Army, he says. He got a Georgetown law degree and did stints in the Washington office of O'Melveny & Myers, an L.A.-based firm, and in the Department of Justice's antitrust division.

Internet gossip Matt Drudge and New Republic writer Andrew Sullivan have criticized the "nepotism" of Powell's political ascent; those who know him insist that his father's name may have opened doors - he was pushed for the FCC by McCain, a Friend-of-Colin - but believe the younger Powell's ability took over from there.

As for Michael Powell, his response to the nepotism specter is essentially unchanged today as when it was broached nearly four years ago, when he joined the FCC:

"I'm sure there were a whole lot of people in this town that, when my name surfaced, they said, 'He must be getting this because he's the son of somebody,' " Powell told the Associated Press in 1998. "Personally, I really enjoy the fact that some people have underestimated expectations of me. That's just great because it is just running room. Sure, go ahead and underestimate me."

And, if Powell's political ascent seems rapid, supporters say, it's because he's had his foot on the gas since he put down his crutches:

"Life is short and there's no guarantees," Powell says. "I don't have time for negative people, I don't have time for an unhappy disposition or an unhappy outlook on life. I can taste the preciousness of life."

The FCC

Powell wants his record to speak for itself, and so far it has. But people are hearing different things.

He is emerging as a deregulatory chairman, and not surprisingly the commercial broadcasters like him. Recent rulings by his commission, for instance, will allow one of the four major television networks - ABC, CBS, NBC or Fox - to buy one of the smaller ones - UPN or the WB. Critics see this as another step toward corporate consolidation, which, they warn, will end only when one company owns everything.

"He has a disappointingly narrow view of the role that government has played in creating the marketplace and the diversity that is in the marketplace and in the mass media," says Andrew Schwartzman, president of the Media Access Project, a Washington telecommunications watchdog group. Schwartzman says he admires Powell and adds: "I would hope that every now and then as chairman, [Powell] will use his extraordinary intelligence and creativity as well as his bulletproof political position to take a difficult position on an issue."

Powell says his first thought in FCC decisions is always the consumer. He voted, for example, for Kennard's proposal to allow low-power radio stations, which was aimed at increasing the diversity of voices on the radio. Yet, he adds: "I believe government has the role and duty of proving the merits of intervention rather than the other way around. If I can't demonstrate with rigor the necessity of intervention, then the obligation of the government is to stay out."

Where Powell says he differs from previous Republican-led FCCs is on television and radio content: He says his liberal friends at law school convinced him that "it's better to tolerate the abuses on the margins than to invite the government to interfere with the cherished First Amendment."

Last Tuesday, however, the FCC fined radio station KKMG in Pueblo, Colo., $7,000 for playing "The Real Slim Shady," a sexually explicit, profanity-laced song by rapper Eminem. The station played a cleaned-up version of the song, but the FCC nevertheless found KKMG guilty of "willfully broadcasting indecent language." The ruling left many in the radio industry wondering if the action signaled a return to the early '90s, when a Republican-led FCC stacked up $1.2,million in fines against shock jock Howard Stern.

In February, a group of black telecom lawyers gave a send-off party to Kennard at the swank Dupont Circle headquarters of WorldSpace, a satellite radio company.

Powell's presence turned the night into a de facto changing of the FCC guard.

Powell heaped praise on his predecessor, the first African American to head the FCC, and talked about America's third major revolution of the past few hundred years. In the first two - the agricultural and industrial revolutions - black people either "picked cotton" or were "legally segregated." In the Information Revolution now underway, he said, minorities have their first chance to take the lead.

Kennard followed, saying he had tried to provide "opportunity for people who don't have a voice in Washington."

The reaction to both men was respectful and warm, but the needle on the love-meter climbed perceptibly higher for Kennard.

"That's one assessment of it," Powell says. "I think it's probably realistic."

The subtext in the room echoed what was felt in some quarters of Washington: that Kennard, as a Democratic, had fought for the common man. And that Powell, as a Republican, would fight for The Man.

The sub-subtext was: Republicans are for whites; Democrats, for blacks.

Powell finds this ludicrous.

"I don't think there's anything about my race that says I have to be a Democrat."

Tom Hart, a longtime Washington telecom lawyer present at the Kennard farewell party, sees good and bad in Powell's beliefs, if they become FCC policies.

"The advantages are that [such policies] will likely continue the technological growth and expansion that have emerged over the last 10 years," he says. "But what it does in the midterm is curtail the new entry of small, typically minority, business enterprises." Without incentives and some government protection, Hart says, the start-ups simply can't compete against the industry giants.

Jesse Jackson, addressing the annual convention of the National Association of Black Owned Broadcasters in Washington in March, criticized Powell for a laissez-faire attitude that eventually would limit black voices in broadcasting.

It is unclear, however, if Powell will even be at the FCC long enough to see any policies bear fruit. Though he was reconfirmed for a five-year term last month, some observers wonder if he won't be tapped to run for elective office or perhaps take a White House appointment before his FCC term expires. Powell will say only that he has "no such laid-out grand ambitions" for his career.

What is clear is how he sees his role at the FCC.

He tells a story about being buttonholed by a congressman shortly after accepting the chairmanship. Powell responded with rapid-fire force.

"I want you to be more than a good steward," the congressman told Powell. "I want you to be a champion."

"I told him, 'I'm not a champion. I'm paid to make this stuff work.',"

Hi,

I recently started using CW mode, and I'm a little frustrated by the too much noise in 40m band. My setup is ICOM-746 (original factory package, without any extra filter plugged in) running at 15 watt and a G5RV diapole in my aparment. Usually, it seems to me that another ham could copy my signal, but I could only barely copy his/her signal due to the QRZ in 40m band. Is this quite common in 40m, or do I need a narrow band filter (500/250Hz) in IF 9MHz/455KHz, or just because I'm quite new, and my ears haven't been accustomed to this kind of situation? Could someone please give me some hints on this?

Your suggestion will be greatly appreciated.

I was getting pretty depressed, after learning of the demise of the great government operative, Steve Anderson, and his fantastic comedy show: The Militia Private's Flying Circus. So while tuning around the radio dial last night, I heard some activity on 3.860 MHz.

Briefly, this is where the REAL neo-nazi's and kooks from 3.950 MHz took off to. They got scared of Riley, and decided to start their own net called: The Mostly Brew Net. Anyway, they have spent their ENTIRE lives consumed with their ex-buddies on 3950! Uncle Boob Turncoat-KN4CF, Tommy Tubes-WB2CLN and other militia wannabe's are parked right there every evening from 9 pm to ?? CDT, discussing their favorite topic: "FREQUENCY 'X'"!

Well,a few weeks ago, one of the trailer park hams from the militia net decided to unload with a "nuclear bomb in Oklahoma" rumor. Now THAT was interesting. But last night took the cake! CLN had a special announcement at 10 pm CDT in which he told THE WORLD his wife had a chemotherapy induced dream in which CLN was MURDERED by someone from 3950! CLN took this drug induced dream SO SERIOUSLY, that he notified local police authorities of this MASSIVE conspiracy against his life! What made it even MORE hilarious is Boob and the other nut cases went along with CLN on this, even though it was nothing more than rumor mongering!!

Whomever the accusee is, I hope they find a capable lawyer to sue the fucking pants off of CLN for filing a FALSE police report!!

Sure, just get one that is automatic. "has a little green light on the meter face" It will help you keep from overcharging. I recently bought a sears 12 amp auto charger. I was at wal mart a while back and noticed the chargers they sell are made by the same bunch that makes sears. Just stuck a different name on them. So they should be fine. And the price was slightly cheaper than sears for an equal size charger. I could have gotten a 15 amp at wall mart for the price of the 12 amp at sears. MK

Josh:

I guess a good part of our disagreement is a matter of terminology rather than real substance.

In my lexicon, 1/10 of C is the standard charge rate or "bulk charge rate". I agree that that's too much to push into a battery indefinitely, though I've seen some NiCad FAQs claim that it's Ok. I push a max of 4 A into a 90 Ah battery after heavy usage, and normally run less than 1 A -- not even C/40. In that case, it's basically a float charge, as you note. So, if we look at the numbers and don't haggle over terminology, it seems we're at least close on that one.

I do still think that 14.2 volts is too high for a sealed battery, even for bulk charging. The battery will tend to outgas too much, and leaving the battery on at that voltage will destroy it. I would bulk charge a 12-V, 38-Ah battery at 13.6 to 13.8 V (or whatever feeds it no more than 4 A), and float it at 12.8 to 13.2 V (whatever voltage yields a float current draw of about 100 mA).

A modest-size variable-voltage power supply will serve as a nice charger.

I worked a while for Winchester Western in the Sporting Firearms Division. We made shotguns and rimfires. Most of the guns we produced were Winchester label, but we also produced special items for various state police departments and ... for Sears. Although they were made by the same people in the same division and almost at the same time using basically the same design as the Winchester firearms, the Sears guns were markedly inferior. To this day, I'm impressed by the many ways the Sears folks found to cheapen a well-designed product so they could sell it for a few bucks less. I knew folks who thought they were getting a great deal -- their shotguns were really made by Winchester. And I knew what was inside -- they got what they paid for.

Maybe the Sears and the Walmart charges are the same, but you'll probably never know. Or maybe the cheaper one is good enough even if it isn't equally good. But you tend to get what you pay for.

Get a narrow filter. For 'general' amateur use the 500 cycle is fine. For more selectivity go with the 250. The more selective the filter, the less noise will be allowed to pass through. Also it makes the tuning sharper on receive.

Noise on 40 is quite common. And being inside a building I would say you are probably getting more than your share of power-line garbage. Try the noise blanker, it may or may not help.

Reduce your RF gain (on receive), or use the attenuator, or both.

The CW isn't that bad. Just claim a clear freq and you call. You set the speed. If you answer other stations, then yes, you should be able to match their speed,but even then they will almost always work you. Also it helps to brush up a bit for a while before it . CW is double the points of SSB. That can rack em up pretty quick, if you are quick. If you work W5DPA on 160/80/40 at night, it'll probably be me or one of my cohorts. I work CW only on FD. It's a waste for me to work SSB. BTW, I really don't care about the score, but if I'm going to eat bugs, I might as well get the max bang for the contact. I'd prefer to work CW anyway.
I don't have to talk non stop all night. MK

293. ARRL bulletins for field day?

This might be a dumb question, but are the frequencies used for the Field Day bulletins the same as the normal ARRL bulletins(CW and RTTY is what I want)? Also they say that they will be sending it via PSK31 this year. I assume that this will be on 14.070(and/or other psk31 freqs on other bands), correct? The ARRL doesn't make any mention for PSK31 on its website for bulletin frequencies. de WO5M

We are planning on running PSK31 at our Field Day site. We are not use to using it, and it will be kind of a playing around and testing phase for us. I know there is a lot of band that digital can be used, but is there any special frequency that you can find someone on the bands?

Hi Mike,

QST ran a good story on such a charger about two months ago. Library or fellow ham can get you a copy.

FYI, what I do is I have a large wall wart regulated supply from old hp device
and it is 1.5 amp so the battery loves it.

My Yuasa batteries 12 v 38 ah used at hamfest have charge table printed on the case, if you follow it your fine. they have a good website with lots of info .

14.07 by far is the most popular... set your filter for about 3.3 to

Hi,

I recently called ICOM America technical support dept regarding to zero-beating in IC-746. They told me that there's no BFO in this rig, and everything is controlled by CPU. So let's say I heard another ham calling CQ at 7.115MHz, based on the information I was told, I don't need to change freq displayed on my IC-746 before I start tx, except that I might need to adjust my RIT if necessary. Is that true? I'm quite new to CW, but I still feel a little suspecious about this story. Of course, if that were true, it would be great. But could someone please give me some hints about zero-beating in IC-746 from your own experience?

Like KCUF, Channel 69, a PBS station in Potter Valley, California, with shows starring paedophiles in purple dinosaur or yellow bird

After you get a narrow CW filter installed you will find the answer much more evident.
You tune for a received tone of about 800 cycles. The rig will automaticaly offset to compensate for the dial reading.

It will depend on whether you are on USB or LSB in the CW mode. That is something the rig manual should mention. Conventionally it will be USB, on ALL BANDS.

Again, just tune it in and DO NOT USE the RIT UNLESS the other guy comes back way up or down from you. Then remember to turn it OFF when your done with the QSO. The RIT moves ONLY THE Receiver.

Tao,

Tell me more about your antenna. You say it is IN your apartment. Is it in the attic? How is it in the apartment.

40m is a noisy band in the evening no matter what, plus being inside the building with your antenna you're probably picking up a lot of surrounding RF interference.

My setup is a 1/2 have dipole in my attic for 40m, a homebuilt Norcal 40A 1w rig, homebuilt ZM-2 antenna tuner, and a set of homemade paddles. I have worked all states with this setup from central Indiana. My antenna is in the attic and is about 25 feet up. It runs east/west so I radiate north/south.

I also have a 5w rig I use with this setup, it's a Ten Tec Scout turned down to 5w. On 20m I have worked Reunion Island, Ukraine, Slovenia, most of Europe, and into South America. My dipole and tuner do a good job on 15, 20, 30 and 40m.

304. Signals on VK 70cm being investigated

During the Olympic Games in Sydney a part of the 70cm band was taken over by the Olympic Radio Network.

Before the Olympics all radio amateurs were prohibited from using two sub-bands, 421-422MHz and 424-432MHz - in and around Sydney, so as to not interfere with interfere with Olympic communications.

The WIA was not entirely happy with the situation at the time, but negotiated the best it could to protect the interests of amateur radio, bearing in mind that the Amateur Service has secondary status on that band.

The ACA gave the WIA assurances that the situation was temporary, and access to be band would be fully restored after the Olympics.

In fact the ban period was from March the 31st 1999 to 31st December 2000. That was six months ago.

Now the WIA has learnt that signals, similar to the ORN activity heard during the Olympics, are appearing on three channels in the Sydney area - 430.025, 430.125 and 430.8125MHz.

These channels are in use with digital signals described as sounding identical to the Olympic traffic.

It is likely the three channels heard are part of a split channel repeater system.

Who is using this equipment? The WIA is asking the ACA to investigate the matter urgently and provide advice about the signals.

Earlier checks of the ACA frequency allocation records found no reference to licences having been issued.

The WIA has been working steadily on this issue - and will advise the outcome of this mystery.

6/15/01 2:59:00 PM-- HOW TO TURN SIX DOLLARS INTO SIX THOUSAND: READING THIS COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE! IT DOES WORK! I found this on a bulletin board and decided to try it. A little : while back, I was browsing through newsgroups, just like you are now, and came across an article similar to this that said you could make thousands of dollars within weeks with only an initial investment of $6.00! So I thought, "Yeah right, this must be a scam", but like most of us, I was curious, so I kept reading. Anyway, it said that you send $1.00 to each of the 6 names and address stated in the article. You then place your own name and address in the bottom of the list at #6, and post the article in at least 200 newsgroups, (there are thousands) No catch, that was it. So after thinking it over, and talking to a few people first, I thought about trying it. I figured "what have I got to lose except 6 stamps and $6.00, right?" Then I invested the measly $6.00. Well GUESS WHAT!?... within 7 days, I started getting money in the mail! I was shocked! I figured it would end soon, but the money just kept coming in. In my first week, I made about $25.00. By the end of the second week I had made a total of over $1,000.00! In the third week I had over $10,000.00 and it's still growing. This is now my fourth week and I have made a total of just over $42,000.00 and it's still coming in rapidly. It's certainly worth $6.00, and 6 stamps, I have spent more than that on the lottery!! Let me tell you how this works and most importantly, WHY it works... Also, make sure you print a copy of this article NOW, so you can get the information off of it as you need it. I promise you that if you follow the directions exactly, that you will start making more money than you thought possible by doing something so easy! Suggestion: Read this entire message carefully!(print it out or download it.) Follow the simple directions and watch the money come in! It's easy. It's legal. And, your investment is only $6.00 (Plus : postage) IMPORTANT: This is not a rip-off; it is not indecent; it is not illegal; and it is 99% no risk - it really works! If all of the following instructions are adhered to, you will receive extraordinary dividends. PLEASE NOTE: Please follow these directions EXACTLY, and $50,000 or more can be : yours in 20 to 60 days. This program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants. Please continue its success by carefully adhering to the instructions. You will now become part of the Mail Order business. In this business your product is not solid and tangible, it's a service. You are in the business of developing Mailing Lists. Many large corporations are happy to pay big bucks for quality lists. However, the money made from the mailing lists is secondary to the income which is made from people like you and me asking to be included in that list. Here are the 4 easy steps to success: STEP 1: Get 6 separate pieces of paper and write the following on each piece of paper "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST." Now get 6 US $1.00 bills and place

ONE inside EACH of the 6 pieces of paper so the bill will not be seen through the envelope (to prevent thievery). Next, place one paper in each of the 6 envelopes and seal them. You should now have 6 sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the above phrase, your name and address, and a $1.00 bill. What you are doing is creating a service. THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL! You are requesting a legitimate service and you are paying for it! Like most of us I was a little skeptical and a little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-725-2161) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal. Mail the 6 envelopes to the following addresses: #1)Randall Hines 22 Stature Drive Newark DE 19713 #2) Mike Sharrer 921 West State Street Coopersburg PA 18036 #3) Shawn Mercy 5701 Pine Street Black Hawk SD 57718 #4) Cassidy Miller 13785 County Highway Lamberton MN 56152 #5) Jim Hansen 1803 apt B Lisbon Road Morris IL 60450 #6) Aren Hansen 1420 Lake Drive Morris IL 60450: Now take the #1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (6 becomes 5, 5 becomes 4, etc...) and add YOUR name as number 6 on the list. STEP 3: Change anything you need to, but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now, post your amended article to at least 200 newsgroups. (I think there are close to 24,000 groups) All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post, the more money you make! You won't get very much unless you post like crazy. :) This is perfectly legal! If you have any doubts, refer to Title 18: Sec. 1302 & 1341 of the Postal lottery laws. Keep a copy of these steps for yourself and, whenever you need money, you can use it again, and again. PLEASE REMEMBER that this program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants and by their carefully adhering to the directions. Look at it this way. If you are of integrity, the program will continue and the money that so many others have received will come your way. NOTE: You may want to retain every name and address sent to you, either on a computer or hard copy and keep the notes people send you. This VERIFIES that you are truly providing a service. (Also, it might be a good idea to wrap the $1 bill in dark paper to reduce the risk of mail theft.) So, as each post is downloaded and the directions carefully followed, six members will be reimbursed for their participation as a List Developer with one dollar each. Your name will move up the list geometrically so that when your name reaches the #1 position you will be receiving thousands of dollars in CASH!!! What an opportunity for only $6.00 ($1.00 for each of the first six people listed above) Send it now, add your own name to the list and you're in business! ---DIRECTIONS ----- FOR HOW TO POST TO NEWSGROUPS---------- Step 1) You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computer's memory. Step 2) Open a blank 'notepad' file and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into notepad so that you can add your name to the list. Step 3) Save your new notepad file as a .txt file. If you want to do your postings in different settings, you'll always have this file to go back to. Step 4)

Use Netscape or Internet explorer and try searching for various newsgroups (on-line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions.) Step 5) Visit these message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the Subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button. You're done with your first one! Congratulations...THAT'S IT! All you have to do is jump to different newsgroups and post away, after you get the hang of it, it will take about 30 seconds for each newsgroup! REMEMBER, THE MORE NEWSGROUPS YOU POST IN, THE MORE MONEY YOU WILL MAKE! BUT YOU HAVE TO POST A MINIMUM OF 200 That's it! You will begin receiving money from around the world within days! You may eventually want to rent a P.O.Box due to the large amount of mail you will receive. If you wish to stay anonymous, you can invent a name to use, as long as the postman will deliver it. JUST MAKE SURE ALL THE ADDRESSES ARE CORRECT. Now, each of the 5 persons who just sent me $1.00 make the MINIMUM 200 postings, each with my name at #5 and only 5 persons respond to each of the original 5, that is another $25.00 for me, now those 25 each make 200 MINIMUM posts with my name at #4 and only 5 replies each, I will bring in an additional $125.00! Now, those 125 persons turn around and post the MINIMUM 200 with my name at #3 and only receive 5 replies each, I will make an additional $625.00! OK, now here is the fun part, each of those 625 persons post a MINIMUM 200 letters with my name at #2 and they each only receive 5 replies, that just made me $3,125.00!!! Those 3,125 persons will all deliver this message to 200 newsgroups with my name at #1 and if still 5 persons per 200 newsgroups react I will receive $15,625,00! With an original investment of only $6.00! AMAZING! When your name is no longer on the list, you just take the latest posting in the newsgroups, and send out another $6.00 to names on the list, putting your name at number 6 again. And start posting again. The thing to remember is do you realize that thousands of people all over the world are joining the internet and reading these articles everyday?, JUST LIKE YOU are now!! So, can you afford $6.00 and see if it really works?? I think so... People have said, "what if the plan is played out and no one sends you the money? So what! What are the chances of that happening when there are tons of new honest users and new honest people who are joining the internet and newsgroups everyday and are willing to give it a try? Estimates are at 20,000 to 50,000 new users, every day, with thousands of those joining the actual internet. Remember, play FAIRLY and HONESTLY and this will really work

For one, and only one time, I will laughingly agree with JBO on this one.
The conspiracy theorists are laughable and entertaining.
I have been advocating for some time now that these guys should play background music while they are laying out their whacked out theories. The theme from the Twilight Zone would be a good start....
It makes one wonder if these guys wear little pie-tin foil hats to ward off the "evil radio waves" sent by the CIA, the DOJ, FBI, FFA, Boy Scouts, and other malicious government agencies that are beaming their evil electronic radiation into their heads. These paranoids are also the ones who claim that the United Nations is training clandestine troops that fly black helicopters and is setting up prison camps on U.S. military bases to be used to detain citizens in "the great roundup".

Roger...surprised that you didn't know before this that Chemotherapy is just another government ploy aimed toward mind control. They use Frequency X on a daily basis. This is where they operate. Of course Frequency X is top secret and is non-monitorable. It would not be Frequency X otherwise.
Besides....the chemo induced dream sounds good to the New World Order nutcases....this is right down the alley for the Birchers and their like-minded paranoid nitwits.
It was not that many years ago that the Birchers claimed that the introduction of Chlorine to our cities' drinking water (done to eliminate harmful bacteria) was a government plot at mind control. Well, the citizens have led fruitful lives, the Nation has flourished, and the only ones affected were the nutty Birchers, who only got worse.
As for CLN....shame on him. The sky is falling. The sky is falling.
Go figure.

Do you think that maybe this whole ham radio murder dream by Mary Tubes is REALLY some type of elaborate murder plot by Tommy & Mary against Tommy's daddy? No, the BBC simply has more balanced coverage than the US.
Namerican reporting (esp including papers like the NY times) is -overtly- biased on the Israeli side. You don't realise this unless you compare the coverage in the US against radio from BBC or Canada's CBC, both of which give good balanced middle-east coverage. (I see your email addr is .ca, but perhaps you think CNN is news?)

By the way, Palestinians are semites too. Even if BBC were pro-palestinian, they would not be anti-semitic.

But the fact remains that he's 100% better than what a conservative government would be doing for workers and global trade, as was proved for 20 years before. It took Blair's government, in about 1996, to bring in a -minimum wage- for god's sake. It was -heavily- resisted by the conservatives.
Blair's party aren't star quality, but they're better than what was. Not to say they shouldn't be criticised (of course they should be), but when you look where you are, look also at where you have come from.

Yep, just tune them in so that you have a good tone, IE: 700-1000 hz and that is it. There is a built in offset on most all rigs. If you zero beat them, that means tuning until you are zero beat, in which case you would hear no tone. You don't want to do that or you will likely be zero beat to them also. So just tune for the most comfortable tone on your end. The auto offset will place you at the same appx spot to the other guy. You only need to adjust the RIT if the other guy starts moving around to get a better tone. You want to stay in the same place , so in that case you would tune with the RIT. If you tuned with the main dial, the other guy will chase you around to get his tone, and it will be an endless retuning. In most cases this won't be needed though. I rarely need to use RIT. MK

Hi Mark,

Thanks a lot for your clarification, and I really appreciate it. Now it makes more sense to me. So this auto offset feature is built in by default on most new rigs, but not very common on the old ones.
Am I right?

Brian,

Thanks a lot for your reply. My apartment is on the 2nd story and it's an end unit. My G5RV diapole is zig-zag put against end unit wall, and there should be only 1 or 2 utility wires inside. Of course, I'm living in suburban of Chicago, and there're a lot RF interferences here. Now I understand more about the operation characteristics in 40M band. So what I need now is more practice to develop necessary skills and talents to pick up weak signals from a lot of background noise. Narrow filters will be great, but still luxuries to me. I have other things to take care of. So I will spend more time to appreciate and enjoy the thrill of CW.

Thanks again, Brian. Take care.

some new rigs do auto offset and some do not. the ic-746 does NOT. most yaesu and kenwoods DO.
In other words if u have the rig in ssb and hear a cw station and hit the cw button on a ic-746 u will have to tune either up or down (depending on if u are on a usb/lsb band) by around 700-800hz to find the cw station. When u first hit the cw button from ssb the cw station will be on zero beat freq and u will hear no tone till u tune for him.
on my ts-2000 or my ft-847 when you go from ssb to cw it jumps freq by the correct amount (700-800 hz) so the cw station is there and u do not need to tune to find it.

In cw mode, you can key the rig and hear your sidetone without putting out a signal if you do not press the VOX or Transmit buttons. You can tune in a cw station by keying your rig and tuning until your sidetone and the other station are at the same pitch. Then press VOX or Transmit so you can go on the air.

Yea, I think your right. I was thinking the rig jumped 800-1000? hz when in transmit, but it doesn't seem to on the 706g. And I think the 706 tunes about the same as the 746. I just tried mine, and there is no shift in freq from receive to transmit on the 706g. My kenwood does shift on CW transmit. But he would still tune the same way when in CW mode. That is by the best pitch which will be 700-1000 hz usually. The idea about matching the sidetone to the signal would get you pretty close. MK

Mark, I just received confirmation email from ICOM America technical support. They told me that there is auto offset module in IC-746. They also mentioned using of RIT in case fine tune is required or signal fading is detected.

Hi guys.

Just to say that as well as having Zakanaka in my main download page, I have also created a separate page which holds the files which have been extracted from within the current Zakanaka zip file.

This means that you can download the files individually from my site if there is a slow internet connection, rather than take the whole 5.6Mb in one go :-).

Hello Dave,
My wife and I use a pair of HTX-212's (one base and one mobile) for the past 6+ years with no feedback trouble at all. I am sorry that info doesn't really help you much......the mobile one is has it's power lines run directly to the battery. We took no special precautions for grounding per say. It is fed to a Comet B-10M on a Larsen mag mount.

The HTX-212 run as a base has a heavy ground cable tied to a heavy copper bus bar across the back of the operating desk which all gear is tied to. it is in common with the AC service ground as well as a nearby outside ground rod. The equipment I used for the grounding is from J Martin Grounding Systems (in QST)

That is how we are operating here with no trouble......have you examined your grounding situation and power hookups? I hope maybe something here has nudged you towards a resolution....good luck....

Well I'm heading out today to not one, but TWO groups that have invited me to join with them. I intend to have fun and ENJOY myself with my Amateur Radio friends.

Wonder what Llllooooyyyyddd will be doing for Field Day? Hell, I doubt he even knows what FD is. He probably thinks it is going out in the Field and tipping cows for a day.

340. Tuning a BUD Variable Low-Pass Filter.

My father-in-law (W9OIB) wants to install his old BUD variable low-pass filter (model LF-601-A) at his station. When I put it in, the SWR was so bad that his TS-450S could not tune it up.

The unit has 5 adjustable capacitors (A, B, C, D, E from Input to Output). They are labeled as follows:

A - Variable impedance
B - 2-3-4
C - 4-5-6
D - Variable Impedance
E - Variable Impedance

For test equipment, I have an Autek SWR analyzer, a sweep generator, and a dual-channel oscilloscope.

Does anyone have a manual for this filter or a tune up procedure. I would gladly pay postage and copying costs for a manual.

Thanks

341. RF Pulse Generator Use and Manual

In the junk yard the other day, I came across a Kay 5070-B Rada-Pulser Sr. RF pulse generator. It was only $3 and I figured the switched attenuator was worth that much at least.

When I got it home, it only took about 15 minutes of tweaking to get it working right. I searched on the web and found a manual for $23, but given that I only paid $3 for the unit, I'll pass at that price.

Does anyone out there have a manual they might be willing to copy? I'll gladly pay copying costs and postage (up to $6).

Second question: what neat things can one do with an RF pulse generator? (Aside for checking for impedance discontinuities in a length of cable?)

Thanks,
Ed Bailen - N5KZW

I spent some time with some real nice folks today. First off I dropped by the Pell City club site and they had a real large group of hams having a lot of fun. I met up with some of the folks I lost touch with over the years and all and all had a great time.

Then I went down the road to the Talladega club site and met up with some more folks I'd lost touch with. Lots of new hams, some of the old timers and all having a good time.

And guess what....not a Lllllooooyyyyddd type in site. You know the kind....braindead, bigmouthed and generally just a bump on the butt of society.

The only way I would think that you would get feed back is if there is another radio on the same frequency nearby. The speaker should not produce any sound while transmitting so you should not get feedback. Let me know how you fix this. I'm curious of how this is happening.

The Great Pumpkin
Birmingham Post-Herald
October 14, 2000

Police arrested Lloyd A. Davies, a 27 year old white male, resident of Athens, Alabama in the Anderson Pumpkin patch at 11:38pm Friday. Davies will be charged with lewd and lascivious behavior, public indecency, and public intoxication at the Athens Municipal Courthouse Monday. The suspect allegedly stated that as he was passing a pumpkin patch, he decided to stop. "You know, a pumpkin is soft and squishy inside, and there was no one around here for miles. At least I thought there wasn't." he stated in a phone interview from the Athens Municipal Courthouse Jail.
Davies went on to state that he pulled over to the side of the road, picked out a pumpkin that he felt was appropriate to his purposes, cut a hole in it, and proceeded to satisfy his alleged "need". "I guess I was just really into it, you know?" he commented with evident embarrassment. In the process, Torrance apparently failed to notice the Athens Municipal police car approaching and was unaware of his audience until officer Brenda Taylor approached him. "It was an unusual situation, sure." said officer Taylor. "I walked up to (Davies) and he's... just working away at this pumpkin."
Taylor went on to describe what happened when she approached Davies. "I just went up and said, 'Excuse me sir, but do you realize that you are screwing a pumpkin?' He got real surprised as you'd expect, and then looked me straight in the face and said,
'A pumpkin? Damn... is it midnight already?"

Police arrested Lloyd A. Davies, a 27 year old white male, resident of Athens, Alabama in the Anderson Pumpkin patch at 11:38pm Friday. Davies will be charged with lewd and lascivious behavior, public indecency, and public intoxication at the Athens Municipal Courthouse Monday. The suspect allegedly stated that as he was passing a pumpkin patch, he decided to stop. "You know, a pumpkin is soft and squishy inside, and there was no one around here for miles. At least I thought there wasn't." he stated in a phone interview from the Athens Municipal Courthouse Jail.
Davies went on to state that he pulled over to the side of the road, picked out a pumpkin that he felt was appropriate to his purposes, cut a hole in it, and proceeded to satisfy his alleged "need". "I guess I was just really into it, you know?" he commented with evident embarrassment. In the process, Torrance apparently failed to notice the Athens Municipal police car approaching and was unaware of his audience until officer Brenda Taylor approached him. "It was an unusual situation, sure." said officer Taylor. "I walked up to (Davies) and he's... just working away at this pumpkin."
Taylor went on to describe what happened when she approached Davies. "I just went up and said, 'Excuse me sir, but do you realize that you are screwing a pumpkin?' He got real surprised as you'd expect, and then looked me straight in the face and said,
'A pumpkin? Damn... is it midnight already?"

I have an ADI 600 hp. Looking to trade for a uhf commercial ht for business. Pref. 6+ channels. Or trade for ??? The lower freq. display on the adi has lost some of the top of the display. This does not affect the radio. You can still read freq. I have a rapid charger along with the software and cable to program the radio with your pc. Radio can tx and rx out of band with simple key program. Works great in and out of band.

Hmmm .. thanks for the insight, Bro. Roger. My hat is off to you for that master-piece of detective work. Bro. Falstaff would be proud of you.

Dark purposes ? Now I wonder what he could mean by that. Is he preparing to betray someone's trust ? (Again ?)

Suspection .. ? ? As an unnnnn-employed LOSER, I humbly ask ..what exactly is "Suspection" .. ? ?

One closing observation: Mr. Davies has stated several times that he has had no contact with Mr. Strom for "over a year". The date stamp here shows:
>Date: Thu, 2 Nov 2000 20:56:00
So much for "over a year".

If Mr. Davies wishes to be friends or email pen-pals with Mr. Strom, it's none of our collective business. He has every right. We wonder, however, what exactly necessitates the dishonesty touching this matter.

We must now step back and re-evaluate his comments regarding the new church. Or his "Open Letter to Nashville Joe".

I can't speak for Nashville Joe or but I'm guessing that any chances for "Huntsville peace talks" are hereby "out the window".

My conscience is clear. My wishes for Mr. Davies' career success were accompanied with tangible assistance toward that end. My suggestion that he find help and friendship with a better church stands upon its own merit.

Huntsville 'fest is just around the corner. Our reservations are made at a rather Marriott-esque establishment. (Per usual.) And we're going to Landry's for supper. Or is it Copeland's? Or is it TGI-Friday's?
(It's all three, come to think of it.)

We'll toast his absence with an ice cold Diet Coke. And he can e-mail his friends all about it.

Thanks again, Bro. Roger. We had discussed "Huntsville peace talks" among ourselves. Looks like we'd have been walking into another ambush.

I have the same problem with mine. I thought it was feed back from the mike, but even with the mike unplugged I still have it. I tried it in the house on a PS and it still happens, I even tried different antennas without any success. It works fine at half volume or less, I don't get any feedback. It also works fine with an external speaker. I assume it has something to do with poor speaker shielding??? If you find out anything please let me know as well. Thanks.

Sounds like microphonics. The vibration (audio) from the speaker is getting into the FM modulator (or microphone audio stages.)

Magnetic radiation from the speaker is just a bit too esoteric to be suspect at this point.

Moving to an external speaker pretty well isolates it. It's not a ground loop type problem with the speaker audio or it would continue with even with an external speaker. I'd take an eye loupe and start looking for a cracked adhesive bond somewhere in the microphone audio or modulator path.

Anywhere in these ranges:
144.300 - 144.500 (except 144.390 - APRS) There might be non-FM here.
145.500 - 145.800 (some packet may be here too)
146.400 - 146.600
147.400 - 147.600

Note that the edges and in certain areas, some frequencies in the range may be used by coordinated repeaters. As for "channelization," that's also an issue of your local area's bandplan and either 15kHz or 20kHz may occur.

Another possible range is 144.900-145.100, but usually packet populates that area. In light packet areas, the 145MHz upper half of that range will be populated first. Check with your area's bandplan to see if any of it is available for voice. With the 144.3-.5, non-FM users might have expanded up in some areas.

But Lloyd, do like I do, threaten him with an ISP subpoena of all his data and e-mail for the last month and threaten to take him to court.
Seems to shut him up for me.
If it doesn't, you can always put him in your killfile silly.
You are letting him drive you crazy by listening to him.
I've already talked to his ISP, his ISP doesn't care, thus I had to subpoena them, then they cared!

I think what Lee was asking was not so much as the DESIGNATED frequencies (as you can find in most any repeater directory) as the POPULATED frequencies. That is, besides .54, are there any other POPULAR simplex voice frequencies?

I don't have the answer to that, and I'd like to know also...

What are the 3 or 4 _OTHER_ widely used/populated 2M FM freqs? The specific freqs.

That question is going to depend on where you live, which you did not state.

I answered the question the way that I did because this information was missing.

...And am I supposed to psychically know where he lives, what other stations he can hear, what other licensees live in range, which ones of those have 2m radios, which ones are active, etc....?

He did not state what region he was interested in (or where he lived - by default) so the best answer he could hope for is to be told over what frequency ranges of where to look, and that's what I gave him.

He asked a question without giving enough information to get a precise answer, so I gave him the best answer available for what he did state.

As a general rule, here are the FM simplex frequencies....

146.52
146.58

Or any frequency that does not have a corresponding plus for minus 600khz that falls within the 146 to 148 mhz band plan.

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
QSL REQUEST. OPDX was asked to find out what the QSL status is on the following Andorra special HF event stations (c34ji, c36hk, c35pr... etc.) active during March 2000. 3B6RF QSL STATUS. Steve, N3SL, reports: "The QSL for 3B6RF, will be a full color, trifold job, and it made it to the publisher in time (allegedly) to be printed (35,000 copies) and delivered at Friedrichshafen the last weekend in June. According to plans in place today (always subject to change, as we so painfully and expensively discovered), Kenton Dean, HB9DOT (also NK6F), is due to fly back to the U.S. for a visit on July 2nd (the Monday after Friedrichshafen). He will bring 3000 cards with him (to California) and immediately ship them to me. IF all this goes according to plan, the first cards should hit the postal service by July 15 or so.

Also, if you click on the callbook on the main menu, and then in the appropriate field write any 9A callsign, you will get the address you are interested in. Denis states, "Every suggestion is welcome. I am the chief editor of the Web page and Kreso, 9A5K/K5CRO, is the webmaster. Short a few cents on the dollar? Heck, most don't even have the dollar.
Here are some other good ones...

Hello,
I'm planning to build a simple receive antenna for portable scanner use made of a copper wire (60-70cm) connected directlly to the BNC.
I'll use it to improve the reception in the 100 - 900 MHz (mainly 100-200MHz).
I'm wondering how will this antenna perform and which bandwith will it have.
Another question: how can I improve the bandwidth of the antenna (i have been told that is possible to put some capacitor somewhere to lower the Q and rise the bandwidth) for using it over all the bands (100-900MHz)

Does anybody help me?

Thanks,
Roberto

I'd just stick up a 1/4 ground plane for the lowest freq to be used.
It should work well enough for gov work. Being as you want 100-200 mhz, just cut it for about 100-150 mhz. It will work well enough on that range of freq. It will still receive the high UHF stuff with a less optimum performance. If it's not good enough, make another one for UHF. They are very small and cheap to make. Don't add anything to broaden the bandwidth. You don't need it for receive purposes, and it will just reduce the performance on the range you cut it for. You could also try a discone or similar, but they cost more. A GP can be made from a so-239 and 5 pieces of wire. Cheap. MK

I can't say for sure, but page 86 of the Radio Shack catalog lists 7 vox operated speaker/microphones that are for use with most Radio Shack HTs. I'd check out htpp://www.radioshack.com and see if they specify which HTs each works on. Otherwise, call your local Radio Shack.

Good work Riley. You killed the B.A.R.F. 14.313 is now being used by the nets on 14.300 as a handoff frequency. Just like before the BARF, but in reverse.

Hey net...come on back to 313. Put it to good use again.

I have the same problem with my HTX-242 too. When I turn the radio up almost all the way to be able to hear a local repeater that has exceptionally low audio output I get this annoying whine, which sounds like low level feedback (the making's of I mean).

Aside from this problem, I have alot of good luck with the radio, but I do notice that it is voltage sensitive. Alot of the time on HIGH power mode, I must have the engine running, even though the battery in my truck is brand new. (power cables ran direct to battery)

Hi all. I have a LOADED Drake TR-7 with PS-7power supply and external MS-7 speaker in excellent, no-compromise condition that I'd like to trade for a like condition ICOM IC-706 MKII G transceiver.

This TR-7 is cosmetically and functionally outstanding, and has the full complement of 4 filters, NB-7 noise blanker and Aux-7 range module. Manual included.

The TR-7 was the ultimate Drake transceiver; easy to operate and very high-quality construction throughout. On Ebay a TR-7 with these options would fetch upwards of $1000.

Give me a call, let's see if we can do a trade.

Thanks!

Somewhat related to the subject. I was in Radio Shack today

There is a real nice guy who lives next door who is an avid ham radio operator. The problem is that when he is using the radio, I can slightly (sometimes not so slightly) hear his voice coming through on my cable TV set. He has come over and tried to help change out cables and reposition things so that the interference is eliminated, but nothing has worked so far.

It's not fair to ask him to use the radio at odd hours, so can anybody suggest something that we could try to eliminate the interference?

If you do respond to this post, please also send a copy of the reply to trstinson@hotmail.com since I am don't use newsgroups that often. Thanks!

very nice to see somone so reasonable toward a radio operator, most get all nasty and cause problems. Best thing to do is to mention this to him in a polite way and say that you would like to work with him in making it better as you enjoy your T.V and you are sure he enjoys his radio. Ferrite coils, braid breakers and filters etc, any of which may do the trick but it would without question be best to get your neghbour to work with you on it and find out first what is responsible for the problem, his radio equip or your stuff and second work together to narrow down the most effective method to stop it.

Do note though that with some modern househod equip they have a lousy tolerance to interference and at times it is YOUR household stuff that is to blame because of it's bad shielding etc.

good luck

I whole-heartedly agree, and with an attitude like that, he will fix the problem or he is not a true ham operator.

Don't be afraid to continue to work with him. He will, and probably has done all he can to his equipment and antennas, but in the interest of cooperation, and just plain being a good neighbor, he will do all he can, including contacting the cable company to check on their grounding and shielding to get this fixed.

Keep that great attitude you have, and it will get done, I'm sure.

First, thank you for being so considerate.

Second, sometimes a VCR will pick up the audio. It's not a radio but is susceptible to nearby radio signals. If you use one be sure to turn it off.

Third, at Radio Shack you can buy 2 small filters that should help. The first is a 'Ferrite' bead. It opens in the middle and simply clamps around the cable for the TV. (Like a small C clamp)

Fourth, the second Radio Shack filter looks like a small square with a 1 inch opening. It opens and the power cord can be wrapped around it 3 or 4 times. When wrapping is done, reclose and clamp the filter.

Fifth, a 'High Pass' filter should be added in the connection between the cable and the TV. This is a total of three filters that should cost about $15.

Sixth, there are two different types of cable for your cable TV. The first is low cost and low quality. It does not use solid foil for the shield, it uses braided skinny wire. The best cable uses solid shield. Your cable company most likely used the high grade cable for the drop to the house and the first TV. If you added more connections in the house check the braid of the cable you used. If needed, contact your cable company and request some good cable. Make sure the shield are connected 100% around the connectors --- NO GAPS!!

All told the Radio Shack costs should be about $15. Assuming his equipment is operating propely, the FCC (government) advises that your ham neighbor is not responsible for this cost. That said, many hams will gladly share in the expense.

Finally, I had a Panasonic TV with built in VCR. I could not eliminate a similar problem in the TV set although 2 other TVs in the house operated properly. I was informed by Panasonic that their built in VCR ALWAYS has power on selected circuits. Conclusion, built in VCRs may be a manufacturer's problem that we have to live with.

You and your ham neighbor should call the cable company and explain the problem. There may be a shielding problem on your cable drop or even on the main line running through your neighborhood. Around here, squirrels are notorious for chewing through CATV cable insulation. The cable folks should be able to easily track down the problem.

Three things to double check:

Make sure the amateur station is well grounded.
Ensure this ham has a low pass filter on his transmitter
Also put a cable ready high pass filter is on the TV getting rfi

If all of the above is met, Use N4CND's suggestion on the appliances still receiving RFI. If the torroid on the cable does not work, try the ac line going to the wall. You can find torroids at hamfests, MFJ, and Radio Shack. Radio Shack also makes the high pass filters for TV's at a reasonable price.
It is also possible the interference could be coming from a CB'er close by.Try to compare your interference to when your neighbor is on the air. If you are in a heavily populated area, it very well could be someone else.

Hope this helps. If you have more RFI questions be free to e-mail direct

Since I don't have a schematic of the radio, I hope that somebody can tell Forget it.

The normal simple Lamba/4 antennas hava a useable bandwidth of about 40 % of the center frequency .

I recommend the use of a telescope antenna, where you can adjust the length manually.

The rubber coated spring coil antennas have a useable bandwidth of about 10 %.

Broadband antennas are complicated and not good for portables.
You will need a few different antennas for covering the whole range.

That's not going to help anything if the stations antenna is correctly installed. The problem is due to fundimental overload. Grounding won't effect this at all. The problem stems from the fundimental freq rf that is emitted from his antenna.

> Ensure this ham has a low pass filter on his transmitter

Again, not likely to help anything unless the rig is ancient and has spurious output. Most all modern rigs are clean enough as it is. You can't cure fundimental overload with a low pass filter. It will have no effect at all.

> Also put a cable ready high pass filter is on the TV getting rfi

This could be worth a try, but again it's unlikely to totally fix it. Filtering a TV antenna lead won't cure fundimental overload problems, unless the antenna lead is piping the rf to the rig. In that case it could lower the interference. I'd be willing to guess 95% of the problem is fundimental overload. The only way to fix this problem is by fixing the tv or VCR that is subceptable to this rf. The problem is the fundimantal freq, not spurious output. Filters will be a waste of time in most cases. Same for any grounding schemes. The real problem is sorry shielding in the TV's and VCR's. VCR's can be a real pain. Checking the cable for defects and good shield a good idea, and if using an antenna for the tv, all hardware etc for corrosion. Dirty parts can rectify rf and cause problems. MK

Does anyone know where I can find out about which linked FM repeaters are available in San Jose. In particular, the repeater 439.025 has an output in SJ but I can't find out where the input and pl of this repeater are, nor who's it is.

Thanks in advance,
Dave

In addition to the other answers, check to see if any of the Cable TV splitters that may be used to route it to your various TV's have any open/unused ports. You may want to pick up (or demand from the cable company - since it's really their problem) some 75 ohm F-connector terminators to screw on to these unused ports.

One more coment:

One of my neighbors also had an interference problem with their TV and cable - from my packet station.

They pitched their 20+ year old TV and got a new one (the old one was failing anyway), and most of their problems disappeared too. In their case, I think that the RF was coming in via their picture tube into an improperly designed TV.

Maybe it's listed on the COORDINATOR's page.... Did you try NARCC's web site?
439.025 is not a primary repeater frequency but is used for auxilary links. You need to find the repeater's call and then look it up to find its primary pair.

The owner of a small furniture store in Glen Dale, WV arrived in France on a buying trip. As he was checking into a hotel he struck up an acquaintance with a beautiful young lady. However, she only spoke French and he only spoke English, so each couldn't understand a word the other spoke. He took out a pencil and a notebook and drew a picture of a taxi. She smiled, nodded her head and they went for a ride in the park. Later, he drew a picture of a table in a restaurant with a question mark and she nodded, so they went to dinner. After dinner he sketched two dancers and she was delighted. They went to several nightclubs, drank champagne, danced and had a glorious evening. It had gotten quite late when she motioned for the pencil and drew a picture of a four-poster bed. He was dumbfounded, and has never be able to understand how she knew he was in the furniture business.

Hi Folks

Does anyone know of a web site where I can print out a listing of DXCC countries, with a chart including all the HF bands. You know the thing, where you can tick off each country worked on each band.
Just thought I'd ask before I started making myself one, in case someone had already done it.

Check this site, there is a nice Microsoft Excel sheet to track band mode

I agree with everything except the spelling.

It's fundamental (not fundimental), and susceptible (not subceptable).

Grounding of the ham station is not applicable to the instant case, no bearing on this type of problem.

Low Pass filters are ancient history, old technology in the case of modern ham rigs. Now back in the 50s & 60s....maybe

Forget high pass filters too, in this type of case, again, no bearing on this type of problem.

Best approach, let the pros handle it, contact the cable company and let a CATV engineer locate the problem, most likely open cable between the TV set and the neighborhood booster or bad hardware at the neighborhood system booster closest to the TV being interfered with. Should take a CATV engineer or a good CATV tech. about 20 minutes to locate and maybe another 20 to fix the problem. We handle this stuff several times a week.

I think everybody's covered most of the angles re. possible solutions to your TVI/RFI situation. I just wanted to add that you sound like such a nice and considerate person that I wonder if you might not be interested in amateur radio yourself. Granted, this is not the most conventional introduction to the service/hobby that I can think of, but an intro it is.

While working with your neighbor, ask if he/she belongs to a club...you might find that you like it. Just a thought. Good luck.

Hi all...

First off... My apologies to the admins of rec.radio.amateur.misc for my outburst here in NG. I shouldn't done that, it's not like me at all.

Second of all... To the users... I normally don't go off half cocked like that in ANY NG. I used to do that stuff in rec.radio.cb till I realized that the morons fed on stufff like that, and I quit doing it.

There was a series of events that led up to that posting last night, I was in a seriously bad mood last night, I was't feeling to wonderful, (and it ws my birthday of all things... and I had stomach problems... of all things on my birthday) and I happened to turn up the radio and heard MR Heston (W8CH) on 3898 and that was the spark that lit my fuse, and I basically "snapped" and went off on him. Of course, there were reasons for this, Criss has been accusing me of QRM'ing 3898 and 3865. None of which is true, Guys, I'm being honest here, I worked very hard to get all my licenses... from Novice up to my present class, General. and I would never, Ever do ANYTHING of that sort to put my Amateur Radio License in risk of being taken away. to me that's like getting a driver's license and going out and hitting the first person you see walking... Just plain ignorant! Anyhow... for this reason, I will not be operating on 3898 or 3865 or anywhere else, there are troublemakers anymore... I'm sticking to psk31 and RTTY. and other FRIENDLY modes of operation.

Again to this NG, I am very sorry for my actions here and I promise It will not happen again....

Back to listening mode.....................

Yep, it's real bright to make public your intention to do harm to another - you might as well send a signed confession to the authorities as well. But then again, it's always those who talk big about it that never have the "stones" to act. The ones you need to worry about are those types who never say a word, instead they quietly and covertly initiate their action.

I don't know who is trying to change what but I just went by what was required when I got started last year. You can't blame the newer guys for policy changes. I met the requirements to get started and I'll meet whatever I need to to upgrade. Not my fault I don't need CW to be a Tech. I have read up on CW and I have a program I downloaded that is helping me learn it to get ready for the next test which I will pass easily. 5 wpm isn't much, I agree. I do know I will probably never use it afterward, just don't like it. Technology changes everything we do, EVEN HAM. I think CW is a dying form and will be gone soon but I appreciate what it has done for amatuer radio. For you older guys I have no doubt you had to earn your place in ham radio and I respect that. You may be peoples only link to CW down the road. I'm in a club where only one other person is under 40 besides me, all the others have been hams for years. All this whining is what keeps the younger folks from exploring the hobby. I'm sure they appreciate surfing on to the newsgroup looking for amatuer radio info and see older members putting down the new guys. Keep chasing them away and the hobby will die with you. Don't blame the new people just because someone forgot to pay the lobbyist.

So...has it helped him avoid 'suspection'? And just how dark ARE his purposes? Have the extreme right sent out an exterminator yet? When they discover Lloyd has been planted by the enemy in order to discredit them, all these off topic, Lloydcentric, postings will mysteriously disappear, and the right will get back on their rather badly bruised intellectual tracks again..

That bunch on 3898 are some of the worst hams on the band! They are about the most unfriendly group on the air! Some of them QRM themselves. Some of them on that frequency cause QRM by their WIDE signals. So I wouldn't worry to much about anything that group says!

...But even the link should be ID'ing. If there's no callsign given after 10 minutes of first activity, then the link transmitter is not in compliance with the amateur radio regulations.

URL's: I supplied NARCC's home page with my original message (or I thought I did) - http://www.narcc.org/. SHARKK's URL I don't remember offhand, but it's probably locatable via a search engine.

Your right. He single handidly wiped out the B.A.R.F. from 14.313. So well that the net is using it for a handoff frequency. Hail Riley.

As for 3.901 Yep...right again. He blasted the hell out of the Stumpjumer morons, W4FQF, W4LLI, WA4KBX, K4OKA and all the other malcontents that jammed it on a nightly basis for years. Hail Riley.

IF he does come back on, and I have my doubts, and he starts his usual shit, (calling people niggers, jamming, etc), he will be gone again. I won't hold my breath that he will be back. After all Dan, 3.901 has been leaderless for years now. With your flashback or drug induced outburts you can't hold the frequency long. I think if OTK did come back he would be a shell of his former self and 3.901 would be dead for sure.

3898 hasn't been amusing since the good old days of Gator Stakes and 10 Kilowatt amplifiers running from "certain stations" in West Virginia. I doubt 98 will ever go back to their glory days. Hopefully the Great WA4D will someday come out of retirement and spice up 98 and the rest of 75 Meters.

Why would a grown man want to send good money after bad just to buy a meaningless ten-ten number? Somebody, somewhere, is making a lot of spending money from the fools out there.

I don't think $10 a year is going to kill ya is it Anus? The same could be said for what ever organizations you belong to. Here is a clip from the 10-10 website (It sounds like they are making a killing huh?) :

The Ten-Ten International Net, Inc. was formed back in 1962 as the Ten-Ten Net of Southern California. Its purpose was to promote activity and good operating practice on the ten meter amateur band. During the first few years the organization grew slowly, but by 1975 there were 10,000 members, and the word "International" had crept into the name. There have now been over 70,000 10-10 numbers issued world wide.
The Ten-Ten International Net is a non-profit entity incorporated under the laws of the State of California.

Ten-Ten (or more commonly "10-10") has no paid employees. All of its officers and managers serve on a voluntary basis, and are reimbursed for necessary expenses only. With the great expansion of the organization in recent years, it has been necessary to employ computer processing for membership records and mailing labels. This has also permitted publication of a Membership Roster at suitable intervals and has facilitated mailing the quarterly 10-10 International News, which is sent to all paid-up members.

Ten-Ten's principal expenses are for printing, postage, and computer processing. Annual dues are $10.00 US members and $13.00 DX members to provide funds for expenses.

Bring back the dawg?!! What are you nuts? 75 meters is still in pretty bad shape but no where as bad as the days of the dawg. It got bad again in the early to mid 90s and the feds put a stop to that crap. Lets hope the days of the dawg and the

One of the aspects of ham radio that I have enjoyed over the past 45 plus years is that there are so many different aspects of the hobby. I have tried some of them and would like to try others but time and money restrict me.

Over these decades I have always enjoyed:

1. cw operation I am amazed that the mind retains the ability to read the code even after long periods of no use.

2. QRP operation with under 5 watts. 24 countries worked qrp/mobile with a converted cb radio. Patience and technique prevail over power.

3. 10 meter operation because the distances can be so great for low power. Here is where this message ties into the thread... As most of you know ten goes into oblivion for years at a time during the sunspot cycles. Ten-ten Net offers some reason to keep active and provide some signals on the band.

Guess I am one of those grumpy old men.

: Todd,

Sorry to hear of your RF troubles. Typically, Cable TV equipment will provide more than adequate isolation between on-air and off-air signals as to make this a non-issue. However, leakage in cable equipment does happen more often than cable companies like to admit, and there are uncommon circumstances that do crop up from time to time.

Cable TV channels actually operate on the same frequencies that many commercial, amateur and broadcast stations operate on, so it is imperative that cable TV and on-air signals be isolated by the Cable system, and all splitters and cables and equipment in the home. High-pass filters on the TV set or Low-pass filters on the ham station will have no effect because, isolation between on-air signals and cable signals should be far greater than either of the filters could provide. Fundamental Overload that some have referred to would be impossible for the same reason.

More common, is leakage from customer owned splitters, cabling, connectors, VCR or other equipment in the cable path, or cable jumpers. If you can feed the Cable company supplied cable directly to one TV and the problem goes away, you know you will need to concentrate on your installation in the house. The use of Double or Quad-shield RG-6 cabling (including jumpers) hi-isolation splitters and carefully installed connectors should be used in any in-house distribution.

If you still have problems with a direct connection to the Cable Co.'s drop, then you need to concentrate on direct chassis pickup by the TV set itself or on Cable company faults. If the TV (or VCR or DVD, etc.) is at fault, it may be incurable. However, RF may ride down the outside of the cable or through the AC line to the TV where the chassis will be exposed to an abnormally high level of the ham signal, and may directly interfere with signal processing in the set. Most TVs are well prepared for interference through the AC line, but other accessories like VCRs, may not be. Others have referred to "shield-breakers" as a fix for this, but they can actually worsen cable leakage. A far better solution is to wrap several turns of the cable or AC line through large torroidal ferrite cores in line to the equipment stack and/or plug strip.

Another possibility; If the signals are AM such as from a CB or some die-hard boatanchor fan, the signals may be picked up and easily heard by active audio devices through speaker wires or audio cables. I note this as an aside, because AM is not in common usage by hams anymore. Torroids and shielding will usually stop this kind of interference.

Some Cable Co. faults are from corrosion or faulty equipment in cable vaults or aerial distribution boxes. These are the Cable companies' responsibility, but they don't usually have a comprehensive plan for detecting these malfunctions without customer complaints. In cases of cable leakage, signal from the cable will often escape and cause interference to other radio services too, so that is how someone could trace the location of the fault and determine whether or not it is on homeowner property or Cable Co. property.

3W, VIETNAM. Michal, 3W7TK, has been very busy lately on 15 meters CW/SSB. Check between 1245 and 1830z on or around 21255 or 21012 kHz. QSL via OK2HWB.

9H, MALTA. NODXA's good friend Holger, DL7IO, informs OPDX that he is happy to announce their first DXpedition with the newborn Xenia. Holger and the girls (Birgit/DL7IQ, Saskia and Xenia), along with Olaf/DJ7TO left for Gozo Island (EU-023) on Sunday, July 1st, and by the time you read this, they should be active as 9H3O for the next two weeks (July 15th). Birgit/DL7IQ will use her 9H3TZ. They plan to have two stations up with legal power, directional antennas for 20-10m and verticals/dipoles for the lower bands. Activity will be on 160-10 meters, mostly CW. Their main activity will take place between July 6-9th. They got permission to use the location of the Gordon Fanal Lighthouse on Gozo (130m over NN, 360 degree view) during that time and will do so with both stations. QSL route is of course via DL7VRO. ADDED NOTES: As the editor was putting the final touches on the bulletin, 9H3O was heard active on 17/15/12 meters between 1200-1600z. Check around 18080, 21007 and 24900 kHz.

CONTEST ANNOUNCEMENT/CHANGE. Rob, HK3CW, Director of Contests and Awards of the Liga Colombiana de Radioaficionados (LCRA), informed OPDX that this year's Colombian Independence Day Contest will be held on July 21st, 0001-2400z. This has not been publicized. The contest committee decided to change the date and rules to make it more competitive for DX to work the contest and avoid other DX contests that occur on the same date. Details can be found on the Web page: http://hk3cw.freehomepage.com (Sadly it is in Spanish)

DXCC NEWS RELEASE (June 26, 2001): Bill Moore, NC1L, DXCC Manager, has announced the following: DXCC is pleased to announce the addition of the 12-Meter Single Band DXCC award. Applications for this award will be accepted beginning July 2, 2001. 12 Meter DXCC certificates will be dated but not numbered. 12 meter credits will not count toward the DeSoto Cup competition until October 1, 2001, but they will be included in the DXCC Challenge totals. If you do not know what credits you have on 12 meters, you may contact DXCC for a copy of your record. Note: the 12-meter band was added to the printout on January 1, 2001. If you received a copy since then, you already have a copy of your 12-meter credits. This will help avoid duplicates and additional costs. If you have web access and can handle ADOBE (.pdf) files, contact DXCC at dxcc@arrl.org for a copy of your record. If you do not have web access, please send a note to DXCC along with $2.00 for postage and handling. For further information, please contact DXCC at dxcc@arrl.org

EY, TAJIKISTAN. This is the week that a group of mountaineers and EY amateurs are planning an expedition to the Sarez Lake. The group will climb a nameless mountain (5800m) and name it "Radio Amateurs Peak". The operators will be Vladimir/EY8HB, Nodir/EY8MM and Faruh/EY8AV. However, Faruh will stay in the base camp and coordinate all the activities while Vladimir and Nodir climb the mountain. QSL NEWS AND INFO.....
7O1YGF DXCC Status. Franz, DK1II, has informed Andy, NX1Q, that "it doesn`t look too good for getting a piece of paper from the Yemeni authorities." Dominik, DL5EBE, a member of 7O team was just recently again in Sana'a, where they "still have good relations with the responsible persons in the Ministry of Communications, but the answer he got there was not encouraging." Franz states (repeats), "we entered Yemen and did our operation, we had the firm oral promise, that our operation was approved by all relevant authorities and that we would get an approval in writing. Due to several circumstances which were not in our control and not caused by ourselves (!), there happened a change in mind......! But we assume, that we brought some movement in the issue of legalizing amateur radio in Yemen! This is the only info I can give you now! Sri!"

Gil, F5NOD, reports that all FR/F6KDF/T QSLs received before April have been sent. If you didn't receive yours, please resubmit to F6KDF, the QSL Manager. Gil reminds everyone to put the name of your country on the SAE. Also, there will be NO QSL mailing before September ...

Laurent, KM5M/F5JTL, informs OPDX that he has talked to Jean-Claude, TR8XX, who used to be his next-door neighbor in France. He told him that he is going back to France for the summer and QSL cards should be sent to his F2XX callsign/address while he is there. The Gabon post office doesn't always work well, and it would be a lot safer to send directly to his French address for the next 2 months.

QSL Manager, Steve, KU9C, reports that he expects the BQ9P QSL card to find its way to his doorstep on/about July 13th. However, due to some family commitments, he is going to be a bit slower than normal in getting these cards out, as he has some things scheduled in July that will keep him away from the QSL cards (yes, even QSL Managers take a vacation now and then!). He will begin processing the cards immediately, but as he has some 6500 envelopes to fill. He doesn't anticipate having the cards out completely before mid-August. He doesn't think that this will create any award submission problems, and he states he will do the best he can to improve on this schedule. When all direct cards are out, Steve will post a note. Steve requests to please not E-mail him asking him if he has your card or if he has mailed your card, etc...

OS4OSA was a special event station for the Cutty Sark Tall Ships Race from Antwerp. A special QSL card will be received via the bureau for every contact, or if you prefer send a direct card to ON7SS:

Marc Domen, Ferdinand Coosemansstraat 32, B - 2600 Berchem (Antwerpen), BELGIUM.

of the following about the special event VC2A by the Montreal Amateur Radio Club: "Sorry for the notice. I was told a few minutes ago that the special event station has been canceled because of thunderstorms in the area. I was about a half a mile away from the Canada Day site in Dorval about twenty minutes ago and the lightning was quite a sight!
Again, sorry but that's the way it goes I guess..... Vernon"

Yeah, those VE's are doing every underhanded thing they know of to keep folks out of amateur radio! We need some vigilante's to run THEM out of amateur radio. If we don't monitor them closely, they might even start wanting applicants to be able to understand some of that technobabble like Ohm Slaw, and such stuff. :-)

I'm led to believe that Carbon composition resistors aren't being made in quantity much any more. Metal film pretty much rules today.

I guess it's one way to get the MDR of metals...

Sadly, these GB's - "good buddies" - haven't the slightest clue what those specifications mean and how they relate to the performance of the rig. If they did, RCI would be out of business tomorrow. Trying to have a rational discussion of these technical specifications with a GB is like trying to explain nuclear fusion to a migrant farm worker. A classic exercise in futility...

Many hams don't have a clue what they mean either. Also look at the antenna gain numbers for either CB or Ham antennas and they both seem to be just made up for the most part. YOu can not go by what the makers tell you, but have to check them out. Don't depend on the magazines either. One magazine gave a good review to a mobile rig and said yo could see the display in any lighting condition. I could hardly read mine and a fellow ham could not hardley read his display either. If they mislead you on the simple things like that, just think how they may mislead you on other things.
Afterall , how many bad reviews did you ever see ?

Hans, I recall another so called "ham" who liked to create new thread titles denigrating other hams. That's about the same time his arguments ran out of steam. His name was Steve Adell and he's gone. When will you be gone?

No doubt the composer of this fake news release has no idea that he is impersonating a federal officer, which is a federal crime. Has anyone forwarded this posting to Riley?

Under Cotse's TOS, when a crime is involved, they will release all information

Trouble is that the poster made NO claim to be a federal officer or an employee of any govt. agency. Ergo he could hardly be charged with Impersonating a Public Official. (a Misdemeanor in most states)
It IS entirely possible and easily doable that the offended party could ask for and obtain a Court Order to subpoena the records to see from whence this post came.
The poster managed to just slip in under the wire of illegality, but is not entirely in the clear since there is still a blatant case of Libel. It will be up to the victim to proceed with any legal actions in this matter and since the poster is well-acquainted with the legal system one must surmise that he/she is betting that the victim in this case will let this libelous post fade away.
If, on the other hand, one were to make such false posts about the poster, and we all know who HE is, one can bet that the poster would cry to high heaven and issue numerous threats of ensuing legal action.
As before, it is acceptable for this poster to dish it out but when the shoe is on HIS foot.....my, how he does whine!!!
Let us look at the time....it is now 01:32 a.m. and the poster of this diatribe has probably reached a B.A.C. of at least 1.7 per cent. Twice the legal limit in Georgia.

Georgie Girl W2ZB
(The Seekers)

Hey there, Georgie girl,
Waddling down the street so fancy free,
Nobody you meet could ever see
The pervertedness there -- inside you.
Hey there, Georgie girl,
Why can't you let all the boys just pass you by?
Could it be you just don't try,
Or is it the women's clothes you wear? You're always window shopping, but never stopping to buy;
So shed those boa feathers and fly -- a little bit.
Hey there, Georgie girl,
There's another Georgie deep inside.
Bring out all the manlove you hide,
And oh, what a change there'd be.
The world would see
A new Georgie girl. (Instrumental bridge) Hey there, Georgie girl, Dreamin' of the someone you could be,
Life is a reality;
You can't always run away. Don't be so scared of changing and rearranging yourself;
It's time for putting slurping cum on the shelf -- a little bit.
Hey there, Georgie girl,
There's another Georgie deep inside.
Bring out all the teenboy love you hide,
And oh, what a change there'd be.
The world would see
A new Georgie girl. Ad lib and fade:
(Hey there, Georgie girl.)
Wake up, Georgie girl.
(Hey there, Georgie girl.)
Go away, Georgie girl.
(Hey there, Georgie girl.)
Wake up, Georgie girl.
(Hey there, Georgie girl)
Try to keep that job, Georgie girl antennas, transmission lines, Pi-L networks, power amplifiers, ground radials,

Small single files. Download in a few seconds each. Not zipped up. Run

Stagger Lee--

Point well taken; however, consider this:

Just because software is shrink-wrapped, and on a store shelf with a familiar trademark doesn't alleviate the concerns listed here.

Out of 16 million (or more) lines of Microsoft code, how do you know there isn't any code that performs unlisted functions? How does the purchaser know for sure that there isn't any malware placed on that commercial CDROM disk? Viruses used to be found on pre-formatted, shrink-wrapped floppy disks.

Also, heuristic scanning is commonplace for VC applications these days. This allows for virus-like behavior to be detected, and not depending on an actual match-up for detection.

Not trying to offend, and I certainly don't wish to, but I just see things differently.

In all probability, his executables are safe. At least as safe as anything else that is available.

Also, you could set up a machine that is off the network (older PC's are practically free) and test applications on it before risking any installation on your main (and highly worth protecting!) machine.

Just my .02,
73, Mark

For Immediate Release:

Twice-fired FCC employee wanted by Federal Communications Commission for violations of Part 97. George F. Arsics, Jr., ex K1QKJ,AB4ZV, and currently W2ZB, is wanted by the FCC for multiple repeat violations of part 97 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. As you will recall this is the ex-Powder Springs FCC employee who was caught by his co-workers jamming KV4FZ on 14.313 in a drunken stupor, and promptly fired. Since that time Arsics has been directly involved with the jamming, stalking, and harassment of several amateurs through a group known as the "Goodfellows". Other accomplices of Arsics in this activity have been N4CND,WB2OTK (call revoked),N4XCV (call revoked), K9BSD,KK9G, and N9PGE. Arsics lost his home at 2571 Bethany Lane in a last minute sale to avoid foreclosure earlier this year. Thus his FCC ULS data is fraudalent. Arsics has done this in the past, once listing the retirement home where his father passed on his 610. This enables him to freely jam other amateurs on HF with no fear of revocation
According to part 97, and we quote, "
97.23 Mailing address.

Each license grant must show the grantee's correct name and mailing address. The mailing address must be in an area where the amateur service is regulated by the FCC and where the grantee can receive mail delivery by the United States Postal Service. Revocation of the station license or suspension of the operator license may result when correspondence from the FCC is returned as undeliverable because the grantee failed to provide the correct mailing address."

If you know the actual physical location of the station owned by George Arsics, jr. used to jam and stalk other hams, please report this information to your local FCC Field Office or contact Riley Hollingsworth, Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement at rholling@FCC.gov .

Why do you say this? What has happened to make you feel this way? I do feel that the ARRL doesn't count you if your not a member. I do know this from the restructuring days. They would even look at my idea. The reason was, I wasn't a member. You can bet I'm one now. Here is the deal they are all we got and they are trying to keep our bands for us. I just wonder what has happened to you personally to cause such a outburst? I receive QST mag and find it to be very informative.

I had the same problem. It WAS the cable drop from the pole to the house.. The Co. replaced it and the problem is no more. Up to that point, which has been years ago, I had tried everything. All had little effect. Have the cable Co. REPLACE the feed to your neighbors house. It works. Tim

Hi all,

I need some help. I recently moved to a quite little village, but its not so quiet on the radio bands. There is so much electrical interference that it totally blots out broadcast AM stations, creates havoc receiving local 2 meter repeaters, and forget about working SSB here... ya just can not work any DX with a 20 over interference noise level.

Just by listening to the noise, I can tell its 2 different sources, maybe more. One of the sources is a constant buzz that goes on and off, as if it was switched on .... like a floresent light or something. The other is more of an arcing noise. The arcing noise isn't as strong as the buzz, but still, its an S5-S8 on my 706MKII. I've somewhat located the noise by driving through the neighborhood with the 706. I've called the electric company with pole numbers and street locations on this one. That was over 1-1/2 months ago. Its still arcing away and tearing up the bands.

Its this pesky buzz that is so strong that wipes out broadcast AM radio and wipes the HF signals off the map. I have a strong feeling that one of the people in my new neighborhood has a very noisy dimmer switch or a floresent light that is noisy.

My questions are:

1 - Does anyone have any plans/instructions for a compact HF antennas that can be used for directional interference locating?

2 - If I should find that its one of my neighbors that is creating this noise (unintentionaly).... does anyone have any sugestions how to aproach them about their faulty equipment that is making noise?

3 - Anyone in SE Wisconsin (around West Bend) that wants to do a little "live" intereference hunting, feel free to e-mail me so we can put our heads together and solve this MAJOR problem here.

4 - How can I set a fire under the electric companys ass to get them to fix the arcing noise? --- Do I have to chop down their pole or something??? -) ---

Thanks for your time

Wanted: Rental House with running water and working septic.

Want to rent a house in the Atlanta area, pets a must. Loving couple with good references are looking for a quiet, comfy, country setting in which to settle and become a part of the community.
Husband is temporarily out of work, but will soon be accepting an 80K per year job as a computer engineer. Wife is gainfully employed and is the current bread winner.
We are non-smokers (cigarettes), social drinkers and leave our rentals in better shape than we find them. Husband is a Veteran of the United States Navy and served as a Sharpshooter, a Navy Seal, an Airborne Assault special ops operative shot down during a midnight mission in the Gulf War and all-around self-proclaimed hero. Rank achieved after 14 years of service. E-2.
Husband has not one, but TWO Honorable Discharges from the Navy which hang on the walls of his current rental.
Reason for leaving the Navy: Personal conflicts and Combat Fatigue brought on by delerium tremors.

We can take immediate posession if the landlord will let us make payments on the security deposit and we are almost never late on the rent.

The mouse over does not seem to cause a significant problem with this version.

Generally, that code comes from a well known vendor you've chosen to trust. In addition, should malicious code show up in such software (and it has happened), it is widely reported and immediately corrected. Too much money is involved for the vendor to do otherwise.

> Out of 16 million (or more) lines of Microsoft code, how do you

I'm not downloading an operating system; I'm downloading an application. There's a very large difference. 99% of the virus/worm/trojan writers are kiddies like De Guzman (Melissa worm) who typically write small programs and distribute them via the Internet. Web pages are a favorite launching point for such malicious programs, and so anyone who urges you to "visit my web page" is acting within the profile of a typical bad guy.

Furthermore, many of the nasty kiddies post executables on their web pages and attempt to entice you to run them on your machine, at which point the payload gets delivered. Therefore, posting only executables makes you look even more potentially dangerous. (Even some porn site operators put trojan executables on their web sites which are intended to cost you lots of $$$ for long distance charges.)

> does the purchaser know for sure that there isn't any malware > placed on that commercial CDROM disk? Viruses used to be found > on pre-formatted, shrink-wrapped floppy disks.

I'm not talking about purchasing from a vendor, but rather about downloading executables via the web.

> Also, heuristic scanning is commonplace for VC applications these > days. This allows for virus-like behavior to be detected, and not > depending on an actual match-up for detection.

Heuristic scanning has generally not lived up to its proponent's claims. There is simply no virus scanner or protection software which can deal with all possibilities, and relying on such software only leads to a false sense of security. Safe computing, like safe sex, means prudent behavior beforehand. One such behavior pattern is to avoid downloading executables that come from personal web pages.

One remedy for those posting programs (and I use it) is to post the source code so that people at least have the opportunity to inspect it or to compile it themselves if they so desire. I have no need to withold the sources of my own programs, unlike the person who started this thread.

I do withold my true identity from this forum, however, because of the stalkers who inhabit it.

The A.R.R.L. has a great book called, "The RFI Handbook". You may also go to their page (www.arrl.org) and find a bunch of info on the subject.

Power Line interference falls under part 15 of the FCC rules an regulations. It is under 'incidental radiation devices'.

What you do is as follows;

1. Write a letter to the engineering department of the power company and detail the problems, and any locations you have already found. Certified mail.

2. Inform them that they are REQUIRED, under FCC part 15 to fix this problem in a reasonable amount of time.

3. Inform them that you will notify the state Public Utility Commission if no action is taken.

4. Notify PUC, certified mail, copy to Power Company.

5. After a reasonable time, and depending on action, if any. Notify the FCC in writting, provide copies of ALL corospondence and file a formal complaint.

6. Sit back and watch heads roll.

COmment...usually just the threat of doing something like this will result in action. It worked for me....several times.

The main thing here is patience, and perserverence. Bug the hell out of them.

Thanks. It's now $139.95 at Ham Radio Outlet and the price is right! The lack of a DTMF keypad would hinder me just a little... I might carry a separate DTMF generator along with it. The main purpose would be to have a working radio in my briefcase at all times, for such things as enabling my wife (KC4UVW) to find me when picking me up at work... also regular listening to NOAA and some local utilities.

Whilst this may not be of a radio basis, it does concern online internet security, and as such be of interest to everyone in the group, and elsewhere.

If you are thinking of installing Microsoft's XP operating system, then please read the comments of Steve Gibson at www.grc.com first. I think you will find his comments enlightening.

It appears that, after a month long hiatus, United Patriot Radio has returned to the shortwave airwaves.
They are currently transmitting on 6.900 kHz USB with a moderate strength signal. They started at 7:00 PM Central Time. It looks like their back to their original schedule of 3 hours broadcast per night, this being 7:00 to 10:00 PM Central Time. In past the "live" portion of the show with Col Steve has been from 9:00 to 10:00 PM Central (10:00-11:00 PM EST). The station is alleged to be in Eastern Kentucky, and is set up as a Militia type "free radio" outlet. The current debate is if UPR is either a Clandestine or a Pirate station. The difference being a Clandestine is on the air for purely a political or sectarian purpose, wheras a Pirate is more a station set up purely for the amusement of the operaters and it's listeners.
Regardless of where UPR falls into classification, enjoy it while it's on the air setting a new milestone for free-radio operation.

For Immediate Release:

Twice-fired FCC employee wanted by Federal Communications Commission for violations of Part 97. George F. Arsics, Jr., ex K1QKJ,AB4ZV, and currently W2ZB, is wanted by the FCC for multiple repeat violations of part 97 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. As you will recall this is the ex-Powder Springs FCC employee who was caught by his co-workers jamming KV4FZ on 14.313 in a drunken stupor, and promptly fired. Since that time Arsics has been directly involved with the jamming, stalking, and harassment of several amateurs through a group known as the "Goodfellows". Other accomplices of Arsics in this activity have been N4CND,WB2OTK (call revoked),N4XCV (call revoked), K9BSD,KK9G, and N9PGE. Arsics lost his home at 2571 Bethany Lane in a last minute sale to avoid foreclosure earlier this year. Thus his FCC ULS data is fraudalent. Arsics has done this in the past, once listing the retirement home where his father passed on his 610. This enables him to freely jam other amateurs on HF with no fear of revocation
According to part 97, and we quote, "
97.23 Mailing address.

Each license grant must show the grantee's correct name and mailing address. The mailing address must be in an area where the amateur service is regulated by the FCC and where the grantee can receive mail delivery by the United States Postal Service. Revocation of the station license or suspension of the operator license may result when correspondence from the FCC is returned as undeliverable because the grantee failed to provide the correct mailing address."

If you know the actual physical location of the station owned by George Arsics, jr. used to jam and stalk other hams, please report this information to your local FCC Field Office or contact Riley Hollingsworth, Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement at rholling@FCC.gov .

What newsgroup is called flame_fest? You seemed to want to cross post there, but I've trimmed the groups back a bit. Looks like you can't distinguish between a comma (,) and a period (.) while using the Cotse "news reader" as you freeload from that site. You did manage to post to alt.radio.scanner, and they're probably wondering why you did that. As a friendly gesture, I've trimmed alt.radio.scanner from the followups to this post.

I know that this kind of stuff can be terribly difficult to master, and I'll be glad to help you out whenever it starts to overwhelm you again.

With all good wishes, RSJ

"Internet Security?"

The Internet was never designed to be a "secure" network. What security that exists on it now is clearly an afterthought.

If it's not about amateur radio, why did you ever think you could get away posting this crap here? Next time, use something like "alt.bash.microsoft" (I'm not saying that they don't deserve to be bashed - they do. Just don't SPAM us again).

Calling the FCC in the States is about as helpful as you calling for prayer. I place better chances on prayer.
FCC doesn't get involved much unless a LOT of pressure (Political) is placed upon them.

The only person I feel sorry for is you, Oris. Mr W4CND, you are the biggest idiot I EVER seen, a 3.901 Wanna be, who always thinks he's better than anyone!

I'm suprised wilkey hasn't drove down there a whipped your sorry ass. I wish he would. Ever your damn webpage sucks. I remember looking at it a while back, and saw something about a swap, something about unlawful amps on there, Funny thing is, most of the amps were Amps used for Amateur Radio use. (clipperton L, DRAKE L4B, ect....)

So, Oris, I'm gonna say about you, that Bobby does, "Just a useless piece of crap...."

Have a nice day Oraface!

P.S. and Oh, BTW..... You getting me booted from my ISP, did me a really big favor, I'm getting a cable modem anyhow... anyhow, I didn't need to spend the extra money anyhow... and I figured, if I'm going to look at pop up screen, and advertisments, why should I pay for it? FREE INTERNET!

Everybody's a fat, balding slob who married an equally repulsive truck stop whore?

I have launched a new IPHONE ham conference room page.This site has multiple conference rooms from around the world which you can talk to other hams over thier local repeater links. You must have java enabled and have the Vocaltec software on your puter for the conference rooms to work.You can get the software on the site . For those who are familiar with the system , this web page loads much faster than most others on the net and has all know conference rooms so you dont have to visit multiple sites.Click on the urls below to visit the site, you can also visit my Tampa Bay Radio Page.

Here we go, Rog. I be posting at three a.m. and you will then be able to comment when your mommy wakes you up for breakfast at six a.m.
I can see Roger now....beady-eyed, furrowed brows, greasy hair askew, fingers working feverishly over the keyboard as he posts his redundant filth. Little tubby Roger, too angry to eat his greasy bacon and eggs until he can answer the posts made the evening before. Beady-eyed little Roger, tongue sticking out of the corner of his mouth, malformed little head at an angle, typing madly away while his mommy calls out, "Roger, your breakfast is getting cold!"
Beady-eyed stud-muffin pounding out his little diatribes in the only life he has...The NEWS GROUPS. Little Rog will likely claim that I have no woman in my life due to my early hour posts. He likes to pound that drum over and over. I ask Roger....who, besides your Mommy, is the woman in YOUR life, Woger? I don't mean those women from GLAD, either. Who you dating, Woger? Seems your dance card is not too full, eh? Who do you hold hands with, Rog? Mommy? Poor wittle fwustwated Woger....kissing an inflatable doll good night must be frustrating. Getting "her" out of the closet and inflating her every night must also be maddening. Why don't you just leave her inflated and introduce her to your Mommy? Heck, take her to breakfast with you and tell your Mommy that this is her future daughter-in-law. Your Mommy would probably be tickled that you have a girl friend. All you have to do is tell your Mommy that your inflatable friend is a air head and doesn't talk much. Heck...pour a little coffee down the inflatable girl's mouth and your Mommy may even fall for the ploy.
What the heck. Your Mommy has breakfast ready, so deflate your girl friend, roll her up and hide her in the closet and go get them vittles.
By the way, Rog. Your mom does NOT live with you in your house. You live with her. The deed is in HER name. What the heck, it is your story and you can tell it any way you want. Trouble is that everybody else knows better.
(what if Woger's inflatable doll is a man-doll? That could be..)

You "be" posting, aww, what's the matter, didn't you complete even Freshman English before you had to drop out of that fifth rate community college? Yeah, that's because you don't have a woman isn't it? Not that you like women, mainly you like those male blow-up dolls (you know, the ones you talk so much about) and kids 8 - 11 years old to blow.

While you'll be eating out your mommy's yeast infected cunt. I heard you like the little doughy parts. Do you still sexually molest that autistic son of yours? Do you still beat up your wife, Strom? Does steve turdeater still do several lines of cocaine before he gets on the so-called liberty net and babbles on and on about nothing?

I can see Arf Arf now, balding, pot-bellied little pig, with his gopher-like buckteeth and facial features. His facial skin complexion is reminiscent of the moon's surface, and even though his father told him differently, those sperm facials don't take those pock-marks away. Which you shrilly deny...too bad it's true isn't it, queerboy? Why do you WHINE so fucking loudly about me saying the reason you post at 3 and 4 AM is BECAUSE YOU'RE WOMANLESS?
<space reserved for arf arf dodging and backpedaling>

>I ask Roger....who, besides your Mommy, is the woman in YOUR Poor arf arf that cocksucking lisp still haunts you, doesn't it? Arf arf still sucks of his male cousins who are minors. BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!

At least my mommy isn't dying of syphllis like yours is, Arf Arf.

>I don't mean those women from GLAD, either.

You sound like an expert at that. Did you go to the infatable ones when the farm animals weren't available?
We weren't talking about my dating, (which is plentiful), we were talking about your lack of a woman being the reason you post at 3 and 4 in the morning.

> Who you dating,
> Woger? Seems your dance card is not too full, eh? Who do you hold hands > with, Rog?

"Holding hands??" I bet the thought of even something resembling a human female holding your palsied hands would be the extenet of your idea of foreplay.
BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!! I bet ol' arf arf here, a VIRGIN. A 30 something VIRGIN. At least heterosexually speaking.

> Mommy? Poor wittle fwustwated Woger.

Poor cocksucking liping arf arf, just can't leave the little boys alone. Is that why you have that felony record for child molesting, arf arf?

Poor frustrated arf arf, he's projecting his own meaningless life onto others. You're in denial, arf arf. Besides, we can all see how big, bad and mean you are since you post anonymously.
BWAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!

> What the heck. Your Mommy has breakfast ready, so deflate your girl > friend, roll her up and hide her in the closet and go get them vittles.

BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!! Projecting again, cum-gargling child molester arf arf? Why did you make those "I will suck off teens 8-12 y.o. in the teens newsgroups? Pervert arf arf, has a criminal record for child molesting.

> By the way, Rog. Your mom does NOT live with you in your house. You live

BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!! Lie some more, DUMBASS. Your story can't be varified, either, fuckwit. The house IS mine. Tell YOUR story anyway you want to, so called christian liar. Trouble is, your "property" is assessed at under $15,000. Poor white trash Arf arf...he'll have to eat that leftover pizza this morning and drown his pain in another bottle of alcohol.

> (what if Woger's inflatable doll is a man-doll? That could be..)

What if arf arf's criminal record somehow gets posted here,

Arsics, Jr., ex K1QKJ,AB4ZV, and currently W2ZB, is wanted by the FCC for multiple repeat violations of part 97 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. As you will recall this is the ex-Powder Springs FCC employee who was caught by his co-workers jamming KV4FZ on 14.313 in a drunken stupor, and promptly fired. Since that time Arsics has been directly involved with the jamming, stalking, and harassment of several amateurs through a group known as the "Goodfellows". Other accomplices of Arsics in this activity have been N4CND,WB2OTK (call revoked),N4XCV (call revoked), K4QIJ (call revoked),K9BSD,KK9G, and N9PGE. Arsics lost his home at 2571 Bethany Lane in a last minute sale to avoid foreclosure earlier this year. Thus his FCC ULS data is fraudalent. Arsics has done this in the past, once listing the retirement home where his father passed on his 610. This enables him to freely jam other amateurs on HF with no fear of revocation

Each license grant must show the grantee's correct name and mailing address. The mailing address must be in an area where the amateur service is regulated by the FCC and where the grantee can receive mail delivery by the United States Postal Service. GLENDALE, WV: The FCC sent a Warning Notice November 9, 1999, to General licensee Roger L. Wiseman, KC8JBO, citing evidence that the licensee had been "deliberately and maliciously interfering with the radio operations of other licensed amateurs" on 20 meters. "This interference has occurred at various times in the last several months and includes broadcasting music and other unidentified transmissions," said a letter from FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth. Hollingsworth warned that continued operation of the type described could result in a fine or license revocation proceeding, and he requested that the licensee contact him to discuss the allegations.

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC requested July 11, 2000, that Roger L. Wiseman, KC8JBO, retake the General examination elements under the supervision of an ARRL-VEC volunteer examiner team. Wiseman must appear for retesting by September 11, 2000, or his license will be canceled. Applicants appearing for re-examination are granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements passed. The FCC had written Wiseman on March 29, 2000, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" between Wiseman and another licensee that included allegations of interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth invited the two licensees to contact him to discuss the matter. Additionally, the FCC had sent Wiseman a Warning Notice last November in response to allegations of deliberate and malicious interference on 20 meters.

Roger L. Wiseman

610 Glen Haven Avenue

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio License: KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

The Commission has monitoring evidence that you have been deliberately and maliciously interfering with the radio operations of other licensed Amateurs on the 14 MHz Amateur band. This interference has occurred at various times in the last several months and includes broadcasting music and other unidentified transmissions.

The Commission generally relies upon the Amateur Radio Service to be self-policing. Operation of the type described above is contrary to the basis and purpose of Amateur Radio and degrades the service for legitimate users. This serves as a Warning Notice that such operation will not be tolerated. Additional incidents of operation of the type described above will result in a monetary fine being levied against you and in revocation proceedings before an Administrative Law Judge.

You are requested to contact me at 717-338-2502 to discuss this matter.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel, Amateur Radio Service

Enforcement Bureau

As far as I'm concerned, the owner of the web site is a modern Chicken Little, running around shouting that "the sky is falling."

What has really happened is that Windows XP's TCP stack has been brought into congruence with most versions of Unix, with OS X, and even with some versions of MacOS: The user can fill in the fields of IP packets before they are transmitted. Yes, that allows "spoofing", but it has always been possible for most other OSes. The web site mumbles something about DOS or DDOS attacks, but the perps of DDOS attacks don't care about spoofing anyway since they're not using their own machines. So what if the packets get traced? Spoofers have plenty more compromised "zombie" Windows machines where those came from, and getting the owner of a zombie in trouble seems like icing on the cake.

The problem isn't Windows XP -- it's Windows in general. Badly configured "out of the box", Windows 95/98 machines are easily taken over and turned into zombies by means of several well-known security holes. If you go to to http://www.sdesign.com/securitytest with your Windows or Linux or Mac box and pass their checks, you will be among a tiny minority of users who can do so. In fact, that's what you ought to be doing first -- not worrying about Windows XP!

Seems pretty simple to me. If it wasn't for the ARRL or at least some group lobbying for us, we wouldn't have the VHF and higher bands now. We would have to take our amateur exams from the FCC offices.

The way we see it you have three options:

1. If we don't like what the ARRL is doing become a member and become active and change it. Of course you can only do this if everyone else doesn't like the same thing. At least you can get your voice heard.

2. If you do like what they are doing. Become a member and support them. One of the things about being mature is that you learn that you don't have to agree with everything a group does to be a supporter.

3. Be childish! Sit back and bitch.

I am not sure what your problem with QST is but for me QST is a nice freebie. The value I see in the ARRL is things like QSL buros, the many awards and contest, leadership, PR, VE sessions, training, books, and the list goes on.

I will be that any member who wish could get at least their dues worth of service from ARRL.

>THE ARRL OF TODAY IS A SHELL OF THE PAST.....THEY DO LITTLE NOW, AND >HAVE LITTLE 'CLOUT'.......(IF ANY.)

I really wish those who put effort into trying to tear down ARRL would put as much effort into making it better.

Twice-fired FCC employee wanted by Federal Communications Commission for violations of Part 97. George F. Arsics, Jr., ex K1QKJ,AB4ZV, and currently W2ZB, is wanted by the FCC for multiple repeat violations of part 97 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. As you will recall this is the ex-Powder Springs FCC employee who was caught by his co-workers jamming KV4FZ on 14.313 in a drunken stupor, and promptly fired. Since that time Arsics has been directly involved with the jamming, stalking, and harassment of several amateurs through a group known as the "Goodfellows". Other accomplices of Arsics in this activity have been N4CND,WB2OTK (call revoked),N4XCV (call revoked), K4QIJ (call revoked),K9BSD,KK9G, and N9PGE. Arsics lost his home at 2571 Bethany Lane in a last minute sale to avoid foreclosure earlier this year. Thus his FCC ULS data is fraudalent. Arsics has done this in the past, once listing the retirement home where his father passed on his 610. This enables him to freely jam other amateurs on HF with no fear of revocation According to part 97, and we quote, " ï¿½97.23 Mailing address.

Each license grant must show the grantee's correct name and mailing address. The mailing address must be in an area where the amateur service is regulated by the FCC and where the grantee can receive mail delivery by the United States Postal Service. Revocation of the station license or suspension of the operator license may result when correspondence from the FCC is returned as undeliverable because the grantee failed to provide the correct mailing address."

If you know the actual physical location of the station owned by George Arsics, jr. used to jam and stalk other hams, please report this information to your local FCC Field Office or contact Riley Hollingsworth, Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement at rholling@FCC.gov .

It's no big deal - any decent firewall will protect an internet client machine from being affected - and if you run an internet web server you can easily protect your server, but there is not a lot you can do to prevent a "denial of service" attack to your ISP connection.

In order to exploit the XP raw socket issue - or conduct any type of malicious activity - a hacker has to be able to obtain access to your machine first.

The only ones who will be affected by the TCPIP protocol layer in XP will be the "computer illiterate", and these types will be open to cyber attack regardless of which OS they run - most of them already allow easy NetBios access to their machines from the web and they don't even know it...

DX VIDEOS.....
VK0IR HEARD ISLAND - "Outpost at the Edge" (Editorial by KB8NW)
This broadcast television documentary is a must for any DXer who collects DXpedition videos. James Brooks, 9V1YC, who has written and filmed the video, provides 50 minutes of interesting facts and history of this isolated island. The video not only contains footage of the famous, very expensive VK0IR DXpedition, but also rare film on the first expedition to the island. You will learn about the history of the island from the early 19th century American sealing industry through the Austrialian occupation in the 1950s. If you enjoyed James's other videos, you will really like this one. For more details, visit the web site: http://home.pacific.net.sg/~jamesb

Dennis, K7BV, introduced his "Fernando de Noronha - PV0F - CQ WPX 2001" video at the Ham Radio 2001 Convention in Friedrichshafen, Germany, last weekend. A World High Power 3rd place finish is claimed for his operation. The professionally produced video is 14 minutes long and features an entertaining tour of the island, its history and the QTH of its most famous occupant, Andre, PY0FF. It is currently available in NTSC format and will be made available in PAL if there is sufficient interest. For more information, send E-mail to Dennis at: k7bv@aol.com

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
D68C QSL STATUS. Don, G3XTT (D68C publicity officer), reports that the D68C QSLing is now well underway. Many cards have already gone out, and a large batch for U.S. hams will be mailed very soon. Of course, with the biggest DXpedition of all time, it will take several weeks to catch up with the cards already on hand. Once those are out the way, it should be possible to deal with any new incoming cards pretty quickly. He requests to PLEASE NOT E-mail Phil, G3SWH, about your cards as answering E-mails simply takes him away from the QSLing task! Don states, "We would, of course, have wanted to get cards out even earlier, but with so many sponsors who, naturally, looked for proper recognition on the card, we needed time to run the design past them before we went to print. And simply printing something like 80,000 cards (in Germany) and getting them shipped to the UK took time too. But when you see the cards, I'm sure you will all be delighted."

Wendell, K4JZ, reports that the QSL cards for the Poor Boy DXpedition, FP/K4JZ, June 15-18th, will be replied to as soon as he receives the cards from the printer (In approx. three weeks).

Dr. Rick, NE8Z, was active this past week as WW8DX/8 from Rattlesnake Island, Michigan, which has been known to be infested at times with poisonous Eastern Massassagua Rattlesnakes. Rattlesnake Island is MI-051L for the U.S. Islands Award. QSL via WW8DX QRZ.COM or NE8Z at: Rick Dorsch, Box 616, Hamburg, MI 48139 USA

NOT THE QSL MANAGER! Igor Zeldin, UR5LCV, President of UARL, informs OPDX that he is not or has never been the QSL Manager for RU9CI. He continues to receive direct request from many U.S. stations.

Frank, VE7DP, informs OPDX that QSL cards for the February 2001 IOTA operations from the Philippines have arrived from the printer. The processing of direct requests has already begun, and the first batch will be in the mail this week. It may take him about 4 weeks to clean up the backlog. Bureau cards will be sent out later to every station in the log. It is not necessary to send him cards via Bureau!! The QSO totals are as following:

OC-091 1600 VE7DP/DU1 & DU1KGJ/p OC-126 2100 4I1P
OC-244 3900 4I1P OC-093 4100 4H2B
He mentions that the documentation to have the operations accredited is on its way to G3KMA. Some cards are arriving also for 4G1A, but Frank is NOT the QSL Manager. Cards for the 4G1A contest station should be sent direct to 4G1A/DX1CW.

The YV5/NE8Z QSLs for the IOTA SA-035 operation from Islas Los Roques have been printed and direct requests will be sent out on or about July 25th.

SPECIAL EVENT. Look for special station HG8SDS to be active only once a year between August 14-21th, in Veszto-Magor to celebrate "Sarret Days" (HG8 Sarret DayS). A contact with this station is good towards the "Sarret Award" (10 points). Activity will be on 80-10 meters CW and SSB. For more details on the award and HG8SDS, check the Web site at:
http://www.qsl.net/hg8sds

SPECIAL EVENT. Gene, UA9AB, President of the Troisk Amateur Radio Club, reports that the TARC will celebrate its 30th anniversary on July 23rd. During their celebration, they will be active using the special callsigns UE9ATC and UE9ATC/P from July 20-27th. A special colored QSL card will be issued for contacts during this period. Also, any station that makes contact with 3 members of the club during this period will receive a Special Award.

T8, PALAU. Hideki, JE8BKW, will be active as T88BB from the evening of July 8th through the morning of July 11th. Look for Hideki on 80-6 meters, SSB and CW. QSL via the JARL bureau or direct to his new address at:
Hideki Sanada, 4-2-11-312, 24-Ken 2-Jo, Sapporo, 063-0802 JAPAN.

TG, GUATEMALA. A Spanish team consisting of EA1QF, EA3CUU, EA4BT, EA4KA, EA7AAW, EA7JB, EB1ADG and EB4EE will be in Guatemala from September 17-26th, installing a digital radio emergency network as was done in El Salvador and Honduras in past years. At the same time, a HF operations will take place on all bands from 160-6 meters on SSB, CW and RTTY with special emphasis on CW and the WARC bands. They have requested the callsign TG0R, but the final approval from the Guatemala PTT is still pending. All the activities will be done jointly with the Club de Radioaficionados de Guatemala (CRAG). QSL via EA4URE.

TI9, COCOS ISLAND. Andy, YS1AG/G5AYU, informs OPDX that there is an active station on Cocos Island, and the operator is Hugo, TI2HFM/TI9. He is a gamekeeper/forester there working for the Costa Rica Parks administration. He is usually heard on weekends, around 0300z somewhere near 7070 kHz ragchewing with TI5ECC (YL) and TI3GBP, who is due to join him by the end of this month. They will also take a radio along so there will be two TI9 stations on the air. They are not DXers, but like to ragchew in Spanish on 40 meters (it is better than no activity at all).

VP8, SOUTH GEORGIA ISLAND (possibly South Orkney Island also!).....
OPDX received an E-mail this week from Mike Gloistein, GM0HCQ, who was active from South Georgia Island as VP8SGK for a few days during the end of March and the beginning of April. To start, Mike informed OPDX that the address we had listed in OPDX.505 was wrong (Sorry!). The correct address is: Mike Gloistein, 27 Stormont Way, Scone, PH2 6SP, Scotland. He also reported to OPDX that he will be going back to South Georgia sometime in late November or early December. He will be active onboard the Royal Research Ship Ernest Shackleton beginning about October 10th. He will be changing his callsign to VP8CMH/MM once in the Falkland Islands and the Antarctic waters. There is a slim chance that he may even be able to operate from Signy Island this time around, but he won't know for sure until he gets there. Mike hopes to post the ships itinerary on his Web site at: http://www.qsl.net/gm0hcq
Once he is away, updates will be posted at: http://www.hfdx.co.uk

WORLD LIGHTHOUSE ACTIVITY......
WLH-NEW
WLH-0074. Mario, DL5ME, states that he will be active as LA/DL5ME from the lighthouse on the Island of Runde (Soroyane -IOTA EU-079, WLH-0074), July 14-16th. He will also be active from a new lighthouse on the Island of Vigre (Nordoyane - IOTA EU-056), July 19-21st. He will use a log-periodic and 500 watts. During the IARU Contest, look for him on 17 meters (during the NA window). QSL via homecall direct (the fast way, 2-3 months) or the bureau (the slow way, 1-2 to 5 years).

LH-0978. Masafumi, JA6GXK, will activate the Japanese lighthouse on Me Shima Island (AS-056) over the next few months. Look for him on the following dates: July 13-24th, August 14-24th and October 5-16th. Activity will be on 40 meters, 14260 and 21260 kHz.

Use the VOICE or FAX answering machine at 440-237-8208 which shares the same phone line as BARF-80 BBS using a data/fax/phone switch. To access:
1) Dial Number. 2) Wait for first ring (the second ring should be a false ring from the fax/data switch box) and then dial four quick ones ("1111").
(NOTE: Some FAX machines that send single "BEEPS" every second will not have to do this step.) 3) The phone will pick up and after the "BEEP" leave your voice message or FAX.

The FORMER AF2Y has been like this since Riley took his Ham license away. So much to say, so little media in which to do it.

Cushcraft has been publishing one for several years, usually have them at hamfests but not sure if they show up down your way, HI. It is 17 x 11 and folded to make four 8 1/2 x 11 pages. Not only the multi-band DXCC countries but also a multi-band WAS section and also an ARRL-Canadian section part. You might check their web site since they not have their antenna manuals online as pdf files. They may have this or you migh send them an e-mail asking for a bunch for your local club.

Then that is the real concern. That so many computer newbies are eazy zombies.

One would tend to think that it would be absurd to spend so much time fooling around with such things when they could spend less time making a million dollars honestly.
But there really are people out there with lots of time on their hands (and doting mommies) that think it would be real "kewl" to crash a plane, or blow up a building, or deny service to thousands by tying up systems.

If you threw them all in prison and give them playstations, they would probably be very happy.

Trouble is, you have LARDASS Lllloyd all in a lather thinking something's

"Hateful". Poor Gopher-face, that gopher-like appearance prevented him

704. Mods and tricks for the FT-840??

I'm thinking about getting a FT-840....and like my other rig, a VX-5R, I want to know if it can be modified. I know about the general TX modification for 1.8-30 mHz continous TX, but I haven't seen any other mods for it.

Are there other ways to modify a FT-840?

Thanks.

In another lesson about Usenet, let me point out the NNTP-Posting-Host header. It is used by many news servers to identify the IP address of the poster. In the case of the subject post, it is "NNTP-Posting-Host: 207.0.147.221", and that traces back to Ovis.net and to the specific POP that you dialed when you logged into Ovis.

Next time, I may give you a lesson on the "tracert" command under Windows -- not nearly the mystery it may seem to you at the moment -- and perhaps even how to use DNS to uncover all kinds of interesting things about IP addresses which belong to various ISPs.

An awful lot of this stuff is documented by Windows itself under file:///C|/Windows/aux.html. Enjoy.

From: CBRambo (cbrambo@aol.com)
Subject: An Open Letter, Apology, and Final Message from CB Rambo
Newsgroups: rec.radio.shortwave
Date: 1999/03/16

Over the past few days, I have spent a great deal of time in reflection of my past behavior on the radio newsgroups. My conclusion is that I have wasted a great deal of time and effort engaging in pointless arguments and petty bickering with other participants here. This is time and effort that would have been much better spent on other, more meaningful pursuits. I have also come to the realization that I have offended some of you with my comments, as some have inadvertently taken my remarks in a personal manner. This was never my intention...and for this, I am truly sorry.

Contrary to popular belief, I am not a "bad guy". If you were to know me in person, you would probably say that I am kind-hearted, free-spirited, fun to be around, and generally easy to get along with. But, like all of us, I also have my character flaws and shortcomings. Specifically, I tend to be particularily stubborn at times (especially when provoked) and I am also prone to "carrying things too far" upon occasion. I like to play games, tease, and joke around...and sometimes, I don't know when to stop. This has always been a weakness of mine, and I am now working very dilligently to control it.

As I read some of my past newsgroup postings, I must admit that I am rather embarrassed and upset with myself for engaging in some of this nonsense. I have made off-topic comments here which have had the effect of causing chaos and disrupting the flow of information for which this forum was designed. I am certainly not the only one who has done this, but that doesn't justify my behavior. Lack of maturity, insecurity, poor judgement, the "thrill" of being safe behind a keyboard, and an occasional feeling of boredom in my life right now...all of these were contributing factors. Again, that does not justify my behavior, but I can see now how these feelings and character flaws caused me to behave as I did. I also tend to get a little "touchy" when someone accuses me or implies that I engage in illegal radio operations. This is simply not true. Never has been, never will be. I am a law-abiding citizen who does not have even as much as a traffic ticket on his police record. I don't mention this as an attempt to justify my behavior, but only so that you might understand why I occasionally acted the way that I did.

In an effort to restore order and tranquility to this newsgroup, I will immediately and forever cease from posting here. I will be available via e-mail for the next 24 hours, and would appreciate hearing from those of you who have thoughts on this matter and do not wish to post them publicly on the newsgroup. When the 24 hours has expired, I will permanently delete the "CB Rambo" screenname from my America Online account and I will not appear online again. I'm sure many of you are skeptical here...and rightfully so...but time will indeed prove my sincerity. Again, I apologize to those whom I offended here and for being a nuisance on this newsgroup.

Thank you for your time. Radio is a wonderful thing. May it have a long and prosperous life. Goodnight and God bless you.

"WHERE'S THAT BIG 'OL CB RAMBO?"
"HE APOLOGIZED, LEFT THE NEWSGROUP, AND WENT AWAY FOR GOOD!"

Liar.

Go crawl back under your rock, Drew. You're not fooling anybody.

"Where's all the RADIO CRYBABIES?"

PLEASE HELP! My radio has a very fatiguing, stairstep tuning feel-- not the smooth analog feel it should have when tuning up and down. It's like the tuning resolution is only 50Hz, instead of 1 Hz. This radio was sent to Yaesu several years ago because the 2nd LO went out. It has been like this ever since I received it back from Yaesu, but never did anything about it! Anyone familiar with these LO circuits in this radio? Also, the FM mode doesn't work-- no white noise on RX, very quite. Any help would be appreciated...
Thanks,

You have been licensed for less than a year and you already have a negative opinion about the ARRL? Hey, they lowered the code to 5 WPM to cater to the tech's, but you haven't bothered to take advantage of it? How much more "catering" do you want ?

It would make more sense to license him by Act of Congress, put the loafers over at Printing and Engraving to making him one very large and ornate certificate, have it presented by an important official like the township road commissioner, and hire the local high school band to play Looney Tunes during the ceremony and play for the Beer and Polka party afterwards.

Every high school band member should practice Who Stole the Kishka.

Hi folks.

I guess I just got one too many linears, so here's your chance to pick up a beaut. It's a really nice L4B that's clean, works right, and your satisfaction is guaranteed. The power supply has been updated (by someone before me) with new diodes with bypass resistors, new capacitors plus a new glitch resistor, the right kind of course.

The amp itself has a pair of genuine well-matched Eimac 3-500Z tubes, and they test out great on all bands, 80-10. The front panel is the newer design, and all of the controls work smooth and perfectly, including (of course) the power switch.

I don't plan to make a cent on this one, I just hate to see it sit unused. I would prefer a local pickup in Southern NH, but I will ship if needed at your cost. I've got $725 in this thing, and that's my price. You get all the cleanup, testing, etc that I did FREE, plus 10 days to make sure you like it. Manual included.

Please contact me at (800) 962-2949 or (603) 465-2788

Thanks!

Tip leads to arrest in Farmington theft

By BETTY JESPERSEN, Staff Writer

Copyright ï¿½ 2001 Blethen Maine Newspapers Inc.
E-mail this story to a friend

FARMINGTON ï¿½ A robbery suspect who police said took money from a cash register at Mr. Paperback on Wilton Road on Monday and then fled was arrested after being spotted by a vigilant West Farmington resident listening to her scanner.

Arrested on a charge of robbery, a Class B felony, was Shawn Griffen, 32, of Jay. The charge is a felony, because Griffen reportedly used force to push his way past the clerk as he ran from the store, said Farmington police Officer Christopher Chase.

Griffen is being held in the Franklin County jail with bail set at $25,000 cash or $50,000 worth of property. He is expected to be arraigned in Farmington District Court Tuesday.

Chase, who had been on patrol in the area, arrived at the bookstore in less than a minute of the noontime call. When he realized the man had fled on foot into the woods behind nearby Fyfe Road, he called for assistance.

A total of seven officers from Farmington and the Franklin County Sheriff's Department assisted in tracking the suspect.

Chase said he did not know the amount of money taken.

The cash was stolen after the sales clerk stepped away from the counter to help a male customer, later identified as a friend of Griffen's.

The clerk told police she saw a man at the cash box and rushed back, only to have him run past her. She reportedly yelled and tried to block his way with her arms, but he pushed her aside, Chase said.

The clerk followed him for a way on foot, and saw him rip off his shirt that had a distinctive design on it and run into the woods.

About 45 minutes later, a West Farmington resident whose home is on Temple Road, north of Wilton Road, called police with a tip.

"Someone who was listening to the scanner saw a man meeting the description walking through the backyard and heading toward Maxwell's Market," the officer said.

Maxwell's is at the intersection of Temple Road, also known as Route 43, and Town Farm Road.

Deputy John Black picked Griffen up. According to Chase, Griffen's friend was also stopped and questioned as he walked east on the Wilton Road towards downtown Farmington.

CNN NETWORKS:

Calling all ham radio operators

July 10, 2001 Posted: 11:30 a.m. EDT (1530 GMT)

By Dan Verton

(IDG) -- The System Administration
Networking and Security (SANS) Institute is recruiting amateur radio operators to take part in an emergency communications network that it said could be used by disaster relief personnel in the event of a catastrophic failure of telecommunications systems, including the Internet.

In its weekly newsletter this week,
Bethesda, Md.-based SANS asked all interested ham and packet radio operators "to take a leadership role to help establish and maintain" such an emergency backup communications network. Interested parties can contact SANS, a research organization for systems administrators and security managers, via e-mail at info@sans.org.

There are approximately 600,000 amateur radio operators in the U.S. and 2.5 million around the world. Ham radio operators, as amateur radio operators are popularly known, must obtain a license from the U.S. Federal Communications Commission and are encouraged to provide emergency communications during natural disasters and national emergencies.

Jim Haynie, president of the American Radio Relay League (ARRL), a Newington, Conn.-based organization that supports the interests of ham radio operators in dealings with the government, said the

SANS proposal is a good one and in many ways similar to what amateur radio operators have been doing since the first licenses were issued in 1912.

"There is a network that can be marshaled if needed," said Haynie, referring to the potential of a terrorist attack or natural disaster to cripple large portions of the Internet and the telecommunications grid. "If the Internet went down today, it wouldn't change my life one bit," he added. "It's nothing for me to go in my ham shack and flip one switch and talk to New York or Bulgaria or Ukraine."

The ARRL estimates that there are about 275,000 "hardcore operators" who could swing into action if needed, Haynie said. "But to back up the entire infrastructure is a pretty tall order," he cautioned, noting that the use of ham radio operators in this fashion wouldn't mean the instant restoration of Web browsing capabilities or Internet e-mail capabilities.

Instead, Haynie said, the ham radio network would be strictly used for passing emergency voice and data communications between government officials at the local, state and federal levels and the public.

The ARRL is a signatory to several memorandums of understanding with various federal and private relief agencies, including the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Red Cross. In fact, many of the ARRL's 175,000 members have actively supported federal emergency response operations during many of the most recent disasters and crises.

During the flooding that ravaged parts of Texas last month, for example, the FCC set aside a band of frequencies for use by ham radio operators to support federal relief efforts, Haynie said. Likewise, the radio operators were called into action after the 1995 blast that destroyed the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City led to an overload of the cell phone network.

Alan Fedeli, director of emergency response services at Atlanta-based security software vendor Internet Security Systems Inc. (ISS), applauded the approach suggested by SANS and said any attempt to establish alternate communications channels should be supported.

David Curry, manager of business strategies at ISS, pointed to outbreaks of Internet and e-mail worms as prime examples of the need for such an alternate network. Many companies simply pull their systems off the Internet when that happens in order to prevent the worms from reaching them, according to Curry.

"People's reaction was to unplug the network," he said, referring to several such incidents. "The problem is that the people disconnected themselves from the source of information about the problem."

Ham radio is a hobby for children to play with radios.
It has nothing to do with emergencies.

Obviously you know nothing of what your talking about.
How about if you read back your last line to yourself and practice what you preach. While your at it, try doing some research on the subject matter. You just might learn something.

Not true, HAM radio is a serious form of communication around long before the internet and unlike the internet, it works without the need for routers and hubs which fail and knock huge portions of the internet out, which we've all experienced.
Also, HAM radio is commercialism free, not dependent on cell phone outages etc.
On the other hand, I agree, HAM radio operators are usually overgrown toddlers who like to play "official" and play "important" when they are mostly a bunch of pathetic mentally or defective freaks, but indeed they do serve a major important role when it comes to emergencies which might be the only reason these pathetic people were sent to the earth in the first place, to be small time heroes if only for a few days on their radios.

Sounds like someone just figured out what hams do all the time naturally, and without a whole lot of pre-organization.

Hi, Horsefucker,

You're back trolling again?

At least you haven't posted more "mods" that destroy scanners.

I can tell you know nothing about hams and how they enjoy their Good reminder and recruitmant publicity, anyway. They might be having trouble attracting new members now youngsters have computers to play with.

Reminder to non ham lurkers: Radio can only be knocked out locally, unless someone pops a nuke in low earth orbit, virus writers have come close to taking out the net with just a few lines of code and governments are working on ways to shut the net down, besides.

Ham operators have been dealing with communications in emergencies at least since the '50s in America.

The police often use them when the phone system is down since police radios are of a local nature.

Actually, it was my interest in Amateur Radio that started my electronics service technician Career.

At which I worked for 30 years, making a decent living and providing much needed services to communities all over (in electronics, not radio).

Amateur Radio, for some, is much more technical than throwing a switch and yapping into a microphone.

So maybe I stared -out- as a kid interested in gizmos and knobs and dials, but my involvement with HAM actually lead to something useful and productive, as, I am sure, is the case with many ARO's.

Then again, I agree that some people shouldn't be allowed on the Amateur Bands, as I observe, some people shouldn't be allowed on Usenet.

He's said that he will die in a gunbattle. Of course his wimpy little

Now I didn't want to look at any pictures of him mating with a horse, but that was his thrill.

He has occasionally given intentionally incorrect advice that would damage or destroy a scanner.

Got to a ham radio show and look at all the freaks.
Man, you've got wheelchairs running all around, people with half their heads and faces missin, arms blown off, legs up their butts and if you take a good smell, apparently allot of them have a problem shittin on themselves. You cannot tell me that hams are a freakshow, or maybe the HAM shows I've attented for the last 10 years was just for freaks?
The reason HAM's become HAM's is that they usually need something to do with their lives as a form of social contact. If you are missing half your face, or you crap your pants, chances are you are not going to be very social, thus you become a HAM.
Oh but now, look at us, we are doing the same things HAM's are doing. I wonder if ur a freak! I know I am! :)

Am I trolling? I thought I was just being honest as I really don't care to get a reaction. I just enjoy speaking freely as I sure the hell can't get away with it in real life. Free speech on the internet is a godsend. Instead of holding all my feelings inside I can blow them out, no matter how nasty. Better to speak freely than to run around shooting people freely in my frustration of life in general. I think the internet is very therapeutic.

Hello,
For what it's worth, SANS is a very low key US Government sanctioned organization that educates companies on how to defend against "information warfare". Their courses on how to "catch" hackers are given by some of the best analysts in the US military. One SANS course I attended had 250 people from all over the world including government agencies from other countries. Bill Clinton called in SANS when he wanted advice on how to prevent denial of service attacks like those that crippled e-bay and Amazon.

If SANS wants ham radio operators for emergency ops, you can bet that they are extremely serious about setting something up. They have a web site at http://www.sans.org .

The city where I live in Central California has a population of about 26,000. I think it has 2 paid fire fighters. All the rest are volunteers. They seem to do a pretty good job, too. In fact, being a volunteer fire fighter is very prestigious here.

This was down the road from my wife's childhood home! Goes to show you the good things that happen when scanners are present, and DES isn't. This makes a strong case for extreme limited usage of encryption.

We drove up by there just this past Sunday to visit her parents. Yes, I do monitor Franklin SO and Farmington PD when in the area! Never know what might happen.

Thanks for the post!

You would love my local club, Tippecanoe Amateur Radio Assoc. (TARA).
Lets see, we have a Electrical Engineering professor from Purdue who is one the leading experts in DSP and consults with NSA. We have two software engineers, two retire state police radio techs, a retired Army Signal Warrant who spend most of his career assigned to 5th Special Forces, plus a number of other professionals. Yes, we do have many working class folks as well.
But this is a hobby that crosses class lines.

And many members of the club are heavily involved in volunteering with either
Red Cross or the emergency management (TEMA). My county would not have a strong volunteer base without the hams.

Thats not even close to the direction I am referring to.... They could care less about anyone who is in the situation of "non-homeownership," i.e. leasee's and renters! I am not complaining about the code etc..... In fact, I just found out that a VE screwed up and didn't follow the rules, and I would have been a Ham 12 years ago..... And I am sure you have it set in stone in your mind that I am a person who wishes against the code requirement..... WRONG! I would like to see the 3 levels of code come back!

BTW..... I have CSCE for General .... just don't see the need to use it yet. Nothing on HF I care to use at this point and CANNOT because I am unfortunately a renter and have a landlord that I had to prove in some way or another my damned HT was a scanner, otherwise I might have been evicted. Jeeesh, not even thinking of HF at this point. So I have "bothered" to utilize them. PRB-1 my ass.

I feel that it should be mandatory that every police and fire department have a reserve force, much like the military has.
For one thing it would provide a means to screen applicants.
And, since most police officers do not stay beyond 5 years, it would be a way to allow experienced and trained officers to continue serving even if they chose other career opportunities.

Marion County Sheriff's department and the Indianapolis Police department both have strong reserve programs. Both of these agencies have over 2000 sworn officers plus nearly that many trained reservists. The reserves go thru the same training as the full timers. In fact the full time officers brag on how good the reservists are. They like the fact that there are officers who can patrol with them or even cover shifts if needed. And the reserve force is paid.

The same goes for the USAR and National Guard. The active components usually can not tell the difference when serving along side a reservist. And the reserves are doing more and more active duty missions (look at all the folks just serving in Bosnia who are reservists).

The day of full time professionals doing everything is over. We are going to be dependant on volunteers and reservists. Congress is even looking at returning to the draft, mandating that every male (if fit to serve) in the National Guard with service in the other reserve forces, active components, police, fire or prison services being optional avenues.

So get off you elitist high horse.

Col. Steve has become progressively more "goofy" over time.
He used to check into the Liberty Net on 3.950 a year ago before he surrendered his ham licence. This was shortly after he was caught red-handed by the FCC jamming WWFV (WGTG?) because Dave F. dropped Mike Koernkie's (another commensurate looser - now in jail in Michigan for multiple felony convictions) Intellegence Report for not paying their radio airtime. Ever since then, ole Steve has gone over the edge and it's just a matter of time before the BATF knocks on his door at 3:00 AM to conduct a "radio check". The Liberty Net kicked him off for being a loose cannon, so did the Motley Crew on 3.860, then the Kentucky State Militia distanced themselves from his radio station. Now he's back on from 8:00 PM to 11:00 PM every weeknight on 6.900 mHz USB. This poor soul desperatly needs a rubber-walled guest room at the State Mental Hospital and a 50 mg Prozac or Fluvoxamine (Luvox) regimine every 24 hours.

A: Where did you get the idea that renting was even remotely similar to home-owning with regards land use?

2: What makes you think the ARRL (or anyone else, for that matter) has any standing in a landlord-tenant issue?

Because behind every story there is another side to it, I have to ask why the HT even became a subject of discussion between you and your landlord.

Blaming the ARRL, in a strident, off-topic, public lambaste no less, makes missing the point an understatement.

PRB-1 isn't and never was intended to apply to landlord-tenant situations with regard to antennas.

That sounds like an excellent idea. Also pass it on to the Reserve
Police officers who donate time, money and equipment, the volunteer EMTs (hope Barry doesnt have a bad heart..or power tools...)

Pass it on to the volunteers at the hospitals the next of kin might drag well, with the recent shutdown of the 14.313 jammer crowd, I've noticed a porportional increase in wacko traffic around the newsgroups.

I does not surprise me that this may have happened. It doesn't even surprise me that most of those involved have serious mental or psychological issues.

What does surprise me is the number of "uninvolved parties" that can get dragged into the fray simply because of an opinion they may have once voiced regarding problems on the 14.313, 7258 and 39xx frequencies...

Far be it for me to be judgemental, but I really think that the Darwin theory should be played out here just to cull the massive loads of BS that many of us have to deal with.

It is, however, unfortunate that some have taken actions against others around here that can be considered "stalking". Having been a victim of this at least once in my life,
I can tell you, it is no fun (and can be downright damaging to ones life). bear in mind, those of you who practice such tactics, some may find your presence so threatening that they may decide to respond with "lethal force".

I really wish folks would think a little more and mouth off a whole lot less..

just my thoughts on a matter of great concern.

Barry, Admttedly I am only the Disaster Preparedness Coordinator for our community but we definitely plan to use "Hams" to augment our emergency/disaster communications. In fact cities world-wide do the same thing. I am not sure where you have been but it hasn't been working in

Nor was he in Oklahoma City after the bombing. I still have a

Do you live in a rural area? If so, may I have your address so I can send it to your local Vol fire dept so that they know where not to

The only complaining I heard from reservists in '90 and '91 was from people worrying about how their families were going to make it on greatly reduced pay. Sounded like a valid concern to me.

790. Setting The Record Straight

SUBJECT: False and Libelous News Release Targeting N4CND, WB2OTK, W2ZB, KK9G, N9PGE, K9BSD, and Other Amateur Radio Operators.

The subject news release was authored by James V.
O'Brien III, W4AMP, and is being published by him in various amateur radio forums. O'Brien is currently using a Cotse account (failure-no-spam@cotse.com). His true address is w4amp@bellsouth.net

W4AMP is a convicted drug felon, who served prison time for multiple felony violations of the Georgia Controlled Substance Act. W4AMP has particularly singled out law enforcement officers and a former employee of the FCC and his family for harassment, stalking, and threats of violence.
Additionally, W4AMP has threatened dozens of CB and ham radio operators, both on and off the air, with threats of violence ranging from death, assault, stalking their families, to property damage.

W4AMP's harassment tactics include fraudulent magazine subscriptions, fraudulent COD orders, anonymous defamatory letters to employers and neighbors, fraudulent sales ads, anonymous harassing telephone calls, and a variety of other forms of stalking and harassment. In the late 90s, W4AMP maintained a particularly vicious, sick, and sordid series of web pages which he used to attack various ham radio operators. Legal action by his victims resulted in the removal of his web pages from the internet. W4AMP has posted thousands of spiteful and vindictive postings on Usenet.

A repeated ploy of W4AMP is to assume the role of an innocent victim when subjects of his attacks respond to W4AMP's malicious mischief.

Although much of W4AMP's illegal behavior has been documented and investigated by various law enforcement and regulatory agencies, including dozens of tape recordings sent to the FCC, law enforcement has been slow to act. An exception was when the FCC cited W4AMP for intentional malicious repeated interference and repeated use of obscenity on-the-air.

W4AMP continues to use 3901, 14275, 14313, and other frequencies to air his perceived personal disputes with various ham radio operators, a practice which W4AMP refers to as radio fun.
W4AMP's extreme racist views include inflammatory racial remarks and other extreme racist views against African-Americans, Jews, and Orientals.

The FCC's Riley Hollingsworth has sent very sternly worded letters to several amateur radio operators, warning them that airing of personal disputes and racially offensive remarks could result in the loss of their amateur radio licenses. However, W4AMP apparently continues airing his personal disputes with impunity, as well as obscenity and racially provocative remarks.

Observations of on-the-air illegal behavior by W4AMP should be forwarded with supporting tape recordings to FCC Special Enforcement Officer Riley Hollingsworth at the FCC's Gettysburg office. Hollingsworth's e-mail address is: rholling@fcc.gov

Lets see what you have to say when your city's trunked system, which is highly dependant on the repeater site, goes down and all of your public saftey agencies are unable to communicate.

Wait a minute !!...Don't you see that doing what you suggest is totally against the American way?? At least what it is supposed/used to be.

This is a guy just using the 1st amendment. Or is it?
Because he is violation of a 'regulation', why does that me he should die?

Does he not have his day in court? Can he not express his thoughts? What has happened to this country?

Stop and look back...Just exactly WHAT HAS HE DONE TO WARRENT THE ATF,FBI, BATF or whatever to come in , shoot him, and END his broadcast?

Excuse me.....Let us please remember the Constitution and the Bill of RIghts.

Perhaps we should call on Janet Reno, eh? I'm sure she has a 'plan' to end this terrible transmission.

Get a grip.

The BATF believes this is strictly a medical issue. After careful testing they have determined that Militia Steve is suffering from a severe lead deficiency. They are skilled and experienced at the treatment of this terrible ailment. Treatment consists of high velocity, direct cranial injection of a 115gr (9mm) lead pill. 100% cure rate. Well, the patients haven't complained yet.

Go right ahead and try. The next time a natural disaster strikes your area, it's likely that amateurs will be involved. Sue away. Of course, I doubt that you have the money to even have a lawyer tell you you have no cause for action. God, I hate trolls but sometimes I can't help myself. Sorry Gunner, I was tempeted past my ability to

I used to live in central Kentucky.
The main "nut house" was orignally named "The Eastern State Lunacy Farm".
(There is also one in western Ky somewhere near the Jeff Davis shrine.)
When I was a kid there was an urban legend that the state paid a bounty for every nut turned in.
While I normaly like to refer to the less fortunate with kinder words, General Steve only deserves our contempt and he has made himself into a parady of a human being. I agree that he needs to receive treatment, against his will in need be.
But, I really doubt if the BATF (or any other federal agency) is all that keen on making a new martyr. Given the world knows about Steve, I suspect the feds will decide to let him run his course rather than take action which could lead credence to his paranoic fnatasies.
He will continue down the spiral of insanity until he is no able toeven run his pathetic little station.
Having said all of this, I think he is a hoot. He makes me laugh until the tears flow. And I am a right wing conservative.
Our daughter has offered the opininion that he is a black op. DIL agrees.
But everyone who has listened to this guy finds him to be sadly funny.

Very well put. Also very much the truth. I myself have complained to the

I wonder if the FCC could nail him under the same terms that they nailed

Almost everyone was complaining (wailing) about something. If it wasn't about bad food, it was the heat, the living conditions, the locals, or something else. Of course, that is nothing out of the ordinary - soldiers and sailors have been complaining probably since the creation of the first army and navy. So, why would you hold reservists to a higher standard?

In my opinion, criticism of reservists by full time personnel is nothing more than an attempt to make themselves feel important by putting somebody else down. Whatever the case, that attitude is very counterproductive in a military that is dependent on it's part time personnel.

Agree with you 100% S.t.A. You gots to wonder what tree he's settin in.
What's curious is this has the potential to become even more amusing.
I understand from other posters that Stevie has been jammed by no less than 2 SSB stations while he's been on the air, and has also commented on this. I'll toss up a new dipole and fire up the dusty R-1000 tonite to hear this dog and pony radio show tonite. No doubt the kooks from ham

Should be fun listenin. Get those tapes rollin boys!

822. 2001 USAF Anniversary QSO Party?

Has anyone heard from the Razorback Radio Club about whether or not there will be a 2001 USAF Anniversary QSO Party this September? Not only have we not heard any announcements, it appears that the 2000 QSO Party has still not yet been scored:

http://ourworld.compuserve.com/homepages/k5xs/

I have heard, but have not been able to verify, that the Razorback Radio Club is effectively defunct for one reason or another. I sympathize with the difficulties a small volunteer group has in staying active and organizing worthwhile activities, especially a national operating event. However, their "falling off the face of the Earth" does leave this event effectively in abandonment, and leaves open the possibility of another group coming in and taking it over.

Discussion amongst other participants, including clubs that hold AIR-suffixed callsigns, yields the consensus that there is interest in participating in future USAF Anniversary QSO Parties, but no individual club feels that it can take on the organization of such an event all by itself.

If another club is interested in co-organizing this event with the Strategic Air Command Memorial ARC, I (as a member) could offer the following support:

- A mail-drop located in the center of the USA for log submissions (the P.O. Box address for the SACMARC in Nebraska)

- Coordination of publicity, both on-line and in print (the deadlines for print publicity are coming up very soon, or will be upon us, so a very quick decision is required).

- Design and printing of award certificates

The other co-organizing club would then receive (via a bulk forward from me) the logs, dupe and cross-check them, and determine the overall and by-state winners in each category (single and multi-op). A group with more experience in running a contest or QSO party and scoring logs is requested at this time. A turnaround time of less than 4 months (consistent with how ARRL contests are scored, for example) is desired.

If you or your club is interested in providing such support, and in co-organizing the 2001 USAF Anniversary QSO Party, please let me know as soon as possible.

Yes, he is talking to you. And he is right. Many hams are disabled from various wars, and other 'accidents'. Ham radio is a good way to spend a lot of extra time. 'Me', you are an insensitive fool. I just hope you have a problem down the line. Give you a feel for how it is.

It came to me suddenly last night. This guy can't pass the test.
That's where all of the bitterness and anger come from. He went to hamfests when he was still a hopeful candidate! Eight-year-olds can pass the test. My fourteen-year-old can pass th test but this guy can't. Bwahahaha!

Sorry about the lateness of this post, but when I saw mention of Volunteer Firefighters and had to respond to the original poster!

I am a Volunteer Firefighter and also a Amateur Radio Operator, and I got into the fire service in a volunteer manner because I believe in the township I live in and wish to serve it in some manner or another. I am definitely not a fat toothless and unable to get a real fireman's job. I have a normal full-time job and could get a full-time firefighter's job if I wanted it. Most all V.F.F's get involved because they wish to serve their community, nothing more, nothing less. If our township had a better tax base I would be a full-timer with my department!

Sorry.... I know the original guy was just "trolling" but this one I had to comment about.

Gee.... what then is the purpose of the ARRL?? Thought of course they were there for the protection of amateur spectrum allegedly.... but also to serve the hams with the organization??

I had let them in to repair the furnace last winter and he saw the magnet mount on a "cookie sheet" connected to the HT and I had to explain the fact/lie and tell him it was a scanner and the antenna helped with reception. Apparently this guy has had problems in the past with CB'ers and thinks everything must be CB equipment..... (Jeesh... wait till he see's my Fire Dept. HT..... :)

Wasn't blaming in as much as stating why I am not an ARRL member at this time. $39.00 is pretty expensive for a magazine subscription.

I see that.... so I am basically screwed until I become a homeowner.... Question still begs, and I know there are alot of seniors/hams that live in some type of rental situation, what is the ARRL gonna do for non-homeowner-members? Too bad there wasn't any protection for them.

Actually it is out in a "rural" area! :) HF under current residential conditions is most likely out of the picture for the next 3-5 years. Currently I live in a "modular" park (double-wide trailers so a trailer park non the less I guess) running any type of antenna outside, even TV or satellite dish of any kind is out of reach. They must have an agreement with the cable companies.....

Pretty much the only operation I can do is mobile.... the nature of my employment allows me operation from either my truck or from HT's.... can't really get away with setting up an antenna for HF work though... Guess I am stuck in the "Tech CBers" land even if I get my Extra Class test out of the way and the CW test for the next 3-5 years!!

Concentrate on getting the General. Get a ICOM 706 (latest model). Does it all radio. Put it mobile and have a ball.

Can you part the truck close to the doublewide? If so, run a coax out at night and enjoy.

RUn a stealth (invisible) antenna out to a tree, tune it out and go for it.

Put up a flag pole. Make it out of PVC, put a ham band vertical inside.

Lots of things ya can do.

I would not doubt you are most correct. Them "Pros" need a hell of a lot more "fire in the wire" to get over him though. Whatever antenna he has on 6900, it is "playing" like a broadcaster. It puts WWFV on 6890 to shame with both signal & sound quality! I would love to know what Steve is using for an antenna on that freq. Maybe I will inquire!

Bricktown, hahahaha!

Most nights 6900 is coming in very good to the Daytona Beach, FL area.
Excellent signal and excellent programming.

To be accurate, you said they were complaining- and worrying. But if they had paid attention when they signed up, they would have known they had no basis for complaining. They weren't drafted.
As for how their families would get by on reduced pay- didn't they consider that possibility when they joined? Or did they join and agree to be available for something like the Gulf War, but assumed that it would never really happen? As my dear departed father told me- never trust the Federal Government. Don't trust it to do what you hope it will do, or what it should do.

I was a novice in 1959. Hams were civil to each other, as were most folks in other venues.

I invite everyone to review the message titles in this ng.

HORRIFYING.

What the hell has come over our hobby (and our society) to lead people to such depths of degradation? What's wrong? I know the answer.....but you think about it......

I'm an Extra now (a REAL one, not the dumbed down one), but I refuse to devote any time on the air to a bunch of rude dipsticks who can't be civilized and live by the rules of the FCC and common decency. Fantastic response Ryan. I also have been in emergency services, I started in 1961. I have worked in police, state and federal fire fighting and ambulance services. I held position from Fire Chief to Ambulance Commander, etc.. I was appointed hard of the EMA in my community by our Governor in 1986 and continue too hold that position today. Along with our local and county radios in my command post I also have amateur radios. The hams in our county have come to our assistance on more than one occasion and we truly appreciate them.

By the way, I have had my ham ticket since 1974.

You should be thanking military reservists for your freedom. If it weren't for reservists like myself & others, you would not have the freedom to make a fool of yourself like you do here on the internet.

The only time any reservists may have "wailed" was at losing probably 1/2 of their income when they were called to activive duty, yet still having to cover a full house payment & support their family. So the thanks you give reservists is to put your mouth in overdrive.

Remember, the regular US military has NEVER won (or even fought) a major battle or war without calling in the "Pros" (reserves). They simply can't do it without the "pros" (reserves)!!!

I see, so you want the Goverment to dictate to private property owners what they can and cannot do with their property? The Fed's already do enough of this with all the laws forcing landlords to rent to undesirables, and forcing farmers into bankruptcy because of some stupid mouse that lives in their fields, so they cannot farm it anymore, etc.

Maybe if you become a property owner some day, you will look at this issue from a different perspective. There are already tons of laws providing tenants with specific rights regarding living in rented property. However, using a radio transmitter is not a necessary element of providing reasonable living conditions.

Don't get me wrong, I am totally sympathetic to the plight of hams who must live in restricted housing, but I believe the rights of the property owner are more important than a renter's ability to put up an antenna.

Hey, I was once a renter in that position myself, and my solution was to work mobile only for a few years while I saved up my money so I could buy a house on property with no restrictions or CCR's of any kind. You could do the same... With more and more rental properties, condo's, and new homes going with antenna restrictions, this may well be the only real solution.

Please read this carefully: I didn't ask them to be in the reserves. I didn't order them to the gulf. While in the gulf, they weren't defending the United States. They were enforcing the Pax Americana- a different kettle of fish entirely. I do not owe them any thanks for doing something I oppose. When the Iraqis land on Monterey Bay and the reservists and NGs throw them back into the sea, I'll be very grateful. If me "putting my mouth in overdrive" by reminding them of what they agreed to bothers you, TFB.

I'll sure take your word on that. It has nothing to do with reservists and NGs complaining about the government holding them to their terms of enlistment. Lesson- read before you sign.

One very important story was left out of this, and it should be told.
W4AMP and his little honey traveled to an Assisted Care facility (Nursing Home) and between the TWO of them, they managed to make entry to the facility and threaten an elderly woman who was the mother of one of the Hams they had an argument with.
It seems that the Security folks told them to leave under threat of arrest and W4AMP and his "honey" were told to never return.
Now, I ask you. How much courage does it take to pose threats to an elderly woman who did not have anything to do with this? How much cowardice did AMP and his sweetie show by threatening a helpless old woman? Is this liquid courage? Is this manhood?
How much liquid courage does it take for this clown to make numerous hang-up calls in the middle of the night and early morning? A few quarters, a pay phone booth, and he is off to the rodeo.
How many stamps does it cost him to send magazine subscriptions to his "enemies"?
Ask yourself if you would want this clown living next door to you. Bet you wouldn't.
The guy is not stable.

P25 debate: The digital standard revisited
By Bernie Olson
Mobile Radio Technology, Jul 1, 2001

Editor's note: MRT's April 2001 article, ï¿½Does the Digital Radio Standard Come Up Short?ï¿½ by Stephen Bartlett, drew strong response from the standards-creation community. A critique and technical assessment of the article has been prepared on behalf of P25 proponents by Bernie Olson, chairman of the Telecommunications Industry Association TR8.18 Committee on Compatibility and Interference. Following his analysis, we also present a further clarification by author Bartlett of his position.

The article ï¿½Does the Digital Radio Standard Come Up Short?ï¿½ does a gross disservice to Project 25. Although there are some good technical descriptions of each modulation, the author's comparison uses different performance criteria for the three modulations.

He then compounds the issue by using free-space propagation loss for a range comparison. Free-space loss is only valid for point-to-point paths where 0.6 of a Fresnel zone clearance is provided. In the land-mobile environment, this is commonly not the case. Therefore, the propagation power-loss exponent is closer to four than the free-space value of two, as used in the author's comparison. This use of different performance criteria and an extremely liberal propagation loss model has resulted in a distorted conclusion that cannot be supported in an actual land-mobile radio environment.

The flawed methodology used by the author is further aggravated by the use of information from different sources. The author did not acknowledge any disparity among the various reference levels, specifications or derived values from the different sources. Tables 1 and 2 on page 20 clearly show the difference between the assumptions used by the author and those embodied in TIA-TSB88-A. The first table shows the relative coverage range differences based on the criteria values from ï¿½TIA/EIA Telecommunications Systems Bulletin TSB88-A, June 1999.ï¿½ These values are based on a propagation power-loss exponent of 4, more typical of land-mobile communications. The derivation of these values is presented later. The second table is extracted from the author's chart. The receiver

IF bandwidth is indicated for the different scenarios.

The results in Table 1 are dramatically different from the author's conclusion chart (Table 2).

The author bases his range arguments on basic carrier-to-noise criteria derived from various references. However, when the author calculates C/N from receiver bandwidth and published receiver threshold ï¿½specï¿½ data, he fails to account for receiver noise figure. One could leave receiver noise figure out of the picture and reference all performance to the receiver (demodulator) input, as the author attempts to do. This can, and does, distort the results unless a common noise figure reference is used.

Two receiver sensitivities (static and faded) are given in TIA-102 publications. The static sensitivity is used to make laboratory or bench measurements. For analog radios, this benchmark is 12dB SINAD. For digital radios, this benchmark is 5% bit-error rate. Static sensitivity is not used in predicting coverage or range. It is used to ensure that the receivers have a published performance specification that customers can measure and use to compare receivers from different vendors. This is the receiver sensitivity value that normally appears on manufacturer's specification sheets.

The TSB88-A, TIA102.CAAA and TIA102.CAAB documents also include faded sensitivity values. There is no analog faded sensitivity standard, but the median of the values used by various system designers is 13dB above the 12dB SINAD value for performance. For digital radios, the typical value to achieve 5% BER in faded conditions is 6dB to 8dB above the 5% BER static sensitivity level. However, 5% BER in a faded environment is insufficient to produce acceptable audio. A lower BER is required to achieve acceptable audio quality levels, with 2.6% BER being considered the minimum design level for Project 25 digital radios using the IMBE vocoder.

Different scenarios

The author apparently used pieces of different specifications but failed to recognize the different scenarios these values are intended to represent.

Also, many of the values cited for C/N are referenced relative to the receiver's ï¿½thermal noise threshold,ï¿½ which is the sum of the receiver's noise figure and the thermal noise-floor level based on receiver bandwidth.

It appears the author assumes that the reference is just to the thermal noise-floor level.

For example, in one reference the author cited the TIA102.CAAB performance recommendation, which refers to a static reference sensitivity of -116dBm at 5% BER. This value is correct. However, the author failed to include the noise figure of the receiver in his analysis. For example, a noise figure of 10dB would result in a required C/N figure of 10.4dB [-116dBm static sensitivity -(-136.4dBm thermal noise floor at 5.76kHz IF bandwidth +10dB noise figure)]. This figure is much closer to the 7.6dB value as shown in Table 3 on page 24. Furthermore, when one considers that TIA's specification is a ï¿½minimumï¿½ value and that manufacturers' equipment typically exceeds that figure by 2dB to 3dB or more, the Table 3 C/N value is confirmed.

In another example, the information from the government Web site referred to by the author is accurate, but the author's interpretation is incorrect. The -121.4dBm level measured is for static sensitivity at 5% BER that occurs at 7.6dB C/N. This calculates to a receiver thermal noise floor of -129dBm, implying a receiver noise figure of 7.4dB (-129- (-136.4)). The published static sensitivity for that receiver is -119dBm, so that particular receiver exceeded the manufacturer's published specifications by about 2.5dB.

The author also misconstrued manufacturer's data. The level that was referenced (14dB) refers to the faded 5% BER, which is specified in TIA102.CAAB as being 8dB more severe than static conditions. Properly represented, this material would produce a calculated faded C/N of 15.6dB (8+7.6) relative to the receiver's thermal-noise threshold. However, these should accurately be portrayed as ï¿½minimumï¿½ values, even though typical measured values are between 6dB and 8dB. That brings the manufacturer's value of 14dB into the expected range.

We cannot support the author's value of 6dB for analog FM. It lies somewhere between a static 12dB and 20dB SINAD. Under static conditions, it could be argued that this is a reasonable value. However, it would not be a representative value under faded conditions that delivers acceptable audio quality to the user. As indicated in Table 3, the recommended faded C/N value is 17dB, an 11dB difference before adjusting for filter bandwidth differences.

We are particularly disturbed that only anecdotal evidence was presented claiming lower range from Project 25 C4FM, while range was represented as an absolute derived from empirical data. Many narrow bandwidth digital systems have been installed, and coverage is always greater than analog unless there is interference present*.

Published industry reference

We would encourage you to review the correct criteria values when making your own assessments. Those values are located and published in ï¿½TIA/EIA

Telecommunications Systems Bulletin TSB88-A, June 1999.ï¿½ TSB88-A is a technical reference document developed in conjunction with the entire suite of Project 25 documents by a committee representing vendors, users, frequency coordinators and regulators. It was developed to provide frequency coordinators with the necessary information to determine frequency reuse as well as with a methodology for determining coverage range in the presence of co-channel and adjacent-channel interference. In that context, this information allows for the use of computer programs to evaluate potential frequency selections and to maximize coverage range while minimizing interference.

Because different digital modulations have different performance characteristics, a range of channel performances was developed, loosely based on the ï¿½circuit meritï¿½ definitions used for analog system evaluation.
The definition is described as delivered audio quality and refers to:

How easy or difficult it is to understand the intelligibility of a signal.
Whether or not part of the audio is missing, requiring the message to be repeated, and if so, how frequently.
What the detractors are, e.g., noise for analog or artifacts (distortions) for digital.

New systems are designed for a minimum DAQ of 3.0. A DAQ 2.0 is considered to be difficult to listen to, requiring considerable effort and frequent repetition for understanding. The higher DAQ values are defined for higher performance levels. They are defined as equivalent intelligibility to static SINAD values, but in the presence of Rayleigh fading (multipath), as experienced in actual usage.

Table 3, extracted from TSB88-A, shows the values for reference sensitivity (static C/N ratios) and the faded carrier to interference plus noise ratios, (Cf/(I + N)) for various DAQ values. The interference component, I, is included because interference is considered to be another detracting noise source.

It is important that a user or system engineer recognize that static conditions are only valid for bench measurements and are a way of comparing performance of individual units. By subtracting the Cs/N, the ï¿½noise floorï¿½ of the receiver can be determined. The Cf/(I + N) then determines the signal level required in the presence of fading and other potential detractors.

For example, analog 12dB SINAD Cs/N is 4dB. If a manufacturer's published static receiver sensitivity is -119dBm, then the receiver's ï¿½thermal noise thresholdï¿½ would be at -123dBm. If faded analog DAQ 3.0 Cf/N is 17dB, then the faded signal level for system design would be -106dBm (-123dBm thermal noise threshold +17dB Cf/N).

The width of the IF filter also needs to be considered. Wider IF bandwidths produce less distortion and better channel performance at lower Cf/N. However, this comes with a price because wider IF bandwidths are more susceptible to adjacent-channel interference and result in higher thermal noise powers in the receiver.

The author selected 14dB for C4FM (equivalent to a DAQ 2.0 [in fading]), the static value (7dB) for ?/4 DQPSK and a static value (6dB) somewhere between 12dB SINAD and 20dB quieting for analog FM. It is difficult to conceive how three disparate criteria could be used to arrive at a uniform and accurate conclusion.

Comparing digital modulations

As can be seen from Table 3, compatible four-level FM (C4FM) shows slightly degraded performance when compared to ?/4 DQPSK, yet both have better performance than analog FM, particularly at higher Cf/N values.

As stated earlier, one should use a constant receiver noise figure reference. For the Table 1 analysis, the values were calculated assuming the same noise figure for all receivers. The comparison then becomes a simple matter of determining the difference due to bandwidth and the difference required for DAQ 3 and then calculating the relative ranges using a power exponent of 4.

The differences between noise power of various IF bandwidths are indicated in Table 4 on page 28.

The difference in faded C/N between analog FM (17dB) ï¿½ digital C4FM (16.5dB) = 0.5dB. (0.5dB + 3.44dB for the difference in the required receiver IF filter bandwidth = 3.94dB.)

The range difference using analog FM as the reference is:

The difference using ?/4 DQPSK is Taking the absolute best case where the ?/4 DQPSK uses a 5.7kHz ENBW filter would produce a 1.35:1 ratio, an 8% increase over C4FM, but at the price of a non-compatible over-the-air interface.

The author discussed the distortion effects of transmitter filtering on the modulation. Typical ?/4 DQPSK implementations use a raised cosine pulse shape with the pulse-shaping split between the transmitter and the receiver. This technique, called matched filter, can be shown to result in theoretically optimum sensitivity under Gaussian noise. Part of the Project 25 deliberations was matched filters vs. pulse shaping. Project 25 decided not to select a matched filter system but rather to concentrate all the pulse shaping in the transmitter. Doing this makes the modulation compatible with linear and constant envelope (FM) transmitters and receivers. A slight loss of sensitivity exists compared to ?/4 DQPSK. However, the selected modulations, C4FM and linear CQPSK, are compatible in a Project 25 receiver. Thus. the receiver does not care if the signal is modulated with C4FM or linear CQPSK. This allows a 12.5kHz channel bandwidth transmitter using C4FM modulation to communicate directly (over the air) with a 6.25kHz channel bandwidth receiver as long as the center frequencies are aligned. This creates a migration path to narrowband 6.25kHz channel systems. This migration path was encouraged and endorsed by the Project 25 user community.

Some of the author's comments about how digital technology degrades over-the-air-performance need to be considered and put in the correct context. Digital Project 25 radios have significantly greater range than analog radios for systems designed for DAQ 3.0 or above. At the fringe of coverage (below signal levels normally used for system design), digital begins to break down at a faded BER of about 8%. This is in the general range of 12dB to 14dB Cf/N. At these weak signal levels analog would still be understandable (with great effort) while the digital radio would mute.

However, migration to narrowband analog FM does not improve this situation. Analog FM doesn't perform as well in narrowband channels as it does in 25kHz channels. If narrowband analog is deployed, there is a 6dB degradation in performance from reduced deviation coupled with a 3dB improvement in receiver noise performance due to the narrower IF filter, resulting in a 3dB overall degradation. High-signal performance is reduced and a high SINAD cannot be achieved because some FM sideband information is lost passing through the narrow IF filter. Also, narrowband analog becomes more susceptible to noise pops, giving up the advantage that normal analog FM enjoys.

*Interference has been increasingly evident in portions of the 800MHz band where nearby cellular/SMR deployments create coverage holes due to their high signal levels where the desired signal is relatively lower. Both digital and analog systems are affected, but digital systems will mute while analog systems may provide audible clues to a user. The absence of audible clues is frequently reported as a range problem. This topic was the cover story in MRT's March 2001 Issue, ï¿½Why can't we talk? It's the interference.ï¿½ Visit www.apco911.org for a copy of the Best Practices Guide described therein.

Muting thresholds: Stephen Bartlett's response

I appreciate Mr. Olson taking the time to offer his perspective on my article ï¿½Does the Digital Radio Standard Come up Short?ï¿½ (April 2001, MRT), and his candor in pointing out several key issues he had with it.

I wish to clarify to Mr. Olson, and the mobile radio community, a misunderstanding about what my article was reporting. The study I described wasn't about the added range of audio quality that the P25 digital design achieves, but rather a discussion of the differences between the narrowband digital and wideband analog FM systems at the edge of radio coverage, or in other low signal-to-noise environments. As Mr. Olson pointed out, systems are not typically engineered for these fringe areas.
However, it is under these conditions that radios will either mute or not, making coverage differences especially noticeable. The focus of my article was on how these different muting thresholds affect absolute range.

Mr. Olson is justified in suggesting the use of the number 4 for the power-law exponent describing the path-length dependency, in deference to the ï¿½extremely liberalï¿½ exponent of 2 that I chose. His figure reflects good engineering practice when designing mobile systems. It also reduces the scale of any range difference ratio.

He was correct to point out my not mentioning the receiver noise figure (NF) in the overall noise power (Pn) calculation. The correct formula is actually (neglecting interference):

For the analysis, I defined all receivers with equal and ideal NFs, but neglected to clarify this point. Where I erred was in assuming the manufacturer's specifications, and other measured data I used to compare with the 4-FSK model, did the same. Many published specifications don't clearly state whether their data are static Cs/N, faded Cf/N or if the receiver noise figures have been removed, included or normalized in their published values.

Muting thresholds will affect the coverage of the mobile radio system. Comparing these thresholds is the challenge. In his article, Mr. Olson stated that using a faded channel (Rayleigh fading) Cf/N ratio is more appropriate for modeling system performances than static Cs/N ratios. He also mentioned that no analog fading sensitivity standard exists, and he further recommended a faded value of 17dB for FM systems. This may be appropriate for determining a DAQ of 3.0, but not for a threshold mute. There are references showing critical wideband FM receiver thresholds are actually closer to 10dB; less with threshold extension (Rappaport, Wireless Communications). For digital systems, the mute threshold is defined by the critical bit-error rate where data cease to be reliably detected and vocoders to operate. It was good of Mr. Olson to recommend using the more realistic 2.6% BER threshold value for the IMBE vocoder to deliver more accepted audio in a faded channel. However, because of the focus of my article, I chose the 5% BER value as the digital mute threshold.

For a more complete approach in determining the expected faded channel performance for the digital systems, refer to J. Proakis' book Digital Communications, Fourth Edition, where the ideal theoretical performances of many common digital modulation schemes in a Rayleigh faded channel are derived. In such a channel, the error rates vary inversely with signal to noise ï¿½ unlike static exponential error behavior. In the case of binary, noncoherent, orthogonal FSK modulation, a Cf/N value can be found directly from the probability of error (Pb) using the Rayleigh channel formula: Cf/N (dB); 10log (1/Pb). We can use this equation to calculate the Cf/N performance for any FSK signal at 5% BER. Orthogonal binary FSK and 4-FSK channels will perform nearly identical except at low Cf/N. Therefore we can use the Rayleigh formula to estimate C4FM's average departure from ideal performance in weak signals due primarily to its nonorthogonal four-level modulation.

Mr. Olson reported that in the faded channel, C4FM will break down in the fringe areas with 8% BER at a Cf/N of 12dB to 14dB. The Rayleigh channel formula predicts the ideal binary FSK Cf/N value at 8% BER to be 11dB. Thus, Mr. Olson's 8% BER value shows that C4FM has from 1dB to 3dB of degradation (2dB average) from ideal. From this, we can determine the optimal Cf/N mute threshold for C4FM modulation at 5% BER:

Using this optimal C4FM mute threshold of 15dB, the referenced wideband FM mute threshold of 10dB, and the bandwidth adjustment of 3.44dB, an absolute range difference between the digital C4FM and wideband FM analog systems can be calculated, using the equation recommended by Mr. Olson:

This 0.91 value shows a potential loss of absolute range between the C4FM digital and wideband FM analog systems, due to their different muting thresholds. Realistically, in the unpredictable faded channel with the parameters of analog and digital modulation being so different, there may be a variety of cases where either system may outperform the other, perform nearly the same or vacillate between these extremes ï¿½ especially in fringe areas where muting occurs. It is in the best interest of the community to know how these digital narrowband systems perform in a variety of locations and scenarios as they become more widely implemented. If problems can be predicted early, they can be mitigated early.ï¿½ S. Bartlett

Except now the active components avoid any real duty in favor of training while the reservists do most of the missions. If it keeps up, the active side will be there only for training the reserves.

A little bit of both. But then we had the active duty Air Force bitching in December 1990 on how they were not being rotated out after 90 days. And we had active duty soldiers bitching about how they signed up for college money, not a war.

That is what you get when you have a mercenary under the 2nd amendment.

& the people who sacrifice their will & their lives to serve in the military to protect YOUR freedom & rights.

I never saw a reservist who actually refused to go to duty, they did complain about other stuff, like low pay. But they still went to duty. Face it, the reserves are the backbone of the US military & the military would be nothing without the reserves.

I do have one suggestion for you, THINK before you respond to this thread, before making a fool of yourself AGAIN!

PAX Americana is defending America. It is our right to force our will on the world. We are the greatest country and power since the Roman Empire.

And I would damned be more willing to fight on someone else's soil than my own.
Destroy the rest of the world, do not wait so long that our country is destroyed. If the battle is on our soil, we lose no matter what happens. That is too close to my family.

Again, most of the Active forces bitched too.
We have a bunch of mercenaries, not professionals.

And the US military does not reflect the American people. It is skewed to the right, hard.

The active duty people have always needed the reserves, they can't get the job done without the reserves. THAT is why the reservists are often times called the "Pros", because they give reserves the more difficult missions that the regulars know they are not capable of.

The 2nd amendment reflects your views. Our military, to include police and fire, was not to be a bunch of paid mercenaries but rather it was to be the duty of all.

90% of all fires in Indiana are fought by most states.

Think of it this way. The liberals (socialists) have pushed the idea that only paid professionals (mercenaries) can do anything. So many, especially those who are educated professionals, agree, thinking that it frees them from most of the responsibilities of caring. To them, paying taxes is caring.

It is like Scrooge. He wanted government to do it all, after all he paid his taxes so why did he have to personally care.

America was founded on all of us being involved.
It is our safeguard. The military was to be the militia (all males fit to serve). The political process was to be everyone, not just a few professionals.

The problem is that we are fat, dumb and happy.
And very willing to let the mercenaries run our lives.

The Air Force uses reservists far more than any other service. Some AFR do 6 month tours every year.

OTOH, if he were involved in an emergency, and the hams knew it; he might "accidentally" be left off the coordination sheet. Kinda hard to sue when you're a casualty.

Is there something, anything, in my response that you didn't understand? Again- I am NOT asking you or anyone else to go to the other side of the earth to enforce American global control.
If you think that old "America, love it or leave it" B.S. will out of date. It didn't work then; it won't work now.

No, it is not. It is the projection of American authority in Those are not the only 2 possibilities. But deciding to control the world, and destroy the world just to make sure that nothing can happen to America, would be biting off rather more than you can chew.

I suggest you at least let it get a little closer than Somalia. You get a little thin on the ground when you try to control the whole world.

I don't know about the AF using reservists more that any other service, but they certainly do use reserves a lot. It was an ANG group that rescued that sick Doctor on Antartica a few months ago, & it was an AFR group that flew the whale "Willy" to Greenland.

While I don't agree with everything Robert has said, the statement above is absolute nonsense. First, it shows a clear lack of understanding when it comes to both european and middle eastern history. Second, it shows a clear lack of understanding about the capability and resources of Saddam's military.

Wow, I really must have misread the Second Amendment. Where did you get all of that from? And how do you explain the fact that almost every major city had paid police officers, and soldiers had been paid as far back as the Revolutionary War, when that Amendment was proposed and ratified?

If you and/or your family were overseas, that could be. But I was in America. The Iraqis were no threat to me.

We didn't have to do it in the first place. The only reason we'll have to do it again is to successfully meddle in the affairs of countries on the other side of the globe. We don't have to do that. Our government chooses to, but there is no imperative to do so.

Our military is not "paid mercenaries". Perhaps you should learn

About all you can do is buy one out of the country and smuggle it in.
Any newer radio is pretty much unmodifiable, as the FCC has cracked down on the manufacturers to prevent radios being easily modified..

Your inability to understand the above only shows how little knowledge you really have of history from the 1930's & 1940's. Germany (Hitler) was doing the EXACT same thing that Saddam was doing. Hitler had taken over nearly all of Europe by the time we put a stop to him, & 6 years of hell for the survivors & countless many who died.

I'ld like to see you make that statement to a Jewish survivors group.

Will have to look into that..... Like the Yaesu qrp rig.... would like something similar to that with a little more in the display and also maybe a 50watt model. (cant remember the model #) A 160m-70cm all-mode mobile small in size similar to most 2m mobile rigs.

Can't run an exterior antenna in any shape or for... not even TV. They wont allow it. Trying to figure how to transmit with interior antennas only.
Itsa bitch trying to transmit outside of a tin can. Pretty much resorting to mobile only communications for the next 3-5 years.

We had a case like that down here. When the perps returned next time to harass a little old lady, they were arrested for criminal tresspass, and stalking for openers. The judge added a few more charges when private security and the police later testified in court how the perps resisted arrest. Perps are now cooling their heels in jail. Judges take a dim view of scum bags who would harass little old ladies in nursing homes.

Democrats have brought about a general decline in morality and respect.
They support the "do your own thing" even if it intrudes on another's

Saddam didn't have the means. He had no possibility of acquiring the means. No matter how much he might have wished to take over the U.S., it wasn't going to happen. Even a cursory look at the situation would show you that.

As for me being a "Commie," that's just absurd.

What threat? Saddam's fleet of aircraft carriers, nuclear-powered

"Common sense" requires the ability to see reality and reach conclusions based on it. Your belief that Saddam was a threat to the U.S. is NOT a demonstration of common sense.

Perhaps you should study military history a little. Everyone thought that after WWI, Germany wouldn't have the means to do anything either. Yet, by the late 1930's, they are marching thru other countries.

What's sand have to do with it? The Iraqis were a second rate (if that) regional power. And their region was 11 time zones away.

One time zone away from my family who had SCUDs raining down in their neighborhood.

Yes, Robert, get real. If it could happen to my family that time, what makes you think that it couldn't happen to yours next time.

OPDX InterNet Subscribers will receive an additional bulletin (due to its size) with a complete breakdown and "DXCC/Entities Chart of Activity".

3D2, FIJI (Still Going Strong!). The "425 DX News" reports that well known DXer Ron, ZL1AMO, should be active again as 3D2RW from the Fiji Islands as of July 12th. OPDX still has not seen QSN reports as of July 15th. They also state that he will operate from Nadi Island (OC-016) for a few days, around July 16th. He will then move to the Lau Group

(OC-095) for a couple of weeks. QSL via ZL1AMO.

3V, TUNISIA. Yannick, F6FYD, has left from Alegria, and he is now in Tunisia. He is expected to operate from 3V8BB.

4Z8, ISRAEL (Attention Prefix Hunters!). Marc, WC1X, is a U.S. ham operating in Israel with a rare prefix. He will be there until June of 2002, using the callsign 4Z8BB. There is only one other licensed operator that shares the "4Z8" prefix. Although Marc states, "I know Israel is certainly not a rare country but the prefix '4Z8' is." Marc has worked many stations on 20/15 meters SSB (mostly North Americans). He informs OPDX that he would like the readers to know he can also be found on RTTY on 20 meters. His schedule is: 0330-0430z on 14082 +/- QRM, 7 days a week. QSL manager is WC1X.

9A, CROATIAN ISLAND HOPPING TOUR 2001 (Also Lighthouse Activity).... Marc/ON5FP and Jose/ON4CJK will be island hopping in Croatia from July 16-31st. Their base QTH will be the lighthouse of "Veli Rat" (CRO-183) on the island of Dugi Otok (EU-170 and CI-018). They will have a motorboat at their disposal and plan to visit 3 more nearby small Croatian islands (not specified yet) in the same IOTA group. Their planned schedule of activities include:
Rab Island (EU-136 and CI-096) - July 20th
Brac Island (EU-016 and CI-010) - July 21st
Pasman Island (EU-170 and CI-085) - July 22nd
Pag Island (EU-170 and CI-082) - July 27th
Vir Island (EU-170 and CI-141) - July 27th
Porer Island (EU-110 and CI-090) - July 31st
Their aim is to transmit from as many lighthouses as possible. ON4CJK will be an entry in the IOTA contest from their "Veli Rat" lighthouse QTH. QSL all QSOs to ON4ADN via the UBA bureau or direct to:
Geert Decru, St. Laurentiusstraat 18, B- 8710 Wielsbeke, Belgium.

CARIBBEAN TOUR 2001 (Updated). In addition to previous announcements, the Low Land DX-pedition Team (LLDXT) have received 2 special callsigns J3PA and J8PA which will be used on Topband to avoid dupes and for several Contests. No individual callsigns will be used on 160 meter. All licenses and import permissions for the equipment are pre-arranged. The LLDXT's 6th Caribbean tour will take them to the island of Carriacou (Grenada) IOTA NA-147 (2nd - 15th August) and the island Bequia (St. Vincent) IOTA NA-025 (16th - 27th August). The team members will be Bouke/PA0ZH, Ronald/PA3EWP, Rob/PA5ET and Dennis/PA7FM. The callsigns will be J3/homecall, J8/homecall, J3PA and J8PA. The last 2 callsigns will be used on Topband and during contests. They will use 2 x FT1000MP's with amplifiers and will be active around the clock on 160-10 meters on the modes CW, SSB, RTTY and PSK31. Titanex sponsored a V160E vertical to give them a good low-band signal. As in other years, they have a Tour Web-Site which will be updated daily with the latest information, on-line logs, tour diary, digital photo's, propagation forecasts and digital pile-up recordings. The Guestbook can already be signed. The LLDXT home-page is ready for the tour and can be found at:

http://www.qsl.net/lldxt
All QSLs will be managed again by PA5ET, Rob Snieder, Van Leeuwenstraat 137, 2273 VS Voorburg, The Netherlands.

IOTA NEWS.....
EU-064. Yves, F5TYY, will be active on Noirmoutier's Island during the IOTA Contest from July 27-29th. He plans to operate on 80/40/20/15/10 meters SSB using the callsign F5TYY/p. His QSL qsl is assured via the Bureau.

NA-067. Jon, WB8YJF, will be active from Ocracoke Island, NC, from July 22-29th. His activity will include an entry in the RSGB IOTA Contest as WB8YJF/NA67. He will be active on CW, RTTY, and SSB. Jon will be taking a TA33-Mini and will have it mounted at 25-30 ft. next to a saltwater pond. He might try antennas for 30 and 40 meters and possible 80 (He has a shortened 80m rotatable dipole). QSL (direct is MUCH faster) via his home QTH: Jon Severt/WB8YJF, 5586 Babbitt Rd., New Albany, OH 43054.

NA-090. Masa/XE1ZOI and Ramon/XE1KK will be active from Cozumel Island, Grid EL60, from July 27-29th, including the IOTA Contest. They expect to be using the callsigns 4A3ZOI on mostly CW, and 6H3KK on mostly SSB. Outside of the contest, they will be active on HF including the WARC bands, 50 MHz and FM satellites. QSL via their home callsigns.

NA-139. Andy, VA3PL, is planning a little IOTA expedition to Assateague Island (Worcester County, Maryland, MD001S and NA-139).. If he can't get a camping site there, he will then go to his alternate site on the Virginia side of the same island called Chincoteague (Accomack County, VA002S and NA-083). Andy will be active from July 26-30th, and will be operating on, or near the usual IOTA frequencies (SSB/CW). He will be using a TS-450 (100 watts) and a G5RV antenna. Andy will also be operating during the IOTA contest from his campsite location. QSL via home call - SASE/SAE + GS/IRC appreciated.

SA-NEW. Ramon, YV5EED, Events Coordinator for the Grupo DX Caracas, informs OPDX that the Association of Radioamateurs of Venezuela (ARV) and the Grupo DX Caracas are pleased to announce the Venezuelan Navy Day 2001 celebration with an IOTA DXpedition to Falcon State Islands on July 20 to 24, 2001. Since it is a new IOTA island group, a number will be assigned after their operation according to the new IOTA Directory. The callsign YW1F will be used on the regular DX HF frequencies and 6 meters.
A plaque will be given to the DX station that works them on most bands and modes. QSL via W4SO (mail drop) and via bureau ONLY via YV ARV QSL Bureau, P.O. Box 3636, Caracas 1010-A, Venezuela.

ISLAND NEWS. Marc/F6HQP and Pierre/F5NGB will operate from some islands in Brittany for the DIFM and IOTA award between July 29th to August 12th.
No other details were provided.

LIGHTHOUSE ACTIVITY CONTINUES TO GROW! Over the last few years, more and more DXers have been taking an interest in lighthouses/lightships activity.
This week we received a message from Jim Weidner, K2JWX, President of the "Amateur Radio Lighthouse Society" ARLHS. He states the following:
"The ARLHS is the world's largest amateur radio society devoted exclusively to ham radio and lighthouses. Less than a year old, our membership already totals several hundred worldwide, with an average of 2 new members being added every day. In addition to sponsoring expeditions to lighthouses and lightships around the world on a weekly basis, we also sponsor four operating events throughout the year. The next events are the immensely popular NLLW and ILLW annual operating events. (The latter event is in co-sponsorship with GM4SUC.) We offer an extensive lighthouse awards program and maintain perhaps the internet's largest and most complete list of the lighthouses and lightships of the world..... Full details can be found on our main web pages at: http://arlhs.com
Our main web site contains our stated purposes in sponsoring expeditions to remote lighthouses as well as details about our worldwide organization, the largest ham radio society devoted to lighthouse/lightship operations.
Membership details and FAQs are also accessible from this main page."

(1) National Lighthouse/Lightship Weekend (NLLW) - August 4-5th.
Guidelines are on the web page at:

For the first time awards and prizes are offered for this event.

QSL.NET BLOCKS THE OPDX BULLETIN. OPDX InterNet Subscribers using QSL.NET as their InterNet Mail Address will no longer receive the OPDX Bulletin. This will affect some 42 subscribers. OPDX has been having trouble sending the bulletin over the last few weeks to these subscribers of QSL.NET. Apparently, (as we are told) it has something to do with a SPASM control on QSL.NET. We recommend that these subscribers PLEASE unsubscribe from the OPDX mailing List to prevent continued message bounces and resubscribe from another address. We are sorry for this inconvenience.

T5 OPERATION CANCELLED. Bruce, WD4NGB, informed OPDX that: "Due to the recent DXpedition to T5 reducing the need, and the increase in hostilities in the country, the planned trip to Somalia this fall is cancelled. Any other group that may wish to go, I would be glad to change what I have done for a web page so far for their use. Sorry to those that were expecting us to be there... 73/DX, Bruce"

TK, CORSICA (Lighthouse Activity). From July 20th to August 10th, Claude, F5MCC, has planned a South Corsica ham radio tour (IOTA EU-014 and DIFM TK-001). Claude will be active from the land lighthouses, valid for the French Phares et Balises du littoral (DPLF Award) and numbered: PB-169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 188 and 288. He will go to the IIe du Toro (IOTA EU-164 and DIFM TK-031), with TK5XN on a weekend (dates unknown at the moment, and this depends on the weather and the boat possibilities). The stay there is planned for at least one day. Claude will enter the IOTA Contest with TK/F5MCC/EU014 for some hours. Claude will also be active from several Castles and Genovese Towers numbered from TK/2A002 to TK/2A013 which are valid for the French Forts and Castles award (DFCF). All activity will be on 40/20/15/10 meters SSB, CW on request, except for the IOTA contest and Ile du Toro activity where it will be CW only. The QSL for any of these activities go to F5MCC's direct CBA or via the French bureau to F3GJ.

V4, St, KITTS AND NEVIS. Larry, KJ4UY, will be traveling back here on July 19th. Please QSL V47UY via KJ4UY and V47FNH via WB4FNH with SASE for USA stations and SAE plus IRC or USD for return postage. They will be returning to the USA on August the 1st.

VU3, INDIA. Charly, K4VUD (also HS0ZCW, 9N7UD, V26V and A52UD), is now here and has just received recently his India callsign VU3CHE for HF operation. However, no QSNs were spotted by Charly on the cluster networks. A "BIG" disappointed Charly announced this week: "I am now sitting in Port Blair, Andaman Islands, India... that's VU4 land, guys... and I hold a new VU callsign... VU3CHE...but it is good only for operations in one location in New Delhi, India. !!!! close and yet so far!!!, I will file a full report on the test trip to VU4 land later. Very pretty place... trying snorkling today. Sked not not possible for VU3CHE. Back to HS-land soon."

XW, LAOS. Charly, K4VUD, also mentioned this past week that the Laos Frequencies Manager is still working on his XW operating permit application.

ZC4, U.K. SOV. BASE AREAS ON CYPRUS. Steve, ZC4BS, informs/updates OPDX that Steve/ZC4BS and Dez/ZC4DW, and the club station ZC4ESB are fully active "on-the-air" on all bands from 160-6 meters, including the WARC bands, and on all modes. Steve/ZC4BS is also operating SSTV (possibly the only ZC4 ever on this mode!). Their antennas range from coaxial dipoles to a 200ft doublet (basic but impressive ... worked 204 countries in 5 months on a dipole !!!). Steve mentions that once it cools down a little they will be building a few quad antennas for 15/10 meters. They are both active in most contests; usually one active on all bands, the other on a single band or even different modes to allow a better chance of catching a ZC4. Steve states that over 25,000 QSOs between them so far suggest their signals are getting out "OK", so check the cluster because they will be listening for you (ZC4BS is also an avid county hunter !!). It's usually a mistake to assume that when other people disagree with you it's a result of their ignorance. I would be very surprised to learn that you have studied more military history than I have. Suggesting that Iraq's power to dominate the globe in the 90's was even remotely like Germany's power in between-the-wars Europe does not show much of an understanding of military history.

If you will read the thread, you'll see that I said the Iraqis were not a threat to the U.S.- not wherever your family was. No scuds fell on the U.S.

What? The fact that the Iraqis lack the means, just like in '91-that's what.

> Habibi Saadam is a threat to any peace in the Middle East, and > therefore the world.

The "world" was not threatened by all the wars in the Middle East between 1947 and 1991. Countries that made it their business to intervene in the Middle East might have been threatened, if any of the countries involved had the means to attack them. But none did. Some undoubtedly now do have the means to deliver small nuclear weapons to a few targets in the U.S. via "suitcase" nukes, that sort of thing. Our continuing policy of intervening in every corner of the globe insures that we will be the most likely target of such an attack, as well as bombings of buildings (both in the U.S. and U.S. embassies abroad) using conventional explosives.
And the kicker is- nothing we can do will prevent such attacks.
Except, of course, giving up on running the world. Maybe we could announce our resignation from that role via an ad in the Wall Street Journal.

Have you noticed how seldom the Dutch, Norwegian, or Costa Rican embassies get bombed? But then, they aren't trying to impose their wills on the world.

Dear Drink,

Usenet, and I refer to -all- unmoderated newsgroups, are notorious for material unfit for reading by a younger (juvenile) person. Or a more sensitive viewer.

If I may make a suggestion:?
Get some kind of filter that allows only you, with a password, to Awe, the poor dears! Us full-time Americans worked for those wages all the time, and didn't have a cushy civilian career to wail about.

We made our house payments, fed our families, and paid our taxes all on the "1/2 pay" that the part-time American reservists were wailing about when their bluff was called and they had to serve their country for more than a weekend or two-week summer camp.

One of the MAIN reasons we went over there was to protect the innocent people of Kuwait. Secondary reason was to see for sure Iraq did not have nuclear capabilities, which we failed to do...Do you remember when the Inspectors tried to get into the storage facilities, and earlier we had recorded trucks leaving the facilities HOT HAS HELL!?

THIS is why we needed to be over there....anyone with nukes in that region is a threat not only to the US but the whole bloody world! here is a scenario for ya!

Iraq kept firing on Israel (A known nuke country!) and we were not there to calm the situation. Now Israel launches a few to Iraq to show them who is boss.....ok now we have a nice cloud of radio active waste that is floating toward lets say Russia, their people are getting sick and dying, so now Russia lobs a few at Israel.......CHAIN REACTION!

In my own personal opinion (AND YES I WAS THERE!) We should have finished the job, as HE is still in power, and stocking up again.

In the end, YES we did the right thing by pulling ALL the forces to push the ass back to Iraq. NO we did not meet much resistance, but that was because WE (All the forces involved) fought this fight correctly, and with minimal casualties. Starve their forces, and prevent communication is what won that war, NOT just RESERVES, FULL TIME Military, it was a COMBINED effort! The few who are saying that the Reserves are the backbone of our Military are wrong, as EVERY war fought had BOTH on the front lines. Crap you reservist sound like a damn recruiting poster!

OK, now that I have vented, I do appreciate ALL the Military people who have given their lives for this country, If it were not for them we would not have a country to speak of!!!

Please be a little more specific. It's very easy to just say "bull shit" without anything to back it up.

The statements you have made make you appear as someone who has NO previous military experience, but below you make a statement that would hint that you have been in the military.

What branch or branches of the service were you in?
How long?
Are you still in or what type of dischage did you receive?
What rank were/are you?

BTW - You also appear to be one of those who was always jealous of reservists.

Remember, it takes more to be a reservist than to be active duty.

Yes, and the number of states and NGOs that can deliver such weapons is something to worry about. The more enemies we make, the higher the chances are that one or more of them will conduct more terrorist attacks on the U.S. The solution to that is not to try to maintain control over every 2 bit country and splinter group on earth. The more we do that, the less secure we become.

But back to the original point- Saddam was not a threat to the U.S., so the reservists sent to the Gulf were not defending the U.S. They were enforcing the Pax Americana. You haven't made a cogent argument countering that yet, unless you count insults.

I was glad when the league proposed restructuring and when they supported the FCC plan. But now it seems that all the ARRL wanted was just to help license and upgrade a bunch of fucking retards. Thanks for trashing the ham bands you assholes.

Hi,

To balance out the slant of network news, and the likes of Dan Rather, I'm looking for frequencies and broadcast schedules of some of the following noteworthy individuals:

Mike Kornke, Linda Thompson, Bo Gritz, and Bill Cooper for a start. Others welcome too!

Please no flames, just frequencies, and times of their broadcasts.
Thanks for answering here.

950. How to block messages from certain people while using Usenet

It seems a must that you block messages from certain people in this newsgroup just as you would put on SPF50 sun block to protect your skin from ultraviolet rays from the sun. If you are using MS Outlook or Outlook Express, simply click on the message header, click the Message menu selection on the top of Outlook's main window and then select the Block Sender menu selection. Outlook will then confirm your addition and ask if you want all messages from that sender removed now. Click 'Yes.'

Just a helpful hint. I am sure people out there with good judgment can rather quickly figure out who needs to be added the Blocked Senders list.

From what I hear, the retards are not even heard yet on the HAM bands.
I've not heard a new user yet except for one guy and he was a kind person and was respectful. I guess I'm a retard because just 5 wpm code is kicking my ass and as usual, because of the code I might never become a HAM other than a measly tech which no one cares about. The General class license is simple as I'm a electronic engineer, but the code, even 5wpm my brain was not designed for to interpret and I have a horrible case of ADD when it comes to a series of beeps spread out over six tapes (BORING!).
I'm not giving up though. Someday, if God doesn't kill me first, I'll be a HAM. Someday.
So if I'm a retard, get ready as I'm coming on as I'm busting my ass and earning my way.
Back in the old days when most hams got their license it was easy. The content wasn't but the learning was as people had the discipline to just sit down and study, study, study until the learned it. Now society in general doesn't have the disclipline. I know I don't but I bust my butt to still study and I will pass the tests someday. Sorry if you think we are retarded.

I think you mean "the below" since your quotes are set to appear below your replies - something that means more work for us (we have to spend time moving things around to reply).

My friend, Saddam didn't have the military power to take over the Middle East, much less offer any real threat to this country (the only thing he could possibly threaten was our gas prices - and even that is questionable). That fact alone brings your entire premise into question.

> I'ld like to see you make that statement to a > Jewish survivors group.

What the heck does Jewish survivor groups have to do with this? The discussion was about our military's involvement in the Middle East, not about Jewish survivors. Second, what statement would you like me to make to a Jewish survivor group? The statement that you don't appear to understand European and Middle Eastern history, or the statement that you don't appear to understand the capability and resources of Saddam's military? I don't think your apparent lack of understanding of those issues would be of any interest to a Jewish survivor group.

Of course it did. The English channel was the primary hurdle that delayed, and eventually prevented, an invasion of England. And there is a lot more water between the US and Iraq than there was between France and England (radically different vessels would be needed).

> & didn't stop Japan from attacking Pearl!

Japan had the military ships to attack Pearl Harbor. Saddam did not have the naval capability to attack the United States, nor did his country have the transports needed to move personnel in enough numbers to be any real threat to this country. Likewise, Saddam did not have the long range bombers needed to attack the United States, nor did he show any sign of developing that capability.

My friend, even without nuclear weapons, Russia's much more modern military would have defeated Saddam's military with the same relative ease that our military did. Add in the nuclear capability of Russia, and that statement is totally absurd.

All we did for the "innocent people of Kuwait" was to replace one dictator with the dictator in power before the Iraqi invasion. Don't hold your breath waiting for "the people" to send a "thank you" note.

> Secondary reason was to see for sure

We know for a fact that Iraq does not have a nuclear capability, and that they didn't have that capability before the conflict. Some people had suggested they might have been in the early stages of developing that capability, but we had no evidence of that before the conflict (and it has since been ruled out - they cannot be moving nuclear materials around to avoid the inspectors without remote detectors discovering the material).

And I have an equally valid scenario for you; none of that happens.

So you believe in killing foreign leaders that you dislike? How does that make you any different than the typical terrorist or assassin, or this country any different than the typical terrorist country? And what effect would Saddam's death have on the stability of the Middle East? How would our relations with the other Middle Eastern countries go if we started assassinating the leaders of those countries? For that matter, how would relations with any other country go if we started assassinating foreign leaders whenever we felt like it? It's easy to advocate murder when you don't have to be responsible for the wide spread consequences, my friend.

Yes, I believe we did.

Lets not pat ourselves on the back too hard. What won that war was the simple fact that we had the more modern military - nothing more, nothing less. The tactics used would not have worked against a more modern adversary. For example, a country with satellite capability would have had a better picture of our troop movements and deployment strategies. Likewise, a country with more modern weapons would have wiped out our troops as they were getting off the ships and planes (if they would have even allowed the ships and planes to get that far).

So what? We had biological weapons more than half a century ago. In fact, we still have piles of them stored in the deserts of Arizona and Nevada. Most of them don't work worth a crap - your own troops are threatened almost as much as the enemy's.

Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band
(R. Xemblinosky/P. McCartney)

Lead Vocal: Dr. Winston O'Boogie

It was twenty years ago today,
Roger Wiseman forced the boys to be gay
He's been going in and outa their rears
And he's made them into ravin' queers.
So watch out or I'll force on you
The act we've hated all these years,
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.

We're Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band, Disciples of the Bucktoothed Choad,
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band,
Sit back and watch us shoot a load.
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound, Roger Wiseman's Greyhound,
Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.
It's wonderful to be here,
But Wiseman's full of crap,
The dirty goddamn pederast:
That fucker gave us syphilis,
That fucker gave us clap.

I don't really want to stop the show,
But I thought you had all better know,
That Wiseman's going to play a song,
On a stickpin that he stuck through his schlong.
So let me introduce to you
The one and only Bucktoothed Choad
And Roger Wiseman's Greyhound Men's Room Band.

I have a special need for a radio that will transmit on liscensed VHF frequencies. The radio needs to have a line input, and I have not been able to find anything that has this. I know amateur gear can be modified to use these frequencies, but this setup needs to be 100% legal, so that's not an option. I'm trying to interface our radio system with some PC generated alarms and would like the alarms to broadcast over the radios (output coming from the PC soundcard).

Does anyone know of such a beast? If not, would it be possible / legal to tap into the Mic input (assuming I could figure out the pinouts) and do what I need?

Imagine #2
(R. Xemblinosky/J. Lennon)

Imagine Roger Wiseman
It's not so hard to do
Kneeling in the boys' room
Slurping down some spoo
Imagine all the Cub Scouts
He has done this to!

Imagine Marshall County
A breeding ground for hicks
When they hear how Roger Gets his seedy kicks
Imagining old Wiseman
Gumming winos' dicks!

Imagine West Vagina Contagious black lung
No more coal to shovel
So Roger gets by with his tongue
Imagine him paying rent
With free shots at his bung!

We all know Wiseman is a reamer
But he's useful just the same
Where else would the Nose find a patsy Half as sad or half as lame?

The easiest solution is to use a homebrew attenuator (basically a bunch of well chosen resistors) to reduce the line level to mike level. Won't bother

Don't give up on the 5wpm. You can do it. It just takes time and practice.
I would suggest listening in on some on-the-air QSOs, if you have a receiver to do so. I'm sure you have a band plan so I wont list the freqs. 80 and 40 meters in the novice sub-band is a good spot.
The only trouble (which may be in your benefit) is that code tapes and tests are "perfect" CW. No static, no mistakes, no QRM. You'll never hear CW that good on the air.
Buy, borrow, steal or copy a different set of tapes. That seemed to help me. After a while one seems to memorize the tape they're using. Another idea is to find a study-buddy (if you both have tech licenses) to do some 2 meter modulated cw practice.
I had a lot of trouble with that 5 word test, too. Once you get it out of the way and get on the air making real CW contacts, your code speed will jump up fast.

In the old days, code tests were conducted by FCC officials. Those guys didn't care if you passed or not. No matter how much of a nice guy you were, they didn't like you. The headphones were like wearing a couple of hockey pucks attached to your head with a C-clamp.
Today, tests are administered by volunteer hams who want to be there and want to see you do well.

BTW, I really wouldn't expect a "retard" to successfully pass a tech exam.

The so-called and self-proclaimed "flame-meister" is recyling his tired, old lames. Tired and old, just like the "author" Xemblinosky. Poor toothless bitch, he has to watch to not drip his poly-grip onto his third-hand keyboard. Now, he has to worry about prostate cancer, high cholesterol and whether or not his insurance provider will pay for those new bifocals. Too bad he has a criminal record for child abuse. Too bad he commits domestic battery on that heifer of a sow wife of his. Too bad he sexually abuses his own children. Raoul has a hidden history of being emotionally abusive and controlling in his "family situation," even though it's very dysfunctional.

EWE SHOOK RAOUL ALL NIGHT LONG
Bon Scott/KC8JBO

She was a his ovine wetdream,
Raoul kept her vagina clean,
She was the best damn sheep that Raoul ever seen,
She had a nice mouth and size, Raoul couldn't tell no lies,
And knocked Raoul out with those ovine thighs
He took her at the county fair,
Had Raoul fighting for air,
She bleated for Raoul to cum
But Raoul was already there
'Cause the sheep was shakin'
The earth was quakin'
Raoul's dick was achin'
And Raoul was makin' it with EWE shook Raoul all night long Yeah, EWE shook Raoul all night long

Raoul spent double time
On the seduction line,
She's one of his kind,
Raoul said she's mine all mine,

This, his parents won't endorse,
Just a small matter, of course,
Made Raoul squeal like a boar,
He comes back for more,
He had to cool her down,
With his tongue all around,
Now Raoul's back with the ring,
His regular saturday night thing,
The EWE was shakin'
The earth was quakin'
Raoul's dick was achin'
and he was makin' it with EWE shook Raoul all night long,
Yeah, Raoul fucked sheep all night long, (knocked Raoul out)
EWE shook Raoul all night long, (had his knees shakin')
And EWE shook Raoul all night long,
Yeah, EWE shook Raoul all night long,
Well, EWE shook Raoul-----

(Break)

Sheep really send him,
and EWE shook Raoul all night long,
EWE shook Raoul all night long,
Yeah, yeah, EWE shook Raoul all night long,
EWE shook Raoul all night long,
EWE shook Raoul all..... night..... long!

I had the privilege of taking my 13wpm test in a big hall along with others back in the "one-minute of solid copy of extremely incoherent text" days. QRW/223-. The audio was from a record player or something and was a high-pitch warbly tone that echoed off the walls. That, combined with people shuffling around dropping pencils and groaning was an experience where I would have been elated for any sort of headphones.
To this day I can't copy well via a speaker. I guess its a lack of concentration? Maybe thats a clue for some folks who may be having problems.

No legal expertise here, but I was wondering if an "unattended" transmitter like that would be legal? Suppose the alarm devices goes crazy and never ceases transmitting.

Bullshit. I don't give a rat's ass if you were the Grand PooBah in Charge of Ham Radio in 1959. People in general, including hams, showed respect - all except you, apparently - and you weren't hard to ignore then.

OK folks, I don't typically get involved in flamewars, but this is going to stop. Any further discussions on this topic will be deleted. and will not make it to the newsgroup.

If you want to post to the other groups, great, but don't include rec.radio.broadcasting. Including rrb means I'll get the message before it gets posted, which, in this case, means it won't show up in rrb or any of the x-posted groups. The solution is just to leave rrb out of the Newsgroups header.

This is actually not as inflammatory as a couple of the messages I haven't posted, but this thread is over. Done. Kaput. Through. 86'd... at least as far as rrb is concerned. I don't care about, nor do I have control over, what is posted to the other groups.

Per RRB's original moderator's rules: just about anything posted here is OK as long as it's on-topic and flame-free. Keep the flames out of RRB.

Thank you, drive through. (Any followups to this post will be ignored. Any flames that are e-mailed will be deleted without comment.)

The most effective way to handle this is to make donations directly to the local Boy Scout chapter in your area. This way you know the money goes right to them.
I recently visited a fund raiser our local Boy Scouts were holding by selling barbequed chicken. I gave them a twenty dollar bill, declined to take the food, and told the Scoutmaster that this was my way of making a statement of support for them and also my way of helping to screw over the Gay Agenda.
Anybody can do the same.
I also plan to send a dummied-up copy of a three dollar bill the next time the GLAD goons have a fund raiser. It will be fun to hear their trilly little voices screach at me when they see the bogus bill.
By the way....the local Scoutmaster wrote a letter to the paper that was published in which he thanked the community at large for their generous donations. He stated that many folks paid two to three times what the asking price was for the foodstuffs, and that many just donated money anonymously and drove off.
It is also interesting to note that the donations to the Boy Scouts nationwide are up a million dollars over last year. I bet the trilly-voices hate that.
Now who are the fools?

It isn't wise to criticize others when you make mistakes as stupid as this. Keith Richards is indeed alive, but just barely.

Okay, you asked for it. Here's a balanced assortment:
GMT KHz
0130 5975 BBC: Reporting Religion (Sunday morning)
0200 5825 EWTN: Catholic World Today (M-F)
0230 9885 Swiss Radio: news
0300 9820 Radio Havanna: news which are all news programmes that last at most 30 minutes.

Note that none of them are centred around programming 'personality cults' despite the wide differences in the programming:
secular v. religious right wing v. left wing

Youmust mean something like when our new data geek decided to schollus grunts in the "internet".
It was a long long time ago, time flies and all of that.
Something had happened in the White House, so MR DataGeek decided to show us how to keep current on the news.
He typed the url http://whitehouse

Then turned to face us and spent 30 minutes of irreplaceable time boring us with the wondrs of the 'net. Yawn. Most of us had been using the net for a long time.
But the images on the monitor were a sight to behold. Whitehouse.com is(or at that time was) a soft poron site. Lots of "bare naked ladies". It was scream, at least until our boss walked in an wanted to knwo whateh naked ladies where all about. Mr Boss was (likly still is) a rather prim and proper conservative Christian (nut case) and lost his cool over the "blatent pornography". I guess he had never seen a "bare naked lady".
Mr. DataGeek lasted less than a month.
I doubt if "cyber patrol" or any watchdog/nanny program will prevent young delicate eyes from seeing "bare naked ladies", or darn near anything else.
Of course the ads in todays Womens magazines would have caused my mother to blush. Or maybe not.

Hell, I'd been munching MRE's for over 30 days in Honduras and the

PRNG (Puerto Rico National Guard). We'd been reduced to bartering for pigs

Be sure to learn it Farnsworth style, that is, 13wpm characters spaced in 5wpm time. That's the format of the tests. Besides, it's supposidly a quicker method to develop faster code speed. Which you'll want if you decide to get on the air with code.

Troll. And besides the FCC observed itself that there was no decline in the quality of operations on HF since April '00 when they rejected the WAD petition for reconsideration of code speed requirements. If anything, it's gotten better since '313 has gone away (at least when I listen).

I never said I didn't know who they are!! I assume with the names you have thrown around that you are referring to "Carl Von" Clauswitz, the Napoleonic soldier; "General" Von Stuben of the Prussian military; and Sun Tzu "The Art of War"??

BTW - that saying is alligator mouth and "CANARY BIRD" ass.

You would do well to follow your own advice. If you want to play

I don't think Saddam has the capability to develop biological weapons that would work well - that would not threaten his own military, and himself, as much as his enemy. And, no, I would not want him to use them. However, I seen no evidence that he would (even he is smarter than that).

There's indeed a new hurdle at around 8-10 wpm for most people. That has something to do with making the transition of truly 'processing' the sound instead of translating the individual letters. The method mentioned makes this second hurdle quite easy to get by. Once you do, your speed is pretty much limitless if you get enough practice.

The alarm controller will be located in a process control room manned 24x7 (in theory anyway). The radio transmission of the alarms is going to be a suppliment to a PA system already tied into the system.

As far as the attenuator goes, where could I find plans for one?

Sure we care about the Boy Scouts. Every year we work with them on the Jamboree On The Air. Boy Scouts are very much apart of ham radio and deserve our support against the ruthless attacks by homosexuals and their warped supporters.

Exactly! I've donated money, and time, over the last few months.
And, since it takes so little of either to help, I plan to do both again several more times.

I like that. I spent a couple of hours writing protest letters to the city council of Los Angeles (bowing to pressure from gays, they recently banned the Boy Scouts from using public buildings in that city, and ended the police department's eagle scout program). Their email addresses are available on the city's web site.

One of the ham radio clubs in this area is a sponsor of a local boy scout troop. They also involve the boys in many of the ham radio club's activities. Therefore, as a ham, I do care about the boy scouts.

Exactly. You'll hear places and things on non-voice modes (which means CW if you hear them) that you'll never experience any other way. Once this was a byproduct of the necessity of learning the code. Today newcomers must be "enlightned". Glad to see you are there.

And this is not to denigrate any other non-voice modes. Of course some of then can do things that CW cannot. But the reverse is also true.

Yep, another fisherman plies his "trade". But there is an unfortunate thread of truth to it. It's great that ham radio has attracted so many who are interested in HF communications, but geez, why can't they change just a few habits along with changing bands? Hearing "Fist personal here is...." and "Threes and eights to you old butty" is enough to dump a whole bunch us into orbit.
And heaven help you if you attempt even the most gentle urging of habit change, the PC Po-leece will be on your case in a heartbeat.

Remember: One "Awshit" negates 1,000 "Attaboys".

When I took my advanced class exam there were two of us there for examination. The first part of the exam was the code test. The examiner sent us five minutes of code then handed the key to the other guy and ask him to send some code. He was so nervous that all he could send was gribbrish. The examiner said, "why don't you step out into the hall and take a break, have coke from the machine and calm down a bit". He then had me send and by the time we were finished the other guy had settled down enough to pass the sending test. Now that doesn't sound like a we don't care attitude to me.

I've got the ARRL tapes, "Code Quick" by w6tjp, and around somewhere I have Jerry Zilliac's tapes (which I ended up memorizing). If I had known that w5yi offered them, I would have bought them, too.
I also have half a shoe box full of tapes some old boy mailed me. He swore by the w1aw code practice heard at 3.5815 MHz after 7pm weeknights (I don't think he ever nailed the tech test, he was a novice with a CSCE for 13 wpm).

I think the best practice is getting on the air and trying to communicate.
I know it's tough to do this as a no-code tech. A lot of the guys who upgraded the same time as I did got together on 2 meter simplex and practiced with modulated CW. This can be done with any 2 meter radio. But, this is no substitute for pure CW mode so you must stay out of the CW sub-band.... roger?!
I think all those guys were old school CB'ers. They went from no-code to extra in about a year.

It's been a thought.... believe me..... :) One of these days I will be finally in a job (and town) where the damned republicans believe in taking care of their employees. Shit, construction even here where I live is only paying minimum wage even with experience. But in the same time, living expenses are "ungodly" here (so another set of republicans can get rich too i.e. landlords, store owners etc.) Just gotta suffer for about 3-5 years and then life will be much better then.

Yes, the old ancient 1950's headphones which were plastic and had those metal clamps hurt like hell.

Trimm phones - the best non-custom on the retail market. In SF at least, one could bring in one's own hi-Z phones and key(er) if desired as long as it didn't screw up the system we had.

I have an Audio Technica ATR30 dynamic mic that I'd like to use with my ham rig...was going to use Heil's CC-1 adapter cable...contacted Bob Heil about this and he said that it would take much more equipment to do it...is this true, or is he just trying to get another sale?

any help is appreciated.

You are certainly entitled to your opinion, but it is not shared by those considered knowledgable on such issues.

Oh, you should have seen the field kitchens the French were running about twenty years ago (I don't know if they still do it). During a field exercise in Germany, we were eating rations, while they had fresh baked bread, cheese, wine, some kind of submarine-like sandwich with ham, tossed salad, and some kind of meaty vegetable soup. Darn, I was hungry after watching them eat. Luckily, I guess they felt sorry for us since they let us have some also (though the Lt. didn't let us have any wine).

They did the same thing to a couple of my relatives - called them back to active duty after serving during WWII (my father was already on active duty - he was too young for the "big one").

My friend, I can certainly comprehend what I've written. I just don't comprehend your claim that what I've written would be of interest to a Jewish survivors group. Since you flatly refuse to explain your claim, I'm left with the assumption that you just used that statement to try to twist what I've written into something that exists solely in your own mind.

Holy shit! That's lame as (f)lame, it's lame as UPA, it's just, well, lame. For starters, you don't indicate who you (think, I know, it's hard) think you're (f)laming. After that, well, there's no point in going on.

It boggles the mind that you went to such lengths to cmpose something so bad.

Subject: Re: Raoul Xemblinosky Stripped Bare by Cockroach Roger, Even...
From: wilhelp@ix.netcom.com (Bill Palmer)

This one (below) proves unusually risible because--as talentless and ignorant a hack as Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known! The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and original subject line written by someone else (often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although--to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive. Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive. People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on "OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of

"That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece. It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader, literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold, an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky! He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul-- what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers

when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky
would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains
on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews.
In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking talent...

You're within your rights to spew faglames and AIDS lames, Wiseman. But a look at alt.rollingstones and you can see what I mean.

The regular users in alt.music.mp3.napster have killfiled

these users to drop the newsgroup from their subscriptions, thus missing an opportunity to solve their problems.

It's not that clean and simple Jim. The Scouts and ham radio have had and continue to have overlaping interests & activities. In my own case

I still don't understand why. To my knowledge, these are the specifications that a microphone needs to meet in order to be compatible with a radio:

Impedance
Audio Level
Balanced/unbalanced output
PTT capability

The ATR-30, according to Audio Technica's specs, has a impendance of 500 ohms. On Yaesu's website, the spec for the FT-840's mic input is 500-600 ohms. OK there.

The audio level has to match, right? I mean, the audio won't go through any EQs or mixing devices, or be converted into another type of connector, or anything like that. Connected directly to the CC-1 and into the radio. How can the audio level be that far off?

The ATR-30 has a balanced output. All of Heil's desk mics are balanced as well. The CC-1 is wired for a balanced mic. OK there.

Being a studio mic, the ATR-30 doesn't come with PTT capability, but that's what the CC-1 is for.

I think I've covered all the bases...so why doesn't it work?

Any help would be appreciated...

Well I can see you haven't learned much during your years-long exile from

I guessing that in some bizarro reverse universe that floats in the voidless

Let's see if I can answer in Rogerspeak.

Ummm, no. Did you eat a Down's gene for lunch?

Boy George was an underrated soul singer.

Subject: Re: Raoul Xemblinosky Stripped Bare by Cockroach Roger, Even...
From: wilhelp@ix.netcom.com (Bill Palmer)
Date: 4 Oct 1997 21:31:13 GMT

This one (below) proves unusually risible because--
as talentless and ignorant a hack as Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions
on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known!
The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and original subject line written by someone else
(often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although-- to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive. Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive. People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on "OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of "That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece. It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader, literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold, an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky! He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul-- what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior
in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers
when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky
would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains
on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews.
In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking
talent...

Palmer can fall over and die happy now. Someone's not only cited his insomnia-slaying drek, they actually went sifting through the 37.9% of Google archives that Silly Billy claims to "own", looking for just the right Palmjobism to limply hurl at his opponent.

Bill Palmer and his faithful sidekick Roger Wiseman. You two'll make a great team.

1111. Raoul Kiddiefucker Xemblinosky gets advice on dealing with his baldness

Seinfeld's Larry David gives the advice to CHROMEDOMED, over the fucking hill troll Raoul Xemblinosky:

"Somebody asked me recently what it is I'm most proud of. 'That's easy,' I beamed. 'It would be the way I've adjusted to baldness.' I'm
a bald man who is way out there. No toupees, no hats, no beards.
Just totally unvarnished, unabashed bald. One of an ever-increasing minority of bald men who have chosen to do nothing.
"When true bald men meet, they have an immediate connection. Bald men love other bald men. There's a bonding that takes place on some deep level that you never get with anyone else. We've been through it. We live with it. We've read the surveys -- the ones in which 75 percent of women say they would not date a bald man. Think of it. That's why,
when a bald guy gets the girl, we know we've got a woman of substance.
Which is not to say that the typical bald man has any substance. The average bald man, for example, has the same superficial standards for women as the guy with hair. That's why we have to have a little more going for us than the hair man. We have to dress a little better, make a little more money, and have a little more charm just to compete.
And
we do. Have a conversation with a bald man sometime. Go ahead. Do yourself a favor. Tell me you don't walk away impressed. That your day was not made a little richer by virtue of the fact that you were in Bald's presence."

"But the bald man who doesn't make the effort to compensate for his baldness is in trouble. The last thing the bald man needs is to get lazy. A lazy bald man is done. Show me a lazy bald man, and I'll show you a miserable bald man. The lazy bald man who needs a shave and goes out in sweatpants and a T-shirt might as well hang it up. That's not how we compete in the hair world. I say to the lazy bald man that he's making it harder for the rest of us.
"The bearded bald man annoys me. That's not a proud bald man. That's a bald guy who's trying to enhance. He wants to deflect attention
from the head to the chin. It's subtle, but the message is the same:

I'm bald and I don't like it. Most of my contempt, however, is reserved for the bald men who wear the cap. They must be kidding. They walk around with their baseball caps on, hair sticking out in the back, and, yes, they look good. People are always telling bald men how good they look in hats. Of course they do. Why wouldn't they? But what happens when they take that cap off? Have you ever seen the looks on people's faces when the bald man takes the cap off? They're dumbfounded. And the cap will come off. That's a given. Say you meet a woman in the park with your hat on. You walk her home. You call her up for a date -- now what, bald man? Are going to wear the hat on the date? What do you intend to do? You've got a dilemma. You made your first mistake by going out with the hat. You think she's going to like it when you show up at her door with your chrome? What she's going to be is disappointed that you misrepresented yourself. You've tried to come off as a hair guy. You've lied, bald man."

"There's a new bald man in our midst. He's chosen to shave the little hair that he has down to a little stubble, a style last employed by Nazi barbers. Others shave it off -- the theory being that no hair is better than some hair. Again, more tricks, more gimmicks.
"But neither hats nor beards hold a candle to toupees. How could anyone have respect for bald men if go to such ridiculous lengths? That's why hair guys are so condescending toward us. We're jokes to them. We're not taken seriously. If a hair guy has a girlfriend, he's not threatened by a bald man. He doesn't mind if his girlfriend has a platonic bald man in her life. He's not worried. 'Come on in, bald man, make yourself at home.' Nothing ever gave me more pleasure than the time I took a woman away from a hair guy. 'How did he do it? I didn't think...' Yeah, while you were taking me for granted, hair man, I was platonicking my way right past you. You won't make that mistake again. He thought it was O.K. for me to be up in the apartment, hanging out, watching T.V. -- with him right there! Can you believe the temerity?! Can you imagine a bald man letting his girlfriend have a platonic relationship with a Hair? Wouldn't, couldn't happen. They don't get near Hair. And alone with Hair? Never.
"I do have a theory (I admit its self-serving) that the bald man is the better lover. First, you have the appreciation factor. The bald man is so thrilled to actually be in bed with a woman that he'll do anything and everything, and all with tremendous gusto. And, of course, there's the testosterone. We've got it in spades. That's why we went bald in the first place."

Mark Kornoke is in prison. Bill Cooper is voluntarily doing a life prison sentence by holing up in his house to avoid (get this :), going to prison. Great insight Milton! Bo Gritz has been off the air for nearly 6 months. I don't know if Linda Thompson was ever on the air (isn't she a liewyer, er, I mean lawyer? If so, beware of the viper). Cooper still broadcasts but his self imposed imprisonment has eroded his grip on reality further and made his personality disorders even worse (if that's possible). If you want to listen to a "right wing" broadcaster that actually has some credibility check out Alex Jones. I'm not sure of his broadcast schedule but I'm sure it's posted on his website http://www.infowars.com

"Right wing" means somebody who is for greater concentration of wealth, which means that the rich get richer, or for a greater concentration of power so that the U.S. gov't gets more imperialistic. "Left wing" is somebody who is for the opposite and wants more money & power for the poor or for local communities. Accordingly, Zarathustra, Buddha, Jesus, Mohammed, Robin Hood are radical leftwingers, and Caesar, Napoleon, Hitler, Marx, Lenin, Stalin, FDR, Clinton are all right-wingers to varying degrees.

What they both have in common, is that they all develop large personality cults, which shall discredit both the left and the right. A true liberal is somebody in the political centre who is liberated from a slavish adherence to an existing political ideology, and does not swear by some existing slogan/platform. That's why there are no personality cults at the political centre. The Jean ChrEtien personality cult indicates that the party is either on the left or right: seeing that the party is for the concentration of both money and gov't power, it has become a right wing party. The Alliance Party rightwingers are trying to oust their leader as he is incapable of creating a personality cult in the mould of ChrEtien, or Preston Manning.

To correct my earlier post of right/left wing news broadcasts:

GMT: KHz:
0130 5975 BBC: Reporting Religion (Sunday morning GMT)
0200 5825 EWTN: Catholic World Today (Tues.-Sat. morning GMT)
0230 9885 Swiss Radio International news
0300 9820 Radio Havana news

Britain, the Vatican and Cuba are obviously places w/cults around existing personalities as il duce/lider/fuehrer. In Switzerland there is no such thing, and I doubt if anybody in this newsgroup knows who the current President of Switzerland is, or how he got elected.

Now there's a purely unbiased opinion. In truth, "Left Wing" and "Right Wing" are terms that the left and right ends of the political spectrum use to demonize each other ;-)

I think a more unbiased opinion- and this is by no means universally applicable to all groups so labeled- is that the left puts their faith in governments, and the right, in individuals. Of course, you can't necessarily trust someone to behave as their name suggests!

OK, so Charlemagne, Superman, Henry VIII, J.R Ewing, Catherine the Great and Vito Corleone would be right-wingers "to varying degrees," and Mother Theresa, the Green Hornet, Haille Salassie, Norma Rae, Geronimo, and Ally

Ah... squids were simply bus drivers to me...with the exception of the hard core dudes doing riverine duty. Last time I called a bus driver Mister, was out of manners, not respect....and so far..with the exception of doing your duty to your country... you have deserved neither from me.

And.. as your mos involved commo, given your "love me" newspaper notice you were depending on to get you some slack... I have even less need to feel respect for you.

Unless you were a antenna jocky..your duty station probably consisted of a nice warm comm shack wayback in the guts of some floating bomb magnet, where the chances of you picking up a wire splinter or a paper cut, or carpel tunnel syndrome..were magnatudes higher than the likely hood of stepping on a MA, or having Little Brown Brother try to put you on the KIA list. I have known a few Navy commo guys, in years gone by, who had shore duty doing repeater setups, etc etc..who got into the shit on a regular basis..and I have oodles of respect for them for the most part...but you? Based on your posts... I figure you may wind up at DeVry sooner or later in the Slow group.

Buddha, Jesus, and Mohammed left wingers?

Marx, Lenin and Stalin right wingers?

You just flunked history, civics, and government.

The radical left is communism and the radical right is fascism.

The simplest explanation of the left and right can be described with fish. Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for life.

The left wants to give people fish and control their lives while doing it while burdening them with more and more taxes to fuel the bureaucracy. Government has all of the answers. People are never responsible for their own action - it's always someone else's fault.

The right wants to teach people to fish and to keep government off their backs while doing it. The right trusts people to make their own decisions about their own lives. People must be responsible for their own actions. The best thing that can happen is for more and more people to succeed in their lives and make lots of money doing it.

No net search was done on this end. But it is obvious that you needed a Wrong again, you are confused with a fictional movie from 25 years ago.

Take an old AC cord and fashion it so that it will fit the power hookup on the radio. Don't worry about which lead is positive or negative. Plug in to any household outlet, tune to channel 19, and then continuously start hollering into the mic 'How bout it skip land'.

Good luck! We all anxiously await your results.

You described a lunatic fringe right winger. The vast majority of Repuclicans are far more moderate than that.

For Sale:

Yaesu FT-920 HF/6 Meter Amateur Transceiver package - $1200.00.

This rig is in "as new" excellent condition and works 100%. No scratches, dings, etc. On a scale of 1-10, I would rate it a 9.5 - but only because it is a "used" radio. It was just returned from Yaesu Cerritos service (7-15-01) after a complete checkup and alignment, and everything is performing equal to or better than factory specs. (It has never been taken out of the plastic bag since it's return from Yaesu)

This rig has been upgraded with the optional TCXO, FM board, AM board, and InRad 2.1 SSB crystal filter - all work has been performed by Yaesu Techs. Additionally, it has had all factory updates, including the noise blanker improvement and SSB power fixes, as well as the factory MARS/CAPP enhancement. It comes with the original box and packing, hand mike, power cable, user manual, original Yaesu 2.4 SSB filter, and the factory service manual.

This is a current production model, if purchased new, this package would cost in excess of $1500.00 for the parts alone.

Buyer to pay actual shipping charges from 93535, and insurance if desired (highly recommended).Payment is accepted by US Postal Money Order only. Unit will be packed in original cartons, double boxed, and shipped via UPS, FedEx, or USPS - buyer's choice.

I've actually heard of a CB'er doing this before...

I've also heard of a CB'er hooking up his CB to the cable TV cable because he thought that he could get really good range if he hooked into the tall cable TV tower just outside town. Guess he didn't realize there would be a few pieces of equipment between the TV & the tower.

Built on a a piece of plywood? There was a schematic for a regen in the radio merit badge handbook. I couldn't find a 3A4 tube though, and salvaged a tube portable radio for tubes and parts, and most of all, a B battery that still had life in
it. Had to sell a lot of papers to get another B from the hardware store in the 'big' town next door. had 75 feet of wire strung out of my second-floor bedroom in my grandmother's house. Damn thing squealed with every gust of wind...

Unfortunatley the lunatic fringe is running the Republican party right now, so all Republicans have gotten that reputation.

Republicans have got to break the grip the right wing has on their party or continue to decline.

Actually superheroes like Superman or the Hornet tend to be neither right or left wing, but rather agents of the status quo;
They seldom try to promote change but instead focus on enforcing the laws and rules that exist.

An exception was Alan Moore's Miracleman, who looked around did.

Proof enough... Free mag put out by GEEK!

It's no secret, any salesman would love to be able to load up the ham bands with customers.
Since these people can't hold jobs anyway, they are always looking for the quickest path of least resistance to get what they can before it's time to go. They don't care about anything that ham radio stands for unless they can use it to stuff their pockets.

But, if it were true that "ham radio is dead" as easy as it is to get on the air these days, that really reflects on 2-way industry as well. If people don't need ham radio, why would anyone want 2-way?

The reality, is that ham radio has all the technical advantages of conventional 2-way operation, but leaves the commercial aspect behind. People who like to play with radios, like ham radio.
People who like to talk on the phone want to take it with them, and don't want to be bothered by too many gadgets.

One could also interpret the cover as a list of frequency bands where the dying mobile radio industry will hold out after wireless industries have completely assimilated the rest of the market.
Currently, I have more Ham business than commercial, and even taking on inside wire/PBX/LAN/CCTV services, I don't have enough volume to give up my day job.

Did you actually read that piece before you posted it?

The bald guy comes out on top, in more ways than one.

He has more money, is better in bed, slides past an established hair guy in a relationship, has more testosterone.

Oh, and he flames in latin.

<Trust me on the last one>

You seriously need to get a life and understand what you're doing in alt.flame and the nose.

Posting a piece of prose by a. n. other to flame someone is bad enough...

- that just shows your creative ability is non-existent.

...but using one which "in actuality" ends up showing the guy you're trying to flame in a good Light...

<shakes head>

That just shows your brain is non-existent.

Reading your other recent Usenet offerings, it looks like you lost the plot a long while ago anyway, sonny.

I am looking to swap some of my computer gear for a decent HF rig. Specifically interested in the Kenwood TS-50, ICOM IC-706 and Alinco DX-70 or DX-77. Other rigs certainly considered.

What I've got.

Compaq Deskpro Server
400 MHZ, 128 MB Ram, CD-ROM, 8GB HD, 10/100 NIC, AGP Video, Mouse + Keyboard, Windows 2000 Professional. More ram is available.

Compaq Deskpro Desktop
350MHZ, 128 MB Ram, CD-ROM, 5 GB SCSI-2 HD, 10/100 NIC, Adaptec Ultra Wide SCSI Card, AGP Video, Mouse + Keyboard, Windows 2000 Professional. More ram is available.

Compaq Deskpro Desktop
350MHZ, 128 MB Ram, CD-ROM, 6 GB HD, 10/100 NIC, AGP Video, Mouse + Keyboard, Windows 2000 Professional. More ram is available.

Compaq Deskpro Desktop - Small Form Factor 466MHZ, 128 MB Ram, 8 GB HD, 10/100 NIC, AGP Video, Mouse + Keyboard, Windows 2000 Professional. More ram is available.

Hewlett Packard Rack Mount Network Hubs
4 available, 2 14 port and 2 15 port hubs. All are in excellent condition and recently removed from service.

If you see something you like, please let me know. I am open to trades or sales on any of the machines. I hate to get rid of them (were for a unix project) but the XYL says they're taking up too much room.

Thank you!

Tha'ts not true at all.
Right wigh is one who is for old fashioned morals, laws and rules as apposed to going apeshit too far in the liberal direction like filthy "modern" things like teaching your child in sex education about homosexual fisting, and tongue to ass licking and homosexual fellatio etc.
Right wing believes in sex education but it should be taught with the emphasis to not do it as it's immoral (unless married) leads to diseases and leads to getting one into allot of trouble (unwanted babies, child support, mistakingly marrying because of the baby etc).
Left win believes in sex education and thinks it should teach everything all the way to the topic of how some people like to shit on each other and have sex with dead people, or animals, and encourages that all forms of sex is ok and sex is there to be explored, enjoyed, even if it means harming an animals or getting horrid diseases, or getting sexual addictions or everyone pregnant.
Right Wingers are normal people. You have some extreme right wingers out there but they are freaks.
Left Wingers are abnormal people and extreme left wingers are just downright control freaks with an agenda out to destroy and conquer the world with bad principles.

in the liberal direction which is extreme is way too far

What happens in the bedroom makes solid what one will do in society.
If you don't believe me, then a scenario where one is a pedophile and resists and then finally gives in, downloads lots of kiddie porn (not teens but downright little boys and girls) and starts masturbating over them.
Ah, sorry, but indeed, their are laws against this and there should be because you know that sooner or later, if the person has severe mental problems and loses control, he will end up snatching up little boys/and or girls and using them for sex.
Sorry, but that's the way it is, indeed there should be laws about what goes on wherever sex is had, if it be sex with yourself or someone else.
Also, homosexuality is a vile, abominable against mankind. Just because one has a hole big enough to fit a penis, doesn't mean it belongs there.
Even gorillas know this, so why does it take a legion of men to tell you so and you still fight the truth about it that's it's simply for idiots who don't know better.

This one used a 6SN7GT with a 6.3-volt "filament" transformer and a 67.5-volt "B" battery. One of the triodes was the receiver itself and the other was the amp stage for the headphones. The coil was 22-gauge magnet wire wound on a carboard D-cell sleeve and the band selection was by taps on the coil selected by a shorting lead and alligator clip. All connections to the "outside world" were made with Fahnstock clips.

Fortunately, Green's TV Supply Store was only several blocks away, and Rubie Green, the owner, realized that we kids were not the radio-TV servicemen who were his regular customers but took it upon himself to set us on the right path. And when we needed it, "Radio Row" - the (in)famous Cortlandt Street (now buried under the World Trade Center) was only a subway ride away. My "Elmers" were in the high-schgool radio club, two gurus who were maybe a year or two older than I was, and for questions on general radio or TV repair, a friend of my father who was a radio repairman in the Army during WW-II (which wasn't that far in the past).

>Damn thing squealed with every gust of wind...

Yup....the first thing that I remember hearing when I first fired it up on 20 meters was some ham saying to another "Hey, you lop-eared jackass, get off this band".

Courtesy on 20 meters hasn't changed much in the 50 ensuing years...

Hello all
I live in an apartment building and have some restrictions on what I can put up.
I want to build a vertical antenna for 10, 12, 15, 17, and 20. I was thinking of just using some tubing to be cut to be resonant on 20m, add some wire radials at the bottom, and use an auto antenna tuner to tune it. Now, the only thing is that the only place I would have to put this antenna is to attach it with arms to our mast running up the side of the chimney. My question(s) is: 1: Would the chimney interfere with the antennas preformance? 2: At the top of the mast are some beams which would be about 5 feet above the vertical antenna. Would these interfere with the tuning of the vertical? Any other ideas on a vertical antenna to build for the bands I mentioned? The antenna has to be under 20 feet tall and no radials, counterpoise, or whatever sticking out over the edge of the roof. Would any commerically made antenna fit these needs??

(aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions
on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known! The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and original subject line written by someone else (often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although--to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive. Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive. People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on "OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of "That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece. It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader, literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold,
an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky!
He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul-- what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings
he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior
in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers
when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky
would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains
on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews.
In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking
talent...

Here is the response I got directly from Bishop...

My response would simply be, "Oh, dry up."

I suggest you take a look at all the editorials we've published in defense of amateur radio frequencies. As far as I know, ours is the only magazine that covers commercial radio communications that has taken editorial positions that defend frequency allocations for amateur radio. There's nothing in the article to suggest our position has changed one little bit.

Hi,

I just got my Icom 756Pro. I'm totally psyched. Having this thing sitting on my desk is the push I needed to upgrade my license so I can use HF.

A couple years ago everyone told me to learn code by using SuperMorse. They said set the word speed slow (to 5wpm), but set the character speed to the 13wpm rate. They said it's easier to later increase your word speed if you learned the faster characters.

So is this still the best way to learn code? I bought Gordon's tapes years ago, but never listened to them. I just want to pass the friggin test so I can start talking as well as listening. What's the fastest/easiest/best way to learn code?

THANKS!
John

I recently bought a used R5 antenna. I have come to discover that I probably can not put it up where I had first intended. I would have been attaching it to a vent pipe on the roof and the antenna would be too tall for that location plus the counterpoise would stick way over the roof there and that is a no no with our landlord, (we live in an apartment building). I had thought it would work as when I talked to a tech at Cushcraft before buying the antenna they had told me it was shorter and that the counterpoise was alot shorter. Anyway, my other area to put this antenna would be to use arms and attach it to the mast going up the side of the chimney. My question(s) is this: Would that interfere or detune the antenna? Also, there would be a couple of beams up above it, would they pose the same problem? Or would an auto antenna tuner on the radio take care of any of this?? Any help, info, or insiteanyone can give would be greatly appreciated!!
Please email me direct at: N9RK@aol.com.

I'm scared to learn the characters at the 5WPM speed because I'm worried it will be harder to upgrade and harder to actually use CW on the bands.

Are there places on the net where I can listen to live CW?

I sit in front of a computer all day, I could easily put on headphones and listen to live code while I work.

Does anyone broadcast CW via real audio, shoutcast, or any of the other audio broadcast protocols?

Thanks,
John

Oh Puleeeze, you demonize republicans when they aren't even 1/4 as worse as conservatism in the reagan years. Now THAT was some hardcore conservative, republican shit my friend. Bush Jr makes conservatives look liberal by 1980's/Reagan standards.
How has conservatives affected you as a liberal other than simply beating your liberal presidential candidate, which is still debatable who won.
To be honest I hate only heavy duty liberals as I myself are a conservative liberal.
It's the non-conservative ones, the ones who have an agenda of helping the black race get leverage over ours, and helping homosexuals as a group become more accepted by teaching homosexual filth to children which is the filthy scum I can't stand as they are moralless.
they don't respect themselves or the rest of society and think if it has a hole, it's ok to stick their penis in. Filthy animals is a better word for them!

I used the Gordon tapes and passed the first time. If you will devote a couple hours a day, every day, you should be ready to take the test in a couple weeks. It's really not that tough to get 5 WPM.

Good Luck

I have heard of a local group of CBers doing just this. All lived within a short distance of each other. And enough 27MHz signal was able to leak thru the cable system so everyone could hear each other without hearing much if any external over the air CBers. A private party line of sorts. Probably trashed TV channel 2 though.

A CB SSB receiver can hear a regular AM CB transmission. The reception will probably sound a bit like Donald Duck with possibly a whistle in the background. Play with the clarifer.
Tune whatever channels the locals like to yack on. The radio probably has an AM receiver mode on it as well, try it. Find some signals on AM, then switch modes to SSB upper or lower sideband and you should hear those signals sound like Donald Duck and whistles. Normal for AM received by an SSB radio.

The new ARRL standard for the code tests is 5 WPM with the characters sent at 15 WPM. I'd learn the characters at about that speed so it will not sound different if you take the test at an ARRL VE test session.
I'm not sure if the other VEC'S are using this same standard for their tests or not.

The terms left and right go back to the days of monarchy, when power and money was highly centralised. During the days of the Kaiser, the fraternities in Germany had worked to bring about a greater devolution of power, and were considered to be left-wing. In fact, after the Kaiser was deposed, the basic fraternity flag was made the flag of the German republic. The Nazis hated the leftwing symbolism behind that flag, which is why they replaced it. The signers of the Declaration of Independence were all left wing, as they fought to overturn monarchy so that the people would have divine right to rule over themselves, and not the monarch.

That kind of stupidity is typical for Yankees, who also don't know what the

Gorbachev said that communism was state capitalism.
The Nazis said that they were a socialist worker's party.
So communism & fascism are just two sides of the same centralising coin of concentrating power and/or money in the hands of fewer and fewer people.

I couldn't remember if mine used a 3A4 or a 1U4. I do remember that

Yea verily! I had to get fancy with mine. Homebrewed aluminum chassis & panel, actually used a hole punch to make a home for the tube socket, two Lafayette vernier knobs, a row of binding posts along the back of the chassis for the connections. Was not a bandswitcher, ya got something like 5-15 Mhz "depending".

My crowning achievement was building a 5-tube superhet which tuned the

So how did the 27 mhz signal get through the isolators in the cable unless they burned them out first.

To test the SSB for transmitting, first make sure that you are in CB mode, not PA. Next, switch to either USB or LSB. With the mike plugged in, and working, key the transmitter and whistle into the microphone. You should see an indication of power out on the radio's power meter. If you have an external power meter, hook it up, and you should see about 12 watts while transmitting in SSB. To test for receive, tune to channel 35 through 40 and just listen, preferabley with the squelch completely off. Do this in both USB and LSB. You may have to test the receiver at various times throughout the day, until someone is actuall on the air.

I have talked to many folks over the years and here is how others have learned.
VISUAL -- some learn best by seeing it on the screen as they hear it.
AUDIBLE - Musically - some learn it as a song DAH DAH DIDIT -- The zebra did it. Dah Dah di dah -- here comes the bride - a queen.
AUDIBLE - INVERSE some study the opposites A then N, K then R, etc AUDIBLE -- Some learn by associating it with the NATO Alphabet (I did) i.e, dit-dah followed by A or ALPHA after a while I hear dit dah and A or alpha pops into my brain
TYPING -- some find that they have an automatic refex to hearing a character and hitting the right key on a key board. not sure the VEC's will let you take the test that way.

CHARACTERS -- at 5WPM it is feasible to repeat (or count) the dits and dahs in your head and pass the test --- but Farnsworth makes this tough - most recommend -- learn by sound only "the zebra did it"

TIME - many find studying for over 20 - 30 minutes is a waste of time - just boggles the mind. Not a problem with others (not the majority I suspect)

FARNSWORTH --- All tests are soon to be given at 12 WPM character speed, 5 WPM overall speed - contact your VEC for this. I feel that if you are tested Farnsworth -- then study that way -- have talked to several who studied straight 5 WPM and couldn't copy a darn thing in farnsworth.

Get your code speed a word or two above 5WPM - 6 or 7 WPM. But don't get your code speed too much above the test speed -- boggles the mind for some.

Another tip --- some folks are surprised that after laying off hearing code -- two days before the test -- it really zips thru. Make a trial on this --- use it if it works for you --- (I passed my 20WPM test that way)

VERY IMPORTANT TO CALL YOUR VEC AND GET A HANDOUT SHEET SPECIFYING SPEED METHOD ETC, SEE TYPICAL HANDOUT BELOW.

IN SUMMARY - THERE IS NO ONE SURE FIRE WAY -- THE LEARNER IS ENCOURAGED TO TRY THE METHODS THAT GIVE THE BEST RESULTS

My advice re: "frustrated after HOURS of Code study" Don't study for hours --- 20 minutes a day every day!
My 2 cents worth.
Also for your info -- things to concentrate on from W6YOO
A1-8. PASSING THE CODE TEST
NOTE: Following is a typical exam handout sheet used in San Diego. Before you study the code or prepare for a test, call YOUR VEC and get the latest information. You will want to know in what manner to study, note that in the example, code characters are sent at 13 wpm, with the spacing adjusted for overall 5 wpm speed ï¿½ study accordingly is recommended.

The VECï¿½s in your particular area can be found at URL:
http://www.arrl.org/arrlvec/veclist.html

This is a typical Morse code test as given by our local Volunteer Examiners in San Diego, California. It is presented here as a matter of what to expect when you take the test.

When you put the earphones on and the tape is started, you will hear one minute of practice to help you loosen up. This will also give you the opportunity to make sure the volume is set high enough to allow you to hear the characters being sent. An example of the one-minute practice might be like the following:

V V V The following is one minute of practice at 5 wpm to allow for adjustment of the volume.

Following the one minute of practice, there will be a slight pause followed by text sent by one operator in a typical QSO. What follows is a sample of what you might hear:

V V V WA7VXB/8 de N3YZW BT RRR Thanks Roger for the nice report. Your report is RST 569 ? 569 here in Gambrills, MD. My name is Julles and I work as a Keypunch Operator. My age is 30 and I am married and have 2 children. The rig is a Yaesu 101B putting out 75 watts to a 2 element Quad antenna. I feed the antenna with 50 ohm coaxial cable. The weather here is warm and breezy, temperature is 74 degrees. So how copy? AR WA7VXB/8 de N3YZW SK

You will note that the sample QSO contains all of the alphabet letters, numbers 1 thru 0, punctuation such as the period, comma, question mark, slant bar, and the prosigns BT, AR, and SK. All of these are required by the FCC to demonstrate your knowledge of the Morse Code. The actual QSO you hear will be approximately five minutes in duration.

Following your listening to the QSO, we will check your copy looking for a string of 25 characters in a row without error. If you have copied 25 characters in a row without error, you pass. If not, you will be provided with an answer sheet with ten questions about the QSO you just copied. If you answer seven (7) or more correctly, you pass. Each letter in the text counts as one (1) character, numbers, punctuation and prosigns count as two. If you have the appropriate number of characters in a row correct, you pass the code test. As you see, you have two chances to pass.

What are the questions like? Following are some examples, along with the correct answer:
What is the callsign of the station being called? WA7VXB/8
What is the callsign of the calling station? N3YZW
What is the name of the operator being called? Roger
What is the name of the calling operator? Julles
What is the calling operators job? Keypunch Operator
What make and model radio is he using? Yaesu l01B
What kind of antenna is he using? 2 Element Quad

What kind of feedline is he using? 50 Ohm Coaxial Cable
How many children does he have? 2
What is the temperature at his location? 74 Degrees

You will note that there is emphasis on callsigns and numbers, pay close attention to the make and model of the radio being used and the antenna system. Remember which is the calling station and the station being called. Some have had the calls correct, but reversed them on the answer sheet. READ THE QUESTIONS CAREFULLY!

Remember, your first chance at passing is your text. Go back over it carefully, you are going to have some blank spots. Use your best judgment as to what is missing. Remember, state abbreviations will probably be sent as two letters, e.g. CA not CAL or Calif. We will start counting with the first correct character and continue until you miss. We will start again at the next correct character and continue until you miss again. We do this until the end of the text, counting letters as one (1), numbers and punctuation, and prosigns as two (2) characters. If we find enough correct in a string, i.e. 25 you pass.

Suppose your text looked like this before you went back over it to see if you could fill in where you missed a character: "The rig i_, a Ya_su 101B put _g out 75 w___s to a 2 el_m_nt Q __d ant__na."

That line is sixty-six (66) characters long. When you go back over your text, don't you think you could fill in the blanks? If you know rig names and models, types of antennas, feed lines, etc. you should have no problems. Another thing -- penmanship is important, write or print your letters and numbers carefully, so we can read your writing. Block printing is best, but try not to lose out because a cursive "c" looked like an "e". It is not pleasant for us to have you miss out by a single character.

If you have any specific questions, be sure to ask one of the Volunteer Examiners before your Morse Code Receiving Test begins. We wish you the best of luck and look forward to hearing you on the bands. YOUR VOLUNTEER EXAMINER TEAM

Using a 1/4 wave for 20 is good, but unless you feed with 'open wire, ladder line, etc' it will not do well on the other bands.

Id suggest using a loaded antenna of some sort. Such as a 20-10 commercial vertical or mobile antenna. Hang some radials on it, tune for maximum smoke and enjoy.

No, the chimney will not likely bother it. Any metal near the antenna will have some sort of an effect. Unknown until you hang it up and see.

I would like to work 20 m and up and I am still kicking around ideas for an antenna. Does anyone have a good idea for some sort of wire antenna that can be strung between 2 chimneys that are approx 75 - 90 feet apart? Dipoles are out of the question as there would be nothing for support in the center. A coax fed antenna would be prefered but any ideas welcome! Please email me at:

What communism really is, is state ownership and control of virtually everything.

Both communism and fascism are totalitarian governments and that's their similarity.
It's a choice of whose chains do you want to wear.

I suggest remedial reading of some history textbooks on world governments.

It's quite clear that you're ignorant about the U.S. and would rather insult everyone there. As for the U.S.'s form of government, even Sir Winston Churchill said, "It's the worst form of government, except for all of the others." As for "historical meanings", your definitions don't seem to appear in any of the textbooks.

Instead of a rational dialog of another country's form of government, you choose to use irrational and vindictive insults and ad hominem attacks.

Your email address indicates that you are in Canada. While I believe that there are some problems in Canada, there also are many problems here in the States. There is NO way I would ever insult ANY Canadian about their country. I have talked about politics with Canadians many times with the idea of a mutual understanding about each other's form of government. If you think the U.S. is so corrupt, why don't you immigrate here, become a citizen, and work progressively to make changes. That's one of the advantages of free societies.

You said "and had nothing to do with me." If this is true, why are you posting on this subject? To paraphrase Shakespeare , "Methinks you doth protest too much."

I really feel sorry for you. You clearly have a tremendous amount of hatred and just choose to strike

Icom 756 (not the pro) This radio is in beautiful condition, and as far as I know it does not have a mark on it anywhere. It is in as new condition. I have owned this rig for 3 years. If you are looking for a dependable rig with all the bells and whistles this is the one for you. Power output is 113 watts on high power on all bands, and is of course variable.
I have all boxes, books, manuals, everything that came with the rig when it was new.
Price is firm at $1200.00 plus shipping of $25. If you would like to hear the rig I can get on the air with you, just drop me a line to make the arrangements.....Serious inquiries only, no tire kickers please.

Let's start by stressing that I know nothing about walkie talkies or "family radios".
My wife and I would like to be able to keep tabs on each other when we're in the shopping mall or casino and wondering if the Motorola 2-Way T5100 that Wal-Mart sells would work inside a mall or casino.
We don't want to spend more that about $60. Any information or suggestions would be greatly appreciated.

The part of the Boy Scout credo that states they will be "morally straight" rankles the twinkies. Of course they fail to recognize that that part of the credo was put in place years before the twinkies differentiated the normal from the abnormal by using the terms "straight" and "gay".
Morally straight at that time meant that the Scouts would be honest, moral, and good citizens. Leave it to the twinks to twist the definition.

What happened to the UFO sighting in Hiram, Georgia last week? Was the UFO ever identified? Wuz it a bird? A plane? A brick?
Damn! Time to git the Hefty bags out agin....how's a family dude gonna keep his winders frum leaking whut with all these CB dudes busting them? Them Hefty bags gits expensive and duck tape is up to three bucks a roll now days. Figure that 12 Hefty bags is $3.99 an duck tape is $3.00 and that makes it out to be around fifty cents fer each winder that gits taped up. That is some real BIG money when you is on a limited income.
If'n these CB clowns keep bustin' winders ever week a guy may spend a fortune to keep the rain an wind outta the hovel. I won't have no money for Old Milwaukee if this keeps up.

If I confused Marxist theory w/ communist practice, then that's a fair criticism. Unfortunately you have not read any history textbooks ongovernment in order to spot that. I've read both sets of history textbooks from East & West Germany. While the communist books will pay lip service to the Farmer's revolt, E.German farmers were oppressed by state control. Marxism may have been leftwing in the days of absolute monarchy, but it's still to the right of liberal democracy as practiced in Switzerland.

An obvious lie, as you would have had to have read all textbooks in order to make such a sweeping statement.

It's you lot who started the ad hominems. Like I said, you lot can dish it out but are too wimpy to have it thrown back.

Wrong again, it's disgust for right wing scum. If you were as smart as you think you are, you'd see that I deliberately take positions that are half way between 2 political extremes, but formulate them to be provoking, and then sit back and watch to see who attacks me, and every time, I only get attacked from your extreme, which shows in general where the hate is.

At least the other extreme will express disbelief w/out the adhominems, or at worst that I'm pulling their leg.

How interesting that the person you refer to (who wrote the e-mail pointing the finger at other's for e-mail bombs & forgery) was kicked off of his ISP & two different e-mail lists for similar type of inappropriate actions, then later he was charged in federal courts for illegal actions.

I hate new jersey.
Why?
Look at all the crazy stuff they are doing in the courts right now.
They are making crazy rulings in favor of crazy things people are doing (non race related) which affects future court rulings.
New Jersey consists of a bunch of nutballs it seems as I'm hearing all kinds of crazy court rulings and crazy law enforcement issues coming out of New Jersey.
If I were to give an Enema to the USA, I would stick it in NJ ,just because of its liberal disgusting ways.
I think NJ is like Portland Oregon except unpleasant, horribly layed out, and consists of generally rude batty people instead of simply mellowed out middle ground liberals which are cool to be around.
On the other hand, seattle needs an enema as they are extremist liberals in general.

They are destroying the country.
Once again, its like ice cream, tastes good when you can eat it on your own, but when someone shoves the whole damned thing down your throat, cone and all, it's a horrible experience and gives one a feeling of being violated, disrespected and a brain freeze.
Same with diversity.

Well, let's see. you said:

"shows just how stupid you are, as none of that has anything to do with me.
That kind of stupidity is typical for Yankees, who also don't know what the definition of liberal is. You must be from the U.S."

Which insults the entire population of the U.S. That's nationalistic prejudice.

And then you said:

"And you must be from the U.S. and no doubt a product of the ritalin/crack/prozac culture there, and of their educational system where kindergarten lasts 13 years. The defintions were referring to the historical meanings, which you evidently are too crazed to realise, and had nothing to do with me."

And then you said:

"It's you lot who started the ad hominems. Like I said, you lot can dish it out but are too wimpy to have it thrown back."

And then you said:

"Wrong again, it's disgust for right wing scum. If you were as smart as you think you are, you'd see that I deliberately take positions that are half way between 2 political extremes, but formulate them to be provoking, and then sit back and watch to see who attacks me, and every time, I only get attacked from your extreme, which shows in general where the hate is."

It is YOU who are making the attacks! Instead of using logic, you resort to insults against individuals and blanket insults against the population of an entire country.

Recall that I said:

"Your email address indicates that you are in Canada. While I believe that there are some problems in Canada, there also are many problems here in the States. There is NO way I would ever insult ANY Canadian about their country."

That doesn't seem to stop you. It is YOU who are making the attacks! Instead of using logic, you resort to insults against individuals and blanket insults against the population of an entire country.

SInce this is an astronomy news group, shouldn't these posts be done on one of the alt.politics newsgroups?

Typical left wing tactic. If you do not agree with them they automatically label you a racist, klan member, Nazi, etc when that could not be further from the truth. No different from the Joe McCarthy era labeling people as communists. Look at how many lifes McCarthy had destroyed and it is no different now with the left wing destroying the reputations of decent peope accusing them of being racist.

You really believe 6 year olds should be taught sex education you sick bastard? There is also nothing I sent in my responses that indicates that anyone should not be treated equally. Just another perfect example of how these laws get passed.

It`s not a matter of wether they`ll work in a mall or casino...It`s a question of wether you`ll be allowed to use the radios in a mall or casino. The mall`s probably not gonna care...the casino, on the other hand, might just care a really lot because of the chance of RFI to the slots and other equipment. Also, the security gaurds (or rent-a-cops, as we call `em here) just MIGHT have somethin` to say about it. My suggestion to you is to check first on use of a two-way radio in a casino. (I know that they definitly DON`T allow ham radios or scanners or cameras in a casino). Hope this helps and good luck to you in thsi matter. 73 DE N9NRA neither of them seem to exist!

How about giving us a link to their website or the "report" you quote?

Bush might not be as smart, but he sure isn't a lier, crook, oversexed bastard like Clinton. Not to mention, it is far safer to be associated with the Republicans than the DemoRATS. Ask the family of any woman that has had an affair with a DemoRATic Congressmen. Or for that matter, ask Vince Foster's family while your at it.

The left wants to make sure that everybody has precisely equal amounts of fish--they aren't very successful in seeing that everybody has some fish, but they try very hard to make sure that nobody has more fish than they need.

But nobody should be allowed to murder these poor little fishies. Not when you can get all the nutrients you need from soy-based tofu-ish

There's nothing wrong with bombing the lake (by a well-regulated militia consisting of all land-owning white males over the age of 18), scooping up all the fish that float to the surface, and selling the fish to people who can't fish on their own beause their own boats were sunk in the bombing.

Unless the fish has mind-altering properties, or leads to immoral behavior. Fugu and oysters are Right Out.

Did you hear his speech today, 7/21/01? How he referred to GenOa instead of GEnoa? This country is injured by the man and he ought to do us a favor by resigning before he destroys the nation and the rest of the world along with us. His ability to lead is definitely behind that of Chelsea Clinton's.

Duffy,
You'd concoct any story to put a shield around the dummy. Thank God we have Cheney sitting in on things which is not to say that he's not in the pocket of the crooked Republican "rich bitch" machine. But to think that GW is just a heartbeat away from the Presidency is scary.

This one (below) proves unusually risible because--
as talentless and ignorant a hack as Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions
on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known!
The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and
original subject line written by someone else
(often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although--
to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no
talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting
and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive.
Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive.
People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on

"OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of "That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time
I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup
soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece.
It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader,
literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold,
an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky!
He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect
no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul--
what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings
he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior
in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers
when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky
would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains
on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews.
In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking
talent...

1270. ## Sioux City ham repeater in CRISIS!!!!!!!!!

WE HAVE A REPEATER CRISIS IN SIOUX CITY IOWA!!

Sioux City is about to lose one of it's open UHF repeaters due to meddeling & policital game playing within the ham community.

A repeater has been running on 443.575 MHz in Sioux City for many years at the same location as a quiet, but open repeater, in Sioux City dedicated for weather alert functions and regular conversation. The callsign is KS0F,
and is managed locally here in Sioux City.

Recently, Tom Brosamlie (WB0YNX) has been putting a lot of pressure on the local club (Sioux City Amateur Radio Association) to sell the 147.06 repeater to him. (Note: he originally wanted out of the busines and sold the 147.06 repeater to the club in 1997 for $1800!!) The club has not been willing to sell the repeater at this time, but he has continued to put pressure on the club. Several month ago, the club lost their site due to remodeling. Since then, the repeater has been at someone's home.

WB0YNX used influence with a friend of his Jim Cornelia who works at the same location where the 443.575 repeater is located. The plan was to kick out or remove the 443.575 repeater and weather alert equipment and put the 147.06 repeater in it's place. WB0YNX figured that if he did this for the ham community then he would have more pressure for the club to sell the repeater (back) to him. During this time the owner (KS0F) was out of town on military duties.

WB0YNX has admitted to several people that he told Jim Cornelia that the equipment for 443.575 was old abandoned equipment and that the repeater owner had left the area years ago and never heard from since and that because the repeater was closed to the public because it required a tone to access, so no one ever used it. LIES LIES LIES!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

The truth is that the owner KS0F is in the military and regularly comes home on leave. The repeater is open and active, being used by local hams.

The 147.06 repeater is NOT dedicated for emergency functions as the 443.575 is and the 147.06 repeater has had a long history of maintainence problems causing it to be broken frequently. The 443.575 is always running with a coverage for 40-60 miles.

This would be a serious set back for the ham community and emergency services in the area if WB0YNX is successful in playing his games to make this happen. He owns "T and S Antiques" on Hwy 75 here in Sioux city, I suggest boycotting his business.

And why can't BOTH repeaters be at the location? Why does one have to go to make room for the other? THIS IS NOT RIGHT.

Is there ANYTHING that anyone can do to help?

As a former Commanding Officer of a midwestern Naval Reserve Center, I can attest to the attitude some reservists had about joining the reserve program ("weekend social club" or "part-time job with education benefits"). However, as the Chief Engineer onboard a minesweep, I was sent to replace the incumbent engineer on a ship in the Persian Gulf. As a TAR (Training and Administration of the Reserves) officer, I was quite impressed to see that I could not distinguish regular sailor from reserve sailor. If anything, I found the reservists brought with them their civilian experience and skills.

That carried on to my final tour of duty as the Training Officer at the NMCRRC Pittsburgh. While there were some who were hurt financially because of Desert Storm, there were a lot more who contributed greatly to the US Navy.

I would hope that people take a different perspective before they berate the reserve programs and our citizen soldiers/sailors/airmen.

Who are you trying to fool? This "Lovenstein Institute" makes up their own criteria and their own "IQ" numbers. Their "IQ" numbers in no way relate to any real, standardized and validated I.Q. testing.

Chances are, they are all a bunch of liberals anyway, as are almost all of these self proclaimed "scholarly institutions"...

On the other hand, a national poll (Zogby) which IS an accredited poll, found Bill Clinton to be ranked as the most immoral president in history.
Zogby also ranked him as the number one worst president in history, according to their findings.
Who the heck is Lovenstein? Sounds like a shoe store in Yonkers......

This explains why all of our major wars happened under the watch of Democrat Presidents.....
Eh?
Since Clinton's IQ is allegedly so high you would think that he'd have not acted so stupidly so as to be impeached and to have had his attorney's license recinded.

I don't recall the Navy doing much at all save around the coastal areas.
Mostly they were REMF's and except for an occasional arty support, didn't provide me with anything. (SEALS excluded) Aside from the bars and liberty I never saw a Navy person in my AO....but swabbies didn't get out into the boonies much. They didn't want to get dirty.

Well said, Lou. Hundreds of reserve and national guard personnel were also called to participate in Kosovo, as well as many civilian employees of the DoD. I would like to say they did an outstanding job, but they didn't. It was impossible to tell them from the regular soldier or sailor - they all performed equally well.

Airborne!
Had lots of good times at Ft. Campbell. Some on the Kentucky side, others on the Tennesse side since the state line ran down the middle of our barracks. We could get 3.2 beer at the PX for twenty cents a can...never got drunk, but we sure pissed a lot!
Stateside REMF's would not understand...
And then there was Advanced Infantry Training (AIT) at Ft. Benning...and on to Fort Sill for OCS. Life got better while living in the BOQ, but not by much. Damn Arty guys made it impossible to have a quiet evening what with pounding away with the 105's and 155's all night. There was also a darn radar school near the BOQ...two or three hundred yards away...and they loved to train the radar units on the BOQ to watch the overhead flourescent fixtures flicker on and off.
Now days that cannot be done for fear of too much RF exposure...
And who cannot forget going into Lawton, Oklahoma to visit the "clubs"? Old two and three story buildings with a bar on each floor and toothless old women trying to look like vamps?
Life was simple back then. We jumped out of airplanes and wore silver wings on our chests. We were warriors...the best of the best.
Now we are getting old, we have scars, and some of us did not come home, but our wings are still polished and we will always be AIRBORNE!

Usually a select elite of Individuals such as Alan Greenspan, or captains of industry such as Bill Gates or Ted Turner or politicians such as Baby Bush Duvalier. While the phoney left preaches that people should depend on gov't programmes for their salvation, the true right will preach that people should depend on corporate growth and gov't subsidies to global trade for their salvation. The true left from Seattle to Genoa knows that both are right wing paradigms to further centralised gov't power or corporate wealth.

Whoever said there ain't a dime's worth of difference between the Democrats (phoney left) and the REpublicans was wrong. There is a dime's worth of difference:

The Democrats are on the back side of that dime, as they will stab the poor in the back, for example by engineering the mass migration of blacks out of southern U.S. states where they were a majority of the population and had mastered the skills necessary to cope in a rural existence, and by herding them into urban slums in northern states where the slums were owned mostly by Democrats. Welfare to blacks thus became a hidden welfare to Democrat landlords. And the blacks in those slums had to start from scratch to learn the skills needed to cope in an urban existence.
But at least the CIA arranged for them to turn cocaine into crack and help bring desperately needed investment capital to black communities, so I shouldn't be too harsh on gov't programmes.

The Republicans are on the front side of the dime, as at least they are honest enough to stab poor people up front.

But from the historical definition of left and right, both are right wing subtotalitarian parties, when compared to libertarian parties or esp. green parties which are for biodynamic regionalism. The historical definition of centre on average should neither add to the concentration of money/power nor take away from it. (The Libertarian Party tends on average to be in that centre, as it has both right & left wing policies that cancel each other out.)

True, but the REpublicans/Conservatives know how to manipulate constituents w/those beliefs to unwittingly promote a greater concentration of wealth for corporations, even if it means subsidising air freight companies to punch more holes inthe ozone layer to increase the profits of multinationals.

True, but a true Christian is for the empowerment of the poor and the sick, which should make them left-wing.

Yes there is, and that tends to put you in the political centre, by historical definitions. Switzerland has such a gov't, and most political power & taxes (about 2/3rds) is at the county level or below, and not at the state/provincial/federal level.

Yes: Congressman Con-did-it is a self-righteous, god-soaked, murdering, woman-demeaning, anti-adoption-choice individual. And if you believe Genifer Flowers, so is Bill clinton.

True left-wingers will want power devolved to a local level, and will be the gov't. It's the false left wingers who want to have control over what central gov't is doing, like Fidel Castro, and then centralise power even more.

Even...
From: wilhelp@ix.netcom.com (Bill Palmer)

This one (below) proves unusually risible because--
as talentless and ignorant a hack as Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions
on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known!
The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and
original subject line written by someone else
(often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although--
to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man
ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no

talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive. Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive. People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on "OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of "That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time
I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup
soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece.
It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader,
literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold,
an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky!
He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect
no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul--
what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings
he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior
in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine

actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers
when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky
would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains
on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews.
In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking
talent...

Next door to Raoul's basement is Raoul's hide and seek Elmo World, where the 50-year-old bald-headed kiddie fucker plays "Santa" with all the neighborhood kiddies. Raoul enjoys them sitting on his lap, cornholing them as he askes them what presents they want. No wonder the Mass. law enforcement community knows his disheveled duplex quite well.

1302. 14.313 to the preacher

I often wonder if you realize the many problems that you cause due to your driven desire to preach your brand of religion on amateur radio frequencies. You, of course, will declare that you have a right to discuss anything at all including controversial matters, as religion, on our frequencies. Were you aware that for many years hams refrained from discussing religion, politics, etc? Can you appreciate that your sermons (and they are sermons) demonize a good portion of our population? I have heard you say that Israel, and that encompasses Jews all over the world, rejected your Messiah and you profess that God has turned his back on them. Now, I know that nothing that I write can ever dispel your belief that Jesus is the Son of God, and the only way to be saved. I'm also aware that you realize that there are many that have the strong belief that he was not the Savior.

I wish that you had the sensitivity to know that the worst accusation you can charge a person or a group of persons is the deification of a God. I don't have to remind you that the Jews have been persecuted for ages, and the continuous reminder that you mistakenly air that Israel has turned her back on God, adds to the bile and hatred of the many anti-Semites in this world. The Jew haters of this world need justification periodically and I never thought that amateur radio frequencies would provide this.

The Ecumenical Council absolved the Jews. Why don't you? If you feel you have to go into your tirade of preaching, you are choosing the wrong venue. 14.313 is a quieter and gentle frequency now that you chose not to nest there. You provoke anger and consternation and inevitably the QRM that ensues. I also realize that you think that God himself has given you your assignment, which is to educate anyone and everybody to believe the same as you. Your soapbox oratories belong on the soapbox, not on an amateur frequency. If you feel you must broadcast the word, go commercial. Please do not tarnish our bands, by your insensitive need about your so-called salvation.

It's also about taste, my friend. If it's tasteless to a large portion of the listeners, don't air it, in spite of your self-proclaimed mandate. Religion is controversial. It always has been and until we all band together and believe on one religion, (unlikely) it will always be controversial. I suspect that you don't care that you cause such chaos on the air, due to your convictions. Your not caring is wrong.

It would be a perfect world, when someone with a controversial conversation will not bring out the hooters and QRMers. Until that time of a perfect world, please do a favor for all of us who love our hobby. Don't add to the problems we have, by preaching your Fire and Brimstone histrionics. Your fervor makes you incapable of when you cross the line.

A PL tone required for access does NOT make the repeater "closed." The coordination document (for areas where there are repeater frequency coordinators) is what determines "open" vs. "closed." Whoever said otherwise has other issues.

Where I live, Southern California, almost every repeater, "open" or "closed," requires a PL tone for use. That's because of frequency sharing and to reduce co-channel interference - and has nothing to do with its coordination status as "open" or "closed."

"Below you will find the headers and traceroute information on one Raoul Xemblinosky (bogus name) who has been continually abusing his usenet privileges and attempting to create flame wars by impersonating different users and crossposting to irrelevant newsgroups. He also seems to change his address at every chance he gets possibly violating his terms of agreements. I'm relatively sure you have heard of this individual in the past as he seems to be rather proud of his usenet accomplishments. If you will visit http://iacw.usenet-performance-art.org/ you can see some of his history. The archives will also display a representation of his method of operation. He is a bully and recruits other users to join him in his endeavors to destroy normally docile and helpful newsgroups. Take a look at alt.rollingstones and you can see what I mean.

The regular users in alt.music.mp3.napster have killfiled him, but there are a lot of new users coming to the group for assistance and these trolls, led by Raoul, have forced these users to drop the newsgroup from their subscriptions, thus missing an opportunity to solve their problems.

I don't know if this person has done anything that would require his access to be cut, but it would doing a great service to usenet if it happened."

Well said! Bravo! It is time for Preacher John to shut the fu-- up and go away. Three fourths of the world's population are Muslim, Bhuddist, or Hindu and don't give one shit about who Jesus Christ is supposed to be.
The best part about hearing John air his off-brand of religion was in being able to turn him off. A fat lip would be much more rewarding, but what the heck.

3B6RF QSL STATUS. Steve, N3SL, informs OPDX that Fred, HB9AAQ, has notified him that the QSLs are printed. Fred has express shipped the cards to Steve, and he should be receiving them shorty. Steve has asked OPDX to inform the ham community as an update, and a "notice" to STOP sending duplicate requests, which are coming in at a pretty good clip! All QSL requests received have been processed, all labels printed, and they are simply awaiting the 3B6 QSLs. Those who did not include any or insufficient postage will be receiving their cards via the bureau via Switzerland. Steve states, "With everything ready on this end, I feel comfortable in saying that we will have all cards into the U.S. mail within 7 days of receiving the 3B6 QSLs. We want to be sure everyone has theirs for this year's DXCC submission. The number of 'Thanks for the all time new one' is pushing about 40% of those received. One gentleman even wrote that the 3B6 would have been his last country had they not added P5! Wow...."

Hank, K2HJB, was expected to be operating from Jamacia as 6Y5/K2HJB on 6 and 2 meters July 22-23rd. QSL direct or via the Bureau.

Glyn, GW0ANA, QSL Manager for the ZD7K-ZD8K DXpeditions, informs OPDX that the full color QSL cards for ZD7K and ZD8K have arrived from the printer. He states that the printer has done a great job on them and cards started going out July 16th. He hopes the guys like them, and they thank everyone for all for their support.

The QSL information for ZS6SRL for the IARU HF Contest (July 14-15th, 2001) is via Dennis, ZS4BS, either via the bureau or direct via the callbook address (Box 12104, Brandhof, 9324, Rep of South Africa).

S2, BANGLADESH. YL Shin, S21YH, has kept the CW ops happy on 17/15/12 meters. There has also been some SSB. Check around 18080 (or 18150) kHz after 1700z. Check around 21210 kHz after 0800z and 24895 kHz after 1030z. QSL via 7M4PTE.

SPECIAL PREFIXES. Special Event Prefixes have been authorized to be used by all Canadian Radio Amateurs to commemorate the 25th anniversary of 1976 Montreal Olympics Games. The special event prefixes are sponsored by the West Island Amateur Radio Club based in Pointe-Claire, Montreal, Quebec (Mr. Frederick Archibald VE2SEI). The special event prefixes assigned to this special event will be: XM for VE's, XL for VA's, XN for VO's and XO for VY's. They are only authorized to use these prefixes between July 15, 2001 to August 15, 2001.

TL, CENTRAL AFRICA. Charles, TL8CK, seems to like 15 meters SSB. Look for him between 1130 and 1430z. QSL via F6EWM.

TR, GABON. Jean, TR8JCV, was active on 17 meters this past weekend. Watch 18132 kHz around 2030z. QSL via CBA. Also active was Jean, TR8IG, on 15/20 meters. Watch 14192 kHz at 2230z and 21245 kHz at 1400z. QSL via F5IG.

TT, CHAD. Eric, F5JJK, signing TT8JE, was heard on 12 meters with very few takers. Watch 24945 kHz between 0730 and 0830z. QSL via F6FNU. Also active was TT8DX on 18152 kHz after 0800z and on 28495 kHz at 1230z. QSL via F5OGL.

XW, LAOS. Hiroo, JA2EZD, is active again as XW0X, and his licence has been renewed through August 16th. He was active this past weekend on 20/15/10 meters SSB at various times.

It does not sound like it is a frequency coordination problem. Rather, it sounds like it is a problem with someone using influence and lies for personal gain or private agenda.

Why did you NOT capitalize a single stray word throughout this entire posting, Wiseman? You wouldn't be changing your writing style just to suit me, now would you? You wouldn't happen to be a little touchy about this, would you?

That's OK. I now grant you permission to revert back to your old familiar style of gruntage. You MAY now GO Back TO CAPITALIZING Certain Words THAT you Feel Need JUST THAT little EXTRA Bit of Wisemanian EMPHASIS.

You may be enjoying yourself to the point of toe-curling orgasm here, Roger,
it still doesn't negate the fact that you write like a fucking dolt.
You're hopelessly over your head and woefully out of your element whenever you awkwardly attempt to string together more than a sentence or two. You cause global snickers every time you feel the need to step up to the mike and express the two or three lonely thoughts ricocheting around in that empty melon of yours. It's painful to witness.

An IQ of 182 is the smartest 1 in every 40 million people. Anyone who thinks Clinton is anywhere near that intelligent is a moron. His SAT scores (which at the time, correlated so well with IQ scores that they could be considered IQ scores)tell us he's a 1 in a 100 level intellect (IQ 135) not a 1 in 40 million level intellect. It's possible that his SAT scores underestimated him, but there's no evidence that any of these presidents had an IQ above the 1 in a 1000 level (IQ 147). If people feel Clinton was the smartest president and that his SAT scores underestimated him, they should try to get a hold of his LSAT scores for Yale law to see if those are any better. But taking absurd nonsense like this report seriously indicates a fundamental lack of intelligence.

Even if the study were real, no sane psychologist thinks you can accurately determine someone's IQ this way. Lots of extremely brilliant people write crap and produce no scholarly work at all. And how is it fair to judge Bush by the transcripts of him speaking off the cuff, and others by written work they had plenty of time to think about. And is it just a coincidence that Clinton (the current darling of the Democrats) was rated twice as high Bush (the Democrat's current worst nightmare). Someone obviously has an axe to grind.

Also, rating JFK above 170 (above the one in a million level!) is also pure nonsense. His biography reports he was given an IQ test in school and scored 119.

Several of these presidents have IQ scores on record, and none of them are even close to these numbers.

It's really scary how easy it is to spread propoganda in the age of the world wide web. And it's scary that a supposedly intelligent newsgroup is so easy to manipulate.

Common sense is simply intelligence applied to practical everyday problems, so of course there's a strong connection between IQ and common sense. Of course lots of smart people fool around and lie about it, but people with high IQ's are usually way too smart to get caught.

Subject: Re: Raoul Xemblinosky Stripped Bare by Cockroach Roger, Even...
From: wilhelp@ix.netcom.com (Bill Palmer)
Date: 4 Oct 1997 21:31:13 GMT

This one (below) proves unusually risible because--
as talentless and ignorant a hack as Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams") has proven himself, it must be admitted that Raoul Xemblinosky represents the last person on the net who should be be casting aspersions
on the talents (or lack thereof) of others.

In fact, when one considers all of Xemblinosky's postings (literally many thousands) it is nearly impossible to locate ANY that are well-known!
The only famous threads he shows up on are the ones written by others (often by me) or those cases where Raoul pulls a "creative coup" and perhaps changes one or two words in a famous and
original subject line written by someone else
(often me). Yes, when it comes to newsgroup lines, Raoul is a parasitical "borrower" although--
to be fair--not nearly to the disgusting degree of Bloodsucker David Kendrick, the notorious (and most unwelcome!) "spittle-spray man" of alt.genius.bill-palmer.

Paul Simon, the songwriter, once said, "The man
ain't got no culture," and--referring now to our pitiful charlatan Raoul--we could add (if you will allow us our quadruple negative) "No, nor no
talent, neither."

Sapient (and even not-so-sapient) readers have observed
before that of all frequent Usenet posters, it would seem that only Louse-monkey John Hausmann ranks with Raoul Xemblinosky in showing a veritable mania for posting
and getting his name around the net while saying nothing original or even memorable.

I have pointed out before that it seems very likely that of all Usenet posters, the term "posting

non-writer" could be most fairly applied to both Raoul and the Louse-monkey Hausmann.

How might such a serious allegation be proven? Easy.

Take the total word count in the person's archive. Then count the words actually owned (written) by the person whose name is on the archive. Use a ratio with the reduced fraction representing what the person actually wrote above the figure representing ALL the words in the person's archive. People who show a wide differential are very likely "posting non writers." They rely heavily on "OPW'S" (Other Peoples' Words) for their Usenet article content.

I would be very surprised to find that Xemblinosky or Louse-monkey have written even ten-percent of the words in their respective archives. They both love to get their names around the net, but they lack either the education, talent, guts (or, very likely, all of those things) required for being a real Usenet writer. Cowardly frauds and shitasses like themselves merit the contempt of the entire Usenet community. In fact, they deserve to be tarred and feathered and ridden out of Usenet with our jeers. Especially Raoul Xemblinosky.

Such losers will often post long articles by others, adding a few trite words of their own to show the world how "witty" these "posting non-writers are." They rely almost totally on the words of others. (Cockroach Wemyss is equally bad. He has made his "name" by reposting the words of others since doing that is the only way the talentless Rog [Wemyss] can post an original thought under his own name.)

Ironically, regarding the most famous posting that Raoul Xemblinosky ever made, he can only claim to own a small fraction of it. I refer to his crude "song parody" of "That's Amore" (which was supposedly about me, although it only hurled vicious insults and did not contain one line that referred to any of my actual posting behavior).

Anyway, all Raoul did was begin the "parody" with a few clumsy stanzas. Then, other vindictive losers joined in with their own pathetic efforts. All loser Raoul now owns is the few stanzas he started with, because the other other "satirists" own the tripe they added. So you see, our talentless unfortunate does not even own the most well-known thing he has ever come up with in Usenet.

In fact, it would not be exaggerating much to say that Xemblinosky embodies the tatterdemalian soul of intellectual and creative impoverishment, yet this shabby fraud continues to inflict his tripe on the Usenet readership. That's criminal.

Raoul loves to typo-pounce because he thinks doing so deflects from the fact that he has no talent. His logic proves very poor. Actually, his typo-pouncing efforts merely remind readers of his inability to handle higher forms of flaming. (I know that right now you must be thinking, "This Xemblinosky sure sounds like an obnoxious shitass." I fully agree with you in those sentiments.)

One memory I have of Xemblinosky relates to the time I posted my "I live in Paris, 1900" in the newsgroup soc.culture.french. Now, my article was no masterpiece. It was not intended to be one. Nonetheless, no one can argue that my post was not original, and many found it well worth reading.

Yet, by coincidence, what turned up on my newsreader, literally next to my own s.c.f article? Lo and behold, an "article" by our famous non-writer, Raoul Xemblinosky! He was blabbering some nonsense about "netcops." I couldn't make head nor tails of his "point," and I strongly suspect no one else could either. His drivel had nothing to do with French culture. But "small details" like effective communication don't generally concern loser Raoul-- what DOES interest him is seeing how many postings he can make in diverse (and mostly irrlevant regarding his "message") newsgroups. Again, the man DOES seem to have a mania for getting his name (such as it is) around. The fact that he earns the contempt of most Usenet readers does not trouble him.

I might add that when I derided Raoul's foolish behavior in soc.culture.french, he launched a vicious attack on the French in order to try and justify his asinine actions. On top of that, he even made a bigger fool of himself by attacking a list of world famous French writers when it was clear that he had never read ONE of them, in English, French or any other language! If keyboarding, posting shit could be frozen into Popsicles and given to perverts like Roger Wemyss to lick, Raoul Xemblinosky would soon vanish from the net.

[For new readers: Poltroon Raoul Xemblinosky gets prominent mention in my original poem, "Piss Stains on the Wall of Time" available through Dejanews. In fact, THAT is one of his many beefs with me.]

With reference to Xemblinosky and Roger Wemyss (aka "Williams"), all this sounds like the pot accusing the kettle of lacking
talent...

"Below you will find the headers and traceroute information on one Raoul Xemblinosky (bogus name) who has been continually abusing his usenet privileges and attempting to create flame wars by impersonating different users and crossposting to irrelevant newsgroups. He also seems to change his address at every chance he gets possibly violating his terms of agreements. I'm relatively sure you have heard of this individual in the past as he seems to be rather proud of his usenet accomplishments. If you will visit http://iacw.usenet-performance-art.org/ you can see some of his history. The archives will also display a representation of his method of operation. He is a bully and recruits other users to join him in his endeavors to destroy normally docile and helpful newsgroups. Take a look at alt.rollingstones and you can see what I mean.

The regular users in alt.music.mp3.napster have killfiled him, but there are a lot of new users coming to the group for assistance and these trolls, led by Raoul, have forced these users to drop the newsgroup from their subscriptions,
thus missing an opportunity to solve their problems.

I don't know if this person has done anything that would require his access to be cut, but it would doing a great service to usenet if it happened."

In article <9jd8840agk@enews1.newsguy.com>, Charlie says...

This whole jeremiad has an awful odor about it. If John Mackay (FCC address in Oregon) is on full time active duty, he has at best 30 days of leave every year. Is his "home" in Iowa or does he come "home" to Oregon? How does he control the repeater the other 335 days of the year? (He is obligated by FCC rules to control it, you know.)

Ham (HF) Radio Instruction Manual

IMPORTANT! READ THIS BEFORE USING YOUR NEW RADIO!

Congratulations! You have purchased an extremely fine HF radio in a strikingly attractive designer case that would give you thousands of years of trouble-free service, except that you undoubtedly will destroy it via some typical bonehead ham maneuver. Which is why we ask you to:

PLEASE FOR GOD'S SAKE READ THIS OWNER'S MANUAL CAREFULLY BEFORE YOU UNPACK THE RADIO. YOU ALREADY UNPACKED IT, DIDN'T YOU? YOU UNPACKED IT AND PLUGGED IT IN AND TURNED IT ON AND FIDDLED WITH THE BUTTONS, AND NOW YOUR CHILD, THE SAME CHILD WHO ONCE SHOVED A POLISH SAUSAGE INTO YOUR VIDEO CASSETTE RECORDER AND SET IT ON "FAST FORWARD", THIS CHILD ALSO IS FIDDLING WITH THE BUTTONS, RIGHT? WE MIGHT AS WELL JUST BREAK THESE RADIOS RIGHT AT THE FACTORY BEFORE WE SHIP THEM OUT, YOU KNOW THAT?!

We're sorry. We just get a little crazy sometimes because we're always getting back "defective" rigs where it turns out that some dumb ham inadvertently bathed the device in acid for six days. So, in writing these instructions, we naturally tend to assume that your skull is filled with dead insects, but we mean nothing by it. OK? Now let's talk about:

1. UNPACKING THE RADIO:
The rig is encased in foam to protect it from the Shipping People, who like nothing more than to jab spears into outgoing boxes. PLEASE INSPECT THE CONTENTS CAREFULLY FOR GASHES OR IDA MAE BARKER'S ENGAGEMENT RING, WHICH SHE LOST LAST WEEK, AND SHE THINKS MAYBE IT WAS WHILE SHE WAS PACKING RADIOS.
